SENATE DEFEATS TREATY, VOTE 49 TO 35; ORDERS IT RETURNED TO THE PRESIDENT; GERMAN DISORDERS GROW, HUNDREDS SLAIN

RED ARMY CAPTURES ESSEN

HUNDREDS DEAD IN LEIPSIC

EBERT APPEALS TO ALLIES

Workers in Saxony Demand a Soviet Congress—Berlin Has Scores Killed in Clashes.

BERLIN, March 19.—Essen surrendered this afternoon to armed workmen after violent fighting in which it is estimated that 300 persons were killed.

The street fighting at Kiel only ended this evening, after great damage was caused by mortars. It is believed the number of victims in the disorders there was very great.

It is reported that Communists have occupied five railroad stations to the east of Berlin and that troops are being rushed thitner in armored cars.

STUTTGART, March 19 (Associated Press).—The Ruhr district is aflame with Bolshevism, according to official reports.

Essen has been taken by a Red army and General von Water's local troops are awaiting reinforcements.

Thuringia is said now to be under control of Government troops.

HAMBURG, March 19.—Government troops in the station here were disarmed this morning without bloodshed and sailors hoisted the white flag over the cruisers Schwartzburg, Regensburg and Wittlesbach.

The captain of the Wittlesbach committed suicide by shooting.

LEIPSIC, March 19 (Associated Press).—Although an agreement had been reached on Wednesday night between leaders of the workmen and the military authorities for a peaceful settlement of the prevailing situation, the workers yesterday rejected the agreement and fighting was resumed.

Major Gen. Pilsch, commanding the city, late yesterday brought a Reichswehr brigade into the city to relieve the hard-pressed volunteers, and proclaimed a reinforced state of siege. Fighting continued throughout the day and late into the night, workmen everywhere building barricades. In the course of the afternoon a military airplane dropped bombs on Johannisplatz; another airplane was shot down by the workmen.

The General Post Office, railroad station, Town Hall and other public buildings are still in the hands of the volunteer forces.

Losses in the fighting are said to be extremely heavy, and rumors of hundreds killed and wounded in various parts of the city are met on every hand.

1,000 Reported Killed in Kiel.

COBLENZ, March 19 (Associated Press).—Unconfirmed reports received here are to the effect that 1,000 persons have been killed at Kiel. It is said the situation there is grave.

The Communists are reported to be gaining headway in Saxony and Westphalia. A Soviet republic has been proclaimed at Chemnitz and Plauen.

In the Ruhr Basin the Majority Socialists have given an order to end the strike, but it is doubted if the order is obeyed by the Communists, who continue masters of the situation at Bochum, Dortmund and Gelsenkirchen. On the other hand the Communists have been badly beaten at Solingen and Elberfeld, where they put 5,000 men in line.

LONDON, March 19.—Private advices from Paris state that the Ebert Government has asked the Allies to permit it to send German troops to put down Bolshevism in parts of the neutral zone which was established by the Peace Treaty and in which the Germans were not to have troops.

There is no intimation what action the Allies will take in this matter.

COPENHAGEN, March 19.—A dispatch from Munich, Bavaria, dated Thursday, says Premier von Kahn, in addressing the Landtag on events in Nuremberg, said detachments of some 1,500 revolutionary sailors fired on a detachment of regulars from windows of houses, wounding several pedestrians. In the afternoon a large crowd tried to storm the police station, and twenty-

AMERONGEN, March 19 (Associated Press).—Evidence that an extremely close guard has been placed by the Dutch Government on former Emperor William was obtained today.

Police officers were detailed to follow him, a few steps in the rear, as he walks about the garden of the Bentinck Castle here.

THE HAGUE, March 19 (Associated Press).—It is believed that the former Crown Prince Frederick William was asked today to give a pledge to his father not to mix in German politics and to consent to definite internment.

Secretary General Kan of the Dutch Government went to Wieringen today and conferred with Frederick William and Burgomaster Pereboom.

JUNKER FAREWELL A BERLIN TRAGEDY

BERLIN, March 18.—As the Junker army evacuated Berlin this afternoon a tragic encounter took place at the corner of Wilhelmstrasse and Unter den Linden in front of the Adlon Hotel. A vast crowd had assembled in Unter den Linden to see Kapp's beaten force leave the city. At about 4:30 o'clock the masses of people who had been rather too articulate became somewhat threatening in their demeanor and numerous salvos were fired into the air by the soldiers. This sent the crowd rushing backward for a while, but it soon gathered again. In more subdued mood it watched the troops tramp out of Wilhelmstrasse across the Pariserplatz and through the Brandenburg Gate.

It was just a few minutes before 5 o'clock when the tragic incident occurred. Some one, it is said, senselessly enough, waved a handkerchief from an upper window of the hotel. This rather angered the crowd, a section of which rushed the entrance and made its way into the hall of the hotel. Some damage was done there but the people were persuaded to leave or were hustled out into the street. As they left the building some soldiers near at hand, evidently under the impression that the crowd was about to rush the outgoing troops, opened fire. Most of the shots went in the air but a number were fired into the crowd.

Panic Among the Masses.

The scene which followed was a terrible one. I witnessed it from a window overlooking Wilhelmstrasse and Unter den Linden. The people on Unter den Linden and thickly packed on both sides of the Pariserplatz either fled or fell face downwards on the muddy ground. It seemed that from all sides rifles and

INDICT A. D. PORTER, ENRIGHT'S DEPUTY, IN VICE INQUIRY

SAY HE FORBADE ARRESTS

TWO ACCUSERS SHIFTED

Third Deputy Police Commissioner Augustus Drum Porter was indicted yesterday by the regular Grand Jury for neglect of duty on the testimony of three detectives, who said that they arrested him and an unidentified woman in an apartment in West Ninety-sixth Street in a raid on March 12, 1919, but released them when the man produced credentials as Third Deputy Commissioner and ordered them to drop the matter.

Police Commissioner Enright promptly suspended Porter when notified of his indictment. A bench warrant issued for Porter did not reach him, but Frank Hendrick of 120 Broadway, his lawyer, promised to produce him in court at 10 o'clock this morning. Through his lawyer Porter said that he was entirely innocent and the victim of "a frame-up."

"You remember how Assistant District Attorney Smith was making wholesale raids during the war," Mr. Hendrick added. "He was ready then to arrest the whole town. Well, about the same kind of thing is going on today. All sorts of wild charges are being made for the purpose of making a sensation. Mr. Porter is absolutely innocent of the charge against him and will speedily prove it. He did not even know what he was accused of when I first talked to him today. If he was guilty of the things charged by these policemen he would be a lunatic, not a criminal. Commissioner Porter has been in charge of the police trials at Police Headquarters and that has made him a shiping mark. He is not arrested as an individual but as a unit in a movement or drive in the District Attorney's office."

Neglect of duty by a public official is punishable by a maximum of three years in prison and a fine of $500. The specific charge against the Third Deputy is that in the circumstances in which he was alleged to have been found by the detectives it became his duty to order the detectives to arrest him and his alleged companion, and that he not only neglected to do this but gave orders of opposite tenor.

Accusers Recently Transferred.

The indictment was returned at 1:10 P. M., immediately after the Grand Jury had heard the three detectives making the charges—Detectives Hilbert Wheelwright, Frederick Sorger and Matthew J. Cushing, who were attached to the Special Service Squad of Inspector Thomas V. McDonald at the time the arrest was made. After working on Inspector McDonald's staff for two years Wheelwright and Sorger were suddenly reduced and transferred to patrol last Wednesday. These two policemen, according to a member of the District Attorney's staff, had

Duchess of Marlborough Takes First Step Toward Divorce After Years of Separation

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 19.—A petition for restitution of conjugal rights brought by Consuelo Spencer Churchill, Duchess of Marlborough, against her husband, the Duke of Marlborough, will be heard by the President of the Divorce Division on Monday afternoon.

The suit for restitution of conjugal rights, in the case of a woman, is usually a preliminary to divorce proceedings. If the court grants her an order for such restitution and the husband refuses to obey, it is possible for the wife to establish technical desertion. This will entitle her to a judicial separation or, coupled with proof of misconduct, to a divorce.

During many years there has been much talk about matrimonial differences in this ducal household. In 1906 a private agreement to separate was arrived at by the Duke and Duchess, and it became known that this agreement was reached as a result of the intervention of King Edward.

When the Duchess, who was Consuelo Vanderbilt, came to England from New York twenty-five years ago, she was welcomed into English society with open arms, and soon earned the good graces of the royal family. At the christening of their elder son, the Marquess of Blandford, who was recently married to the Hon. Mary Cadogan, niece of the Earl of Cadogan, King Edward, then Prince of Wales, acted as godfather, and Queen Victoria sent a telegram of congratulation.

The Duchess is probably one of the cleverest and most intelligent society women of the day. In 1918 she was elected to the London County Council as a progressive member for Southwark.

The Duke, whose family dates back to the reign of Edward IV., is the owner of more than 20,000 acres and the splendid old palace of Blenheim. In 1917 the Duke was appointed Parliamentary Secretary of the Board of Agriculture, a post which he resigned a year later.

Japan Spurs Shantung Parley; Ready for Big Concessions

TOKIO, March 13 (Associated Press).—It is understood here that the Government has instructed Yukichi Obata, the Japanese Minister in Peking, to begin negotiations immediately for a speedy settlement of the Shantung question, as the views of the Japanese and Chinese Commissioners appointed to investigate have been found to concur in the main points, and Japan is ready to make large concessions toward an amicable solution.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 19.—The National Assembly of China, sitting in Peking, is reviewing a request from the Japanese Minister at Peking for opening negotiations for a settlement of the Shantung question, according to a dispatch dated March 17, to the Sai Oai Yet Bo, the Chinese World, a daily newspaper here.

STANDARD OIL GETS $25,000,000 LEASE

In probably the largest leasing transaction ever closed in the history of New York the Standard Oil Company of New York acquired yesterday from E. E. Smathers the Welles Building at 14 to 20 Broadway for a term of ninety-nine years at a net rental of $250,000 a year, indicating a rental for the term of approximately $25,000,000. The lessee will pay the taxes and all other carrying charges. The magnitude of the transaction may even eclipse the recently reported lease by J. P. Morgan & Co. of the Mills Building, at 11 Broad Street, which was taken for a term of eighty-four years at a figure not yet announced.

The Welles Building is nine stories in height covering a plot with a Broadway frontage of 89.5 feet, running back 154.2 feet, with an "L" measuring 115.6 feet to 7 Beaver Street, where it has a frontage of 51.2 feet. The building entirely surrounds the northeast corner of Broadway and Beaver Street, occupied by the home of the New York Produce Exchange Bank, a twelve-story building, on a plot 73.7 by 32.8, and two five-story structures on Beaver Street, owned by George F. Lockwood.

Bank Property Sold.

The bank property was sold yesterday to an unnamed buyer, rumored to be the Standard Oil Company, official announcement being made that the Board of Directors of the bank had leased for a term of years quarters in the new Cunard Building, under construction at 25 Broadway. The bank will remain in its present quarters until May, 1921.

Last month the twenty-story office building at 42 Broadway was reported sold to the Standard Oil Company by the Lower Broadway Realty Company. The structure occupies a plot with a frontage of 116.3 feet on Broadway, running through to New Street, where the frontage is 115 feet. To the north of this building is the low Standard Arcade Building, also owned by the Standard Oil Company and also having a New Street frontage. Negotiations are reported pending for the sale of the Hudson Building at 32 Broadway, 53.6 by 207 by irregular, located between the present Standard Oil Building at 26 and the big building at 42, and it is probable that the Standard Oil Company intends to add this property to its large holdings at this point.

Biggest Broadway Frontage.

Closing of these deals will give the oil company control of the largest Broadway frontage in the city, beginning at Beaver Street and running north 528.10 feet. The only properties in the block bounded by Broadway, Beaver, New and Exchange Place not owned by the purchasing company will be Exchange Court, a twelve-story structure at 52 Broadway, corner of Exchange Place, and the seven-story Lisbon Building at the northern corner of New and Beaver Streets. The Standard Oil Company holdings in the block will aggregate in value to $12,000,000.

No information was obtainable yesterday regarding the use to which this enormous site would be put. If a building project were undertaken it would make available for improvement the largest individual building plot in the entire downtown district.

Mr. Smathers, the seller, has figured within recent weeks in several of the biggest transactions of the year. Last week he paid $650,000 for the Lyric

MAYOR OF CORK IS SHOT DEAD BY MASKED MEN

VICTIM A SINN FEINER

MESSAGE BY DE VALERA

LONDON, Saturday, March 20.—Thomas MacGurin, Lord Mayor of Cork, was shot dead at 1 o'clock this morning.

The revolver was fired by masked persons whose identity is unknown. They entered his residence, and after firing the shot, escaped in an automobile.

Half a dozen men knocked at the door of the home of the Lord Mayor. Mrs. MacGurin opened the door and the men rushed in.

Some of them held her while others ran upstairs to the Mayor's bedroom. They took him to the landing and shot him in the chest. They then fled in haste.

Mrs. MacGurin telephoned immediately for a doctor and a priest. The Mayor died soon after the arrival of the priest.

Mayor MacGurin, who was a prominent Sinn Feiner, was interned after the Easter rebellion.

The latest previous outrage in the Cork district was perpetrated on the night of March 11, when Constable Scully was shot at Glenmire. Two soldiers and several civilians were killed by gangs in the same vicinity the day before.

Twenty-seven police and Government employes had been assassinated in Ireland since Jan. 1, 1919, according to an announcement made in Commons on Thursday by the Chief Secretary for Ireland.

LONDON, Saturday, March 20.—The Government is taking special precautions against possible outbreaks in Ireland on Easter Monday, accordnig to The Daily Mail, which asserts that the authorities have known for some time that the Sinn Fein has considered the possibility of armed risings and drawn up its plans.

"It is not believed, however," the newspaper adds, "that the movement is sufficiently supported to be really formidable, although it is possible there may be sporadic outbreaks in certain districts.

"Precautions also have been taken at Glasgow, where the Sinn Feiners boast the possession of arms and ammunition and threaten a disturbance on Easter Monday. It is rumored that the prospective trouble in Manchester and Liverpool is not expected to materialize."

Referring to the notification given by Allen Clement Edwards, Liberal, to The London Times of his intention to ask the Premier on Monday whether the Government is informed of risings planned for Easter Monday and whether the navy has seized a consignment of arms and ammunition from Germany, The Daily Mail declares that no arms from Germany have been seized and that the Government is convinced Germany is in no wise implicated in any Sinn Fein plot.

LONDON, March 19.—Serious statements regarding the continued operations of the republican army in Ireland were made in the Divisional Court here today when the question was raised as to the power to retain Irishmen in prison without trial under the Defense of the Realm act, which was a war measure.

The Attorney General, upholding the regulation, said that the Irish republican army had continued its preparations with the avowed object of establishing a republic, and he declared that the present state of Ireland was due to these

Lodge Is Willing to Take Treaty Into Campaign; Hitchcock Glad That Reservations Are Nullified

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—After the adjournment of the Senate tonight Senator Lodge, leader of the Republican majority, said:

"The treaty is gone. It has been rejected by the Senate and sent back to the President. If the President chooses to return it to the Senate it will have to go through the same process as before. If it goes to the Foreign Relations Committee it will be treated as new business. If the President desires to make a campaign issue on the treaty the Republicans are willing to meet that issue."

Senator Hitchcock, leader of the Democratic minority, said:

"I am glad that there was not a vote for ratification which carried the Lodge reservations, but the result was about what I expected. The treaty is now before the President and if there is to be further action he must take the initiative."

BRYAN SAYS PEOPLE WILL SAVE TREATY

Believes Public Sentiment Will Compel Senate to Accept League of Nations Also.

ATTACKS PARTY LEADERS

Unofficial State Convention Not Representative on Liquor Issue, He Says.

Belief that defeat of the Peace Treaty in the Senate is not final, and that the sentiment of the American people will force the Senate to ratify the compact and permit the entrance of the United States into the League of Nations, was expressed last night by William J. Bryan in a speech at a dinner in honor of his sixtieth birthday at the Aldine Club, 200 Fifth Avenue.

Before discussing the treaty Mr. Bryan had talked forcibly on prohibition and had approved the assertion of Samuel Seabury, the toastmaster, that the declaration of the recent Democratic State Convention favoring the repeal of the prohibition amendment misrepresented the Democratic Party. Mr. Bryan declared that prohibition was here to stay, and that no group of Eastern Democratic leaders would be able to commit the Democratic Party to a policy of opposition.

Mr. Bryan's assertion that the American people would see to it that the Peace Treaty was ratified came with rather dramatic suddenness at the end of his speech. He stated that he believed the constitutional provision, requiring the vote of two-thirds of the Senate to ratify a treaty, should be changed so that merely a majority was required.

"If a majority has a right to take this country into war a majority should have the right to take the country out of war," said Mr. Bryan. "I think that the controversy over the treaty that has lasted eight months is a disgrace to this nation."

"It has come out exactly right," called a voice in the audience.

Mr. Bryan attempted to continue by saying that the Senate had wasted time in needless debate while the nations of Europe were drifting toward war, when there came another interruption:

"The treaty is dead."

"I am not willing to believe that it is dead," replied Mr. Bryan.

"Read the morning newspaper," was the rejoinder.

Invokes Power of People.

"The treaty has been defeated—I know that," said Mr. Bryan, "but I believe that the people of the United States are greater than the United States Senators and can make them ratify.

"I believe that our boys can do more for peace by their influence now than 2,000,000 of them in arms can do a year from now. I think that the world needs us and that, if we refuse to do our duty and enter the League of Nations and if we are foolish enough to permit conditions in Europe to continue there will be a new war over there. Who can say whether the sparks kindled by such a conflagration might not cross the Atlantic?"

Mr. Bryan asserted that there had been unnecessary stress upon Article X., which he said would never be needed unless the moral force contained in the rest of the covenant of the League of Nations failed. He stated that he believed that the provisions for nine months of discussion before a declaration of war, the abolition of secret treaties and the encouragement to disarmament, contained in the covenant, were sufficient alone to justify the League. "The world's back is broken by war expenses," he said. "If we now go to work and build up great armies and navies, the result will be nothing but bankruptcy.

"The Senator who thinks that the American people will be willing to spend

AMERICA ISOLATED WITHOUT TREATY

STILL TECHNICALLY AT WAR

Hope Expressed That Wilson Will Take Steps to Reestablish Relations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—In its international aspects the rejection of the Versailles Treaty by the Senate leaves the United States in an awkward position. America's isolation is now a reality. Not only is this Government not a member of the world league, designed to prevent future conflicts between nations, but it is also still at war with Germany.

A secondary effect of the Senate's action will be the withdrawal of the United States Government from participation in the arrangements now being discussed at Paris for the disposition of the Turkish Empire.

And this is not all. The feeling that has grown up in Europe on account of Senate opposition to the League of Nations is bound to be emphasized by today's action. President Wilson, who fought to have the League covenant accepted, is now in disfavor in France and Italy and is being criticised.

Recent expression in the European press has indicated that America itself was in disfavor. It might be going too far to say that the United States has lost the friendship of the world, but to say that the world's friendship has declined would not be far wrong.

Apparently nobody knows what course President Wilson will take now that the treaty has been rejected. If the Senate, as seems likely, follows its action of today by adopting Senator Knox's resolution declaring that a state of peace exists between the United States and Germany, the President is practically certain to ignore it. He holds that this is an act constitutionally vested in the Executive and that no action by Congress can compel him to follow any other course than that which he chooses.

There is a general opinion in administration circles that the President should act at once to end the anomalous condition of affairs that exist between the United States Government and the nations against which it declared war. He will be advised that negotiations for a peace should be entered into at once with Germany, Austria and Hungary, and at the same time the United States should begin exchanges with its late allies to obtain their assent to the protection of the rights guaranteed the United States in the treaties with the governments with which it was at war.

The United States has no diplomatic or consular officer, as such, in Germany, Austria or Hungary. It has "Commissioners," so called, at Berlin, Vienna and Budapest, but it can conduct no diplomatic relations or business relations with any of these countries until a treaty of peace has been formally ratified. In these circumstances American trade with the former Central Powers will be greatly handicapped. Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan and other allied powers are in a position to engage in the conduct of trade and commerce with Germany and Austria, but the United States is not.

It will take a long time to negotiate a treaty of peace with Germany. In the meantime American trade with that country must suffer to the extent that the former allies of the United States will be in position to build up trade relations.

The President has no power to proceed under the terms of the treaty, now that it is rejected. He must, if he takes any positive action, enter into new negotiations with Germany. To what extent the rejection of the treaty will affect the status of the American occupation of part of the Rhine provinces is something that only the future can determine. For the present the United

LACK 7 VOTES TO RATIFY

23 DEMOCRATS OPPOSE

PEACE DECLARATION URGED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The Senate this evening, for a second time, refused to ratify the treaty of peace with Germany, and sent it back to President Wilson.

By a vote of 49 to 35, seven short of the necessary two-thirds of the members present, the Senate rejected the Lodge resolution of ratification.

It then adopted a resolution, proposed by Senator Lodge, to return the treaty to the President, advising him formally that the Senate had failed to advise and consent to its ratification.

The resolution reads:

"That the Secretary of the Senate be instructed to return to the President the Treaty of Peace with Germany signed at Versailles on the twenty-eighth day of June, 1919, and respectfully inform the President that the Senate has failed to ratify said treaty, being unable to obtain the constitutional majority required therefor."

Following this action, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, a Democrat, moved to reconsider the vote by which ratification failed. A lively parliamentary battle followed, in which the Republican mild reservationists joined the Democrats in an effort to keep the Senate from creating a condition which prevented further action on the treaty at this time. A ruling by Senator Cummins, who was in the chair, and refusal of the mild reservationists to co-operate further with the Democrats unless they were assured that the second vote on the treaty would be taken at once, cut short Mr. Robinson's efforts.

The Senate adjourned to meet again Monday, after the treaty had been ordered to be returned to the President. As that will have been done by Monday, the motion to reconsider cannot be made again, Senator Lodge said after the voting, because the Senate cannot reconsider action on a question over which, by its own vote, it has relinquished control.

What President Wilson will do now is problematical. No statement is obtainable at the White House concerning the rejection of the treaty.

On the resolution of ratification fourteen more Democrats voted to accept the treaty with the Lodge reservation than on the occasion of the former vote, just four months ago. On Nov. 19, when the Senate rejected the Lodge ratifying resolution by 41 to 51, but seven Democratic Senators voted to ratify: Gore, Myers, Owen, Pomerene, Shields, Smith of Georgia and Walsh of Massachusetts.

The roll call upon the Lodge resolution of ratification was as follows:

Twelve Senators were absent or not voting. As a two-thirds vote was necessary to ratify, pairs were grouped in the ratio of two for ratification to one against. Senator Penrose, Republican, of Pennsylvania, was paired against ratification with Senators Harding, Republican, of Ohio and Nelson, Republican, of Minnesota, who were for ratification. Senator Fall, Republican, of New Mexico was paired against ratification with Senators Newberry, Republican, of Michigan and McCumber, Republican, of North Dakota, who were for ratification. Senator Poindexter, Republican, of Washington was paired against ratification with Senators Cummins, Republican, of Iowa and Townsend, Republican, of Michigan, who were for ratification. Senator Smith, Democrat, of Arizona was paired against ratification with Senators Gerry, Democrat, of Rhode Island and Jones, Democrat, of New Mexico, who were for ratification.

Interest in the vote on the resolution of ratification centred in the Democratic attitude, as it was clear that unless a considerable number of them refused longer to accept the views of President Wilson, there could be no ratification by the Senate. Long before the vote was taken today Senators knew that the Democrats would not bolt the President in sufficient numbers to provide the needed two-thirds.

Fight Over Reconsideration.

The Senate spent a listless day listening to speeches, but shortly after 6 P. M. a quorum call brought more than eighty Senators into the chamber, and the cry of "vote" was raised at once. The roll call on ratification was taken without more debate.

After Senator Cummins had announced from the chair that the resolution, having failed to receive the required two-thirds, was rejected, Senator Lodge at once presented his resolution to return the treaty to the President.

On this the vote was 47 to 37. Six Democratic Senators voted for it, Gore, Kirby, Reed, Shields, Walsh of Massachusetts and Williams.

Immediately after the adoption of this resolution Senator Robinson of Arkansas, under a prior arrangement with Republican mild reservationists, moved that the Senate reconsider the vote by which it had failed to adopt the resolution of ratification.

Senator Watson of Indiana moved to lay Mr. Robinson's motion on the table. This motion failed because mild reservationists voted with the Democrats to prevent the Robinson motion from being thus summarily disposed of. The vote was 34 to 43 against tabling the motion. The result in detail was:

Senator Robinson, having vanquished those who wanted to prevent him from discussing the motion to reconsider, began to urge its adoption, when he was again halted by Senator Brandegee, who made a point of order against the motion.

He argued that the Senate had disposed of the matter by adopting the Lodge resolution to send the treaty to the President. After considerable parliamentary wrangling and the citing of precedents, Senator Cummins ruled, though he said that he did so with some doubt in his mind as to the correctness of his opinion, that the Robinson motion was not in order.

An appeal from this decision was expected, but to the surprise of Republican Senators it was not taken.

Debate on Second Treaty Vote.

Senator Lodge said that if any Senators wished to vote again on the question of ratification, he did not wish to prevent them from doing so, provided the vote could be taken without any further debate. He said that he would ask unanimous consent that the vote be reconsidered if Senators would agree in turn that the vote be taken at once.

That did not fit in with the plans of the Democratic Senators, who had hoped to leave the motion to reconsider pending until tomorrow or Monday.

The irreconcilables, who had won their victory and were not disposed to have it snatched from their grasp, also found the prospect of another vote not to their liking. Senators Borah and Brandegee pointed out that some Senators had left the chamber, and had even left Washington, as soon as possible after the vote on the resolution of ratification.

"I have no objection to voting on this question as long as the Secretary can call the roll," said Senator Borah. "But I do object to a vote, and I will not permit one tonight, unless the Senators who thought they had settled something and left the Senate are protected in their absence."

Senator Brandegee observed that as it seemed to be necessary to take several votes in the Senate to decide when a matter was disposed of, he would not object to Mr. Lodge's request for unanimous consent to reconsider, provided that the absentees were covered by suitable pairs arranged on the spot.

Hitchcock Urged Cooling Off.

"I see nothing to be gained by voting again immediately upon a question which we have just voted upon once," said Senator Hitchcock. "My idea was for a day or two to let us cool off. Maybe in that time the matter could be arranged."

"I should think that after a year of debate we might ask for an end of this sort of thing," retorted Senator Lodge. "To keep this thing here just to fool with it for a day or two more is not to be thought of."

Senator Norris then suggested the absence of a quorum with a view to learning, he said, how many Senators had left the chamber. After the roll call Senator Curtis, the Republican whip, stated that the call disclosed that Senators Ball, Republican, of Delaware, Sherman, Republican, of Illinois; McLean, Republican, of Connecticut, and Thomas, Democrat, of Colorado, were absent and unpaired.

Senator Robinson then moved again that the Senate reconsider the vote of ratification, and at the same time to request the President to return to the Senate the Treaty and accompanying papers. This was a way of repealing the Lodge resolution adopted earlier, which was an obstacle to the motion to reconsider under Senator Cumming's ruling.

Senator Lodge made a point of order against the motion, but before the chair could rule Senator Robinson withdrew his motion. He did this on receipt of information from the mild reservationists that they would not support his motion unless he agreed that the second vote be taken immediately on ratification. The mild group's decision to stand by Senator Lodge's wish was reached at a hastily summoned conference just outside the door of the Senate chamber.

Senator Lodge once again asked unanimous consent that the Senate reconsider its vote, repeating his statement that he was unwilling to debar any Senator from voting again on ratification. But Senator Hitchcock observed that there was nothing to be gained and he objected.

The hope of the mild reservationists and of some Democrats was that when the Senate reconsidered the vote by which it had rejected the ratifying resolution some Democrats would change their votes and support ratification. A number of Democrats were urged to do this on the ground that having made their record of consistency on the first roll call they could afford for the sake of ratifying the treaty and bringing to an end the state of war to vote against the President.

Peace Declaration Move Waits.

Senator Knox then obtained the floor and moved that the Senate proceed to consider his resolution declaring the state of war between the United States and Germany at an end, by repealing the resolution declaring war, adopted in April, 1917.

Senator Lenroot said he agreed with Senator Knox that the Senate should soon consider that or some similar measure, but he urged that it be deferred.

Senator Lodge thereupon moved that the Senate adjourn until Monday, at which time, he said, the Knox resolution probably would be called up. This motion prevailed.

Before it reached the question of ratification the Senate adopted the Lodge amendment to the preamble of the resolution of ratification, providing that silent acquiesence in the Senate reservations by the European powers would signify their acceptance of them. It rejected, by a vote of 41 to 42, Senator Brandegee's amendment, providing that the President must deposit notice of ratification within ninety days after the Senate acted.

Lenroot Assails President.

Senator Lenroot delivered a speech in which he said that President Wilson on his Western tour called Article XI. of the League covenant his favorite and the heart of the instrument, while in his more recent pronouncements to Democratic Senators on reservations he has insisted that Article X. was the covenant's heart.

"The President's illness has affected either the President's recollection of his judgment," said Senator Lenroot. "Has President Wilson changed his mind, or has his mind changed him?"

Mr. Lenroot said that the President was willing to see the treaty defeated rather than remove from American boys the obligation to go into foreign wars. He assailed Senators who voted the Irish self-determination reservation into the ratifying resolution, declaring that they did it in an effort "to put somebody in a hole," and told the Democrats that if they insisted on taking the treaty into the political campaign they would "insure a tremendous Republican victory."

"The stubbornness of President Wilson is indefensible," he said. "We will meet you in the campaign as being for America first; you will meet us as being advocates of the surrender of Americanism. We will meet you as Americans; you will meet us as internationalists."

Senator Edge of New Jersey urged ratification of the treaty and said that today's vote would show how many of those who voted yesterday for the Irish reservation were really friends of Ireland.

Walsh of Montana Switches.

Senator Walsh of Montana, who previously voted against ratification with the Lodge reservations, and who through both fights on the treaty had stood consistently with President Wilson, announced that he would vote this time to ratify. Mr. Walsh said that he had come to believe that he and others had overestimated the importance of Article X. The peace of the world would, in his opinion, be safeguarded as well under Articles XI., XII., XV. and XVI. as under Article X.

In a carefully prepared analysis of the various reservations Mr. Walsh gave his opinion of each. His speech was received with the greatest attention by Democrats.

Some thought that his change might cause a stampede to the Lodge reservations. This impression was heightened in some quarters when Senator Ransdell of Louisiana, another staunch Administration Senator, arose immediately afterward and announced that he, too, had decided to vote for ratification.

Senator Myers of Montana, Senator Walsh's Democratic colleague, in stating that he would again vote for ratification with the Lodge reservations, as he did last November, declared that the Allies were trying to make a travesty of the Peace Treaty and the League covenant at the very outset by yielding to Germany on the question of the Kaiser's trial and the trials of other Germans held guilty of complicity in offenses against international law.

"As well try a horse thief before twelve other horse thieves or a bootlegger before a jury of bootleggers or bartenders as to make the grotesque and monstrous agreement that Germany shall try the war criminals," said Mr. Myers.

He declared also that the United States should not help Germany with money or food.

Senators Pomerene and Owen also spoke briefly, and then Senator Hoke Smith delivered a long set speech of which he had given notice yesterday.

Treaty "Gone," Lodge Declares.

After the session ended Senators of both parties united in declaring that in their opinion the treaty was now dead to stay dead. Senator Reed of Missouri, a Democrat, one of the irreconcilables whose fight helped kill the treaty, said many Democrats who favored the treaty had told him that they were through with it unless the President, in sending it back to the Senate, should express willingness to accept the Lodge reservations.

Senator Smith of Georgia said after the vote that he felt certain it would be impossible to get the Senate to give serious consideration to the treaty further as long as the same circumstances existed concerning reservations.

Senator Simmons of North Carolina, another Democrat, expressed a like view.

Senator Lodge said that the treaty was "gone." He declared that if the President should decide to send it once more to the Senate with another request that it be ratified, it would remain a long time in the Committee on Foreign Relations.

Senator Borah and the other irreconcilables were exceedingly well satisfied. They said that the Senate's action was but a forecast of what the country would do when the clear-cut issue of ratification unqualified by any reservations or rejection was presented to it.

Senator Johnson of California, one of the irreconcilables, left at once to resume his western speaking tour against the league and in behalf of his own candidacy for the Republican nomination for President. Senator Borah will go soon, and Senator Reed is also about to begin a speaking tour.

TAFT FOR TREATY RECALL.

Asserts It was Done Once and Can Be Done Again.

GREENSBORO, N. C., March 19.—Former President Taft, who arrived here tonight from Winston-Salem, when told the Senate had failed to ratify the Peace Treaty, said:

"I have nothing to say, except I am very sorry. That seems to be to be all there is to say. However, although the Senate has refused to ratify it, the treaty may be brought back. It was once, you know. It might be again. I hope so."

COMMENT OF PRESS ON TREATY DEFEAT

Says Our Dead Died in Vain.

NEW YORK WORLD—There have been humiliating episodes in the history of the United States, but nothing else that was quite so humiliating as this; nothing else that so sharply challenged the capacity of the American people for self-government; nothing else that so sweepingly indicated their national self-respect and their sense of responsibility. On the whole, the records of the Senate since the Treaty of Versailles was formally submitted by President Wilson, July 10, 1919, constitute the most mortifying chapter in American history. * * * The commanding prestige that the United States won in the war has been frittered away, and the country, after all its superb achievements, stands before the world today discredited and without a real friend. This is the penalty of that betrayal of faith which is all concentrated in the repeated refusal to ratify the treaty of peace. So far as the United States Senate is concerned, the dead of this war have died in vain.

Says We Cannot Remain Aloof.

New York Tribune.

The treaty defeat is a tragedy whose poignancy is intensified by the sordidness of the final scene. * * * But from the beginning there was little chance. The inefficiency, all-sufficiency and self-sufficiency of our self-named only negotiator created a bedevilment whose waves never could be quieted. In the final hour, completing his disservice, he was able to command enough Senators to drive a knife into the heart of his own work. The result must not be read as meaning that this country withdraws from the world in selfish isolation. Aloofness is impossible. This is more true now than when McKinley and Roosevelt first said it. Possibly—no one can foresee the future—the influence of this country for good will not be less because informally applied. But the wiser course seems to be so seize the first opportunity, likely to be offered in a little more than a year, to adhere to the League.

Hopes Wilson Can Meet Situation.

BALTIMORE SUN—What is now to be done? Are we to make a separate peace with Germany and thus incur the charge of acting dishonorably toward the Governments with which we were associated in the war? Are we to let the matter drag on until the Presidential election in the foolish hope of getting a mandate from the people when there can be no mandate?

The treaty will be formally returned to President Wilson with the notification that the Senate has been unable to ratify it, the idea being to put the next move in the situation up to the President. That is a confession of the Senate's incapacity which ought to be galling to the majority leader, whose plan it is, but perhaps it is the best thing that can be done. Maybe the ill President will show himself able to function if the Senate is not.

Says Concessions Came Too Late.

CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER—Had the President been willing to leave to his friends in the Senate a larger measure of discretion as to when and how much to concede for the sake of getting the treaty through, it is possible that the Senate months ago would have ratified the instrument in a form acceptable to our Allies and the United States would have passed out of the twilight season between war and peace. The Democratic leadership in the Senate, doubtless responsive to the will of the White House, refused too long to entertain the idea of concession. The longer the friends of the treaty stood adamant, the firmer became its opponents.

Says Treaty Will Yet Triumph.

ST. LOUIS GLOBE-DEMOCRAT—Yet the treaty is not dead. It is beaten, but it is not destroyed. The thing which it embodies is greater than Woodrow Wilson, greater than the Republican Party or the Democratic Party, and somehow it yet will triumph.

Asserts Country Wants Treaty

PITTSBURGH DISPATCH—Popular pressure for decisive action one way or another may make itself felt and force the hands of all the politicians. The country is tired of the delay and wants the matter over and done with. It certainly does not want the uncertainty prolonged until after the elections.

"Turned Tail and Fled."

ATLANTA CONSTITUTION—"We are left in the attitude of having turned tail and fled from a situation which we more than any other nation involved were instrumental in bringing about. And the responsibility for it all rests with the United States Senate. * * * The Republican machine politicians and a few soured Democratic Senators have for the greater part of the last year been playing cheap politics with the Peace Treaty and the League of Nations covenant."

Calls Reservations Insulting.

NEW ORLEANS TIMES-PICAYUNE—"It is better to have no treaty than a treaty which carries with it reservations and expressions insulting to our former allies, a hodge-podge of pander to alien-minded vote-groups in America and of affront to the comrades in arms of a brief sixteen months ago. It is better to be out of a League of Nations than not to be whole-heartedly and sincerely in a League of Nations."

Blames the Democrats.

MINNEAPOLIS TRIBUNE—The onus of blame for the defeat of an Americanized treaty rests indisputably upon the man who signed the agreement in Paris and upon the worshippers at the shrine of Democratic partisanship.

'DEVIL WINNING THE PEACE.'

So Boston University's President Tells Historical Society.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, March 19.—"America and the Allies won the war, but it looks as if the devil was winning the peace," declared Dr. Lemuel H. Murlin, President of Boston University, today, addressing the New England Historical and Genealogical Society.

"Our job wasn't finished on armistice day; that was the day it began," Dr. Murlin continued. "We know who won the war all right, but who won the peace we haven't discovered yet. It is my general conclusion that the devil is winning it.

"We are responsible for the republics that have sprung up in Europe. We went to war 'to make the world safe for democracy,' and the people of those feeble republics are trying under great difficulties to capitalize our ideas.

"The world will have to deal with a republican Europe, a monarchical Europe, or a Bolshevist Europe. The wisest thing we can do is to stabilize these forty republics and save them from monarchy, on one hand, and Bolshevism on the other. For myself, I greatly fear Europe is drifting toward Bolshevism. I am afraid this pilgrim republic of ours, which was their inspiration, is giving them great disappointment."

VOTE SHOWS WILSON STILL PARTY LEADER

WILL BE CAMPAIGN ISSUE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—President Wilson apparently remains in control of the leadership of the Democratic Party as a result of the action taken today in the Senate, when the treaty of peace with the Lodge reservations to the League of Nations covenant, was rejected by a vote of 49 to 35.

While his position in demanding ratification without the Lodge reservations was openly and bitterly attacked by several of the Democratic Senators, including Hoke Smith of Georgia and Owen of Oklahoma, who expressed the opinion that such a stand would mean the ruin of the Democratic Party in the national election, the President held the support of Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, the minority leader, and Senators Underwood of Alabama, Glass of Virginia and Simmons of North Carolina.

This was a substantial victory for the Presidential prestige, as it had been broadly intimated during the last few weeks that when a final test was taken neither Glass nor Underwood would stand by him, and that the disintegration of the Wilson leadership would date from the moment the desertion of these Senators was publicly announced.

Hoped to Overturn White House Rule.

It was the hope of the opposition to President Wilson in the Senate that, as an effect of the attitude taken by W. J. Bryan and Herbert Hoover, the result in the Democratic ranks would overturn the rule of the White House.

There is no substantial reason for doubting that practically all of the Democratic Senators would have welcomed an opportunity today to vote for ratification with the Lodge reservations without facing the charge of having deserted the President and wrecking the party. But no such opportunity was offered, and in the emergency Hitchcock, Underwood and Glass stood pat and supported the Administration.

After the vote on ratification it is probable that the efforts of Democratic Senators to obtain another vote, as well as the stand taken by Senator Lodge in asserting that he was prepared to consent to another vote if it was taken immediately, were guided by political considerations, rather than by hope that another vote might change the result.

The opinion held generally tonight was that no future vote would result in ratification of the treaty, at least prior to the national election in November, and that the treaty and League of Nations were certain to loom up as a major issue in the campaign.

Knox Resolution Next.

There are few who believe that any action the Senate may take on Monday will alter the situation. It is felt that the next step will be a fight over the Knox resolution declaring that a state of peace exists between the United States and Germany.

In his letter read at the Jackson Day dinner here on Jan. 8 President Wilson asserted that ratification on a basis satisfactory to him was apparently impossible and that a great and solemn referendum to the people was essential to determine the treaty issue under the conditions which existed. It is the consensus that the President will make no further effort by returning the treaty to the Senate to obtain another result.

The situation leaves a remarkable line-up in the ranks of the Democratic Party so far as candidates for the nomination for President are concerned. On one side are W. J. Bryan, former Secretary of State; Senator Owen and Herbert Hoover, who have repudiated the stand taken by President Wilson and come out openly for ratification of the treaty with the Lodge reservations. On the other hand are A. Mitchell Palmer, Attorney General, who has said that he is in accord with the stand taken by the President, and W. G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury, who has stated that he believed the treaty should be adopted without reservations or, if there must be reservations, that they should be purely interpretative.

Hoke Smith and Owen of Oklahoma were the two Senators who were fearless in their opposition to the President today. Mr. Smith openly asserted his belief that the Democratic Party would go down to an overwhelming defeat in the election in November if it went before the people on the issue of absolute adherence of the United States to the conditions imposed by Article X. If the Democratic convention advocated Article X. as an issue to be put into the platform, he said, he believed it would be the duty of every good Democrat to express regret that such a convention had been held, and in his opinion every good Democrat ought to repudiate it.

Owen Refuses to be Bound.

Senator Owen was equally direct in his attack on the President. He went a bit further than Senator Smith by asserting that he refused to be bound by the request made by the White House, that Democratic Senators reject the Lodge reservations, he felt the Treaty should be adopted, with such reservations, despite any objections that might be made by President Wilson.

Senator Owen pointed out that sixty-five Senators had voted for the Lodge reservation before the test in regard to ratification came, but had been overruled by the President, and he believed the opinion of sixty-five Senators should receive the recognition and not the contemptuous disapproval of the President.

Senators Smith and Owen thus practically declared themselves outside of President Wilson's wing of the Democratic Party and served notice that they would not support a decision of the Democratic convention to put the adoption of Article X. without reservation before the people as a campaign issue.

That the convention would do just that if ratification of the treaty was defeated at this time was the opinion expressed by Senator Walsh of Montana, Democrat, who also voted for ratification with the Lodge reservations.

That an expression by the people could be given which would be decisive Mr. Walsh did not believe. It would be impossible, he said, to elect enough Democratic Senators to assure ratification, and he did not believe the Republican Senators who would be elected on a platform opposed to ratification without the Lodge amendments could be expected to accept the Wilson idea.

operations, which were still a menace to the Government of Ireland.

DE VALERA URGES A TE DEUM.

Cables Dublin That Senate's Irish Reservation Merits It.

Eamonn de Valera, "President of the Republic of Ireland," announced last night that the adoption by the United States Senate of a reservation to the Peace Treaty approving the principle of self-determination for the Irish people had fulfilled his mission in this country.

"President" de Valera's announcement was made in a cablegram to Arthur Griffith, "Acting President of the Republic of Ireland," Mansion House, Dublin, which read:

"A Te Deum should be sung throughout all Ireland. We thank Almighty God, we thank the noble American nation, we thank all the friends of Ireland here who have worked so unselfishly for our cause. We thank the heroic dead whose sacrifices made victory possible.

"Our mission has been successful. The principle of self-determination has been formally adopted in an international instrument. Ireland has been given her place among the nations by the greatest nation of them all."

The cablegram was signed "Eamonn de Valera and Colleagues."

Mexico Holds Americans.

AGUA PRIETA, Sonora, Mexico, March 18.—Edward Filmore and Herman Sidway, alleged American draft evaders, have been ordered removed from Hermosillo to Mexico City to face charges of conspiring to furnish arms and ammunition to Yaqui Indians, according to official advices received today from Hermosillo. The men, who gave New York City as their home, were arrested last week near the State line of Chihuahua by Mexican Government secret service agents.

TELLS WILSON'S PLAN FOR WORLD FINANCE

Tardieu Says the President Wanted League to be Agent to Produce Stability.

OPPOSES REVISING TREATY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 19.—That President Wilson agreed to the principle that the League of Nations should be the agency for the establishment and maintenance of world financial stability as well as world political stability, and that the treaty once ratified he planned a campaign to advocate these conditions, is asserted by Andre Tardieu in an article he has written for L'Illustration.

M. Tardieu's declaration is interesting in view of the present financial situation. He argues that had it not been for the turn that political events took in America, and for the President's illness, France might today be in a better economic situation.

M. Tardieu's statement appears at the end of a long article arguing against revision of the treaty. He contends that the trouble is not with the treaty, but with lack of solidarity among the Allies.

"Here is the great gap, and it is not in the treaty itself," he writes. "The treaty regulates only relations between Germany and the Allies. But peace, like war, has to be organized. It is only too clear that responsibility for the present situation grows out of events in Washington. Already, in the month of February, M. Clemenceau and his collaborators posed this vital financial question. Not without difficulty they had accepted the principle of a financial League of Nations. In June President Wilson, with his counsellor, Mr. Lamont, studied a plan of solidarity for which, after the treaty was ratified, he intended to make a campaign through the United States. Political fights and his sickness have ruled otherwise. Nothing has been done, and France at the hour I write finds her only guarantees in the treaty itself."

M. Tardieu devotes the first part of his article to answering the arguments of Lord Robert Cecil that the treaty should be revised. All these arguments, he says, were discussed again and again by the Supreme Council before they were included in the treaty. The last attempt was made by Brockdorff-Rantzau in May, when the treaty was handed to Germany.

Claims for revision of the financial clauses, M. Tardieu states, were discussed at one hundred and seventeen meetings of commissions and twenty meetings of the Supreme Council.

In the end, the letter drafted by Philip Kerr, Lloyd George's Private Secretary, was sent on June 16, which, after detailing practical factors accorded to Germany for the discharge of her debt, concluded: "The principles of the treaty are unchangeable."

Since then, M. Tardieu argues, nothing has modified the situation or necessitated revision. Nor does he agree that Germany cannot pay. During the last six months she has shown inert and passive resistance, but that does not disprove her ability.

M. Tardieu continues: "In May last Germany made a stupid offer to pay as her total obligation 100,000,000,000 marks in gold without interest during fifty years. That is less than 40,000,000,000 in actual value. None of her actions since that date have corrected the impression conveyed by that offer. She has not even profited by the right afforded her in the protocol of June 28 to formulate in four months after the signature proposals for the simplification and hastening of the settlement.

"She has waited for us to weaken. In this she has succeeded, as what has passed in London is proof. But it does not add to our confidence in her.

"Can one say that Germany is manifestly and certainly incapable of paying? Let us get at the statistics of Helferrich. He valued German production before the war at 43,000,000,000 marks and consumption at 33,000,000,000. The war has brought down these figures to 31,000,000,000 and 22,000,000,000. There remains an excess production of 9,000,000,000, of which the present value is doubled.

"Germany has lost much. But she is also a country whose population increased 52 per cent. in thirty-five years; a country whose coal production in the same period rose from 24,000,000 tons to 208,000,000; a country whose productivity per acre was in 1914 one hundred and fifty times greater than France. Lord Robert Cecil says that Germany will perish if we do not run to aid her. His statement lacks proof."

Mr. Tardieu goes on:

"Now, having looked at Germany, let us look at France. My honorable friend thinks that Germany will perish if the treaty is executed. But if the treaty is not executed what I ask will become of France, whose foreign debt at the present rate of exchange is 257,000,000,000 francs; of France who paid 4,000,000,000 francs in taxation and this year must pay 18,000,000,000; of France which has lost the industrial region which formerly produced 94 per cent. of our wool, 90 per cent. of our minerals, 70 per cent. of our sugar, 55 per cent. of our coal, 45 per cent. of our electric power; of France which has lost one-third of her merchant fleet, has a deficit of over 2,000,000,000 francs on railways and 20,000,000,000 francs on trade; of France which has lost on the field of batile 57 per cent. of her manhood between the ages of 19 and 34 years?

"That is why when one speaks of nations in danger as Lord Robert Cecil does one should think first of France, for France was not the aggressor. That is why in the work of consolidation France demands that she shall not by revision of the treaty be compelled to take second place behind Germany. We want Germany to work and to produce, but if to do so she must be aided, we ask (and it is our right) that she should not be aided at our expense. If to aid Germany there are appeals for economic solidarity we want to benefit by that solidarity before Germany does. Our ruins are her work. Her restoration ought not to come before ours.

"Lord Robert Cecil wishes to lighten the conditions created by the treaty. Will he permit me to tell him that the method he is taking is wrong and that others are open. The treaty is not perfect. On the other hand it is exactly in conformity with the basis of the armistice and with regard to Germany perfectly just, because (I quote from the letter of Philip Kerr) 'the heavy charges which it bears are imposed in the name of justice by the peoples whose welfare and prosperity have been gravely wronged by culpable acts which Germany can never completely repair.'

"But if with regard to Germany the financial clauses of the treaty were just, they were less so for the Allies. More exactly, (and Clemenceau twice declared it) they are incomplete. The unity of the nations maintained with regard to Germany by the Reparations Commission. The treaty safeguards nothing of the solidarity, so slowly and laboriously won, while the war lasted, with regard to raw materials, food supplies, credits and exchange.

It is at this point that Tardieu makes the statement with regard to President Wilson and the financial solidarity of the League of Nations. Then he goes on:

"Those who do not find it sufficient to adapt as time changes the circumstances of these organizations born of the Treaty of the League of Nations and the Reparations Commission have a clear duty: it is that, before they concern themselves with Germany, they offer to France security in exchange for those which their suggestion seems to give away.

Changes in British Cabinet.

LONDON, March 19.—Official announcement is made of the appointment of Thomas J. McNamara, Parliamentary Secretary to the Admiralty, to the portfolio of Minister of Labor, in succession to Sir Robert Stevenson Horne. Sir Robert will become President of the Board of Trade, succeeding Sir Albert Stanley. Charles A. McCurdy, at present Secretary to the Ministry of Food, is appointed Minister of Food. Mr. McCurdy succeeds George H. Roberts, who resigned as Food Minister early in February.

Transport to Bring Poles Back.

DANZIG, March 17.—The United States transport Antigon has arrived here, having been sent by the United States Government to take back to America the 8,000 demobolized Polish-Americans who fought in France under command of General Haller. The men, brought to Poland after the armistice was signed, will sail for the United States before the end of March, unless unforeseen railway difficulties arise.

Denies British Pledge to Belgium.

LONDON, March 19.—The correspondent of The London Times in Paris says he is in a position to state that there is no truth in a report from Brussels that the British Government has guaranteed military support to Belgium for five years in case of an attack by Germany, and also that France and Belgium have signed unconditionally a treaty of alliance for an indefinite period.

Old Guard Elects Officers.

At the annual election of the Old Guard Veteran Battalion, held at its headquarters, 229 West Fifty-first Street, the commanding officer, Major Edward Havemeyer Snyder, was again re-elected. This will be Major Snyder's third consecutive year as head of the Old Guard. Other officers elected were: Company A, Captain, Frank H. Clement; First Lieutenant, Mark J. King; Second Lieutenant, Charles A. Du Bois; Company B, Captain, Daniel M. Woods; First Lieutenant, Benjamin D. Jacobs; Second Lieutenant, Robert T. Rasmussen; Company C, Captain, C. Russell Hurd; First Lieutenant, John Bene; Second Lieutenant, Philip S. Tilden; Treasurer, George W. Abbott.

AMERICA ISOLATED WITHOUT TREATY

States occupies that territory by virtue of the armistice of Nov. 11, 1918. The armistice terms are still in force as far as the United States Government is concerned. This Government could insist that it has the right to retain its armed forces on the Rhine, and it is not likely that the European powers would object. But it would not cause surprise if President Wilson decided to withdraw the American troops, taking the position that the rejection of the treaty did not justify him in keeping them there any longer.

SAYS LUDENDORFF WAS THE WIREPULLER

By LEONARD SPRAY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, March 18.—The suspicion is merging into a certainty that Ludendorff once again has been the evil genius of Germany, that it was he who brought about what may prove its darkest hour. Startling corroboration was given to me today by Edward Bernstein, the veteran leader of German Socialism, who, despite his years, is still in active touch with political circles.

"It is Ludendorff," he said, "who is behind the whole thing, who was the real wirepuller. Certain facts are known already and others will probably come to light when Kapp and Lüttwitz are brought to trial. Partly the coup had a political motive, partly it was an act of desperation by military desperadoes. The officers of the Baltic troops who were on the point of disbandment were faced with ruin. In any event Lüttwitz, their leader, sought the co-operation of several other Generals, but all the best known refused to participate."

Helfferich, that bravo and fire-eater, was offered an important post in the Kapp Ministry, but declined to take the risk.

Asked what the real objects of the revolt were, Bernstein said:

"That is very difficult to conclude. The first quality of these people is stupidity, and they are capable of believing in and hoping for any stupidity. As a matter of fact they had been cherishing an idea of a militarist move ever since last June, when only at the last moment they discarded the plan to prevent the signing of peace. In some such way they found the people were too tired and dispirited to take any interest. Apparently they believed that now the moment had come in consequence of a combination of political circumstances, of which the Erzberger trial was the chief, unfavorable to the Government."

When I suggested that the promoters of this conspiracy may have believed that in the event it failed and a Communist rising was the immediate result, the latter would itself produce a reaction in their favor, Bernstein replied: "To a mind like Ludendorff's even that is possible."

"One thing this business has achieved," he continued, "is to increase the German people's hate of militarism. If the difficulties just ahead are overcome good may come out of evil. Antimilitarist feeling is now so strong the whole military system of Germany will have to be revised. There will be still stronger democratic control of the army, perhaps even its reduction below the 100,000 allowed by the Peace Treaty. Even such a small army means a terrible financial burden compared with the cost of conscript forces. So that this criminal deed may produce good not only for Germany but for the whole world in leading toward a general disarmament.

"But in the meantime I am afraid there will be much bloodshed in Germany and the cost in money can already be estimated in billions of marks. The Communists may attempt to establish a Soviet Republic, but will fail in the long run. Germany is not Russia and the Soviet system cannot exist in Germany. The Majority Socialists will make concessions to the Independents in further democratization of the Government and a greater share of labor in control of industries, but they will never agree to a Soviet system."

Concluding, Bernstein expressed strong suspicion of the real purposes of the Russian Bolshevist Government's agents in Berlin, especially as to the likelihood of their providing money for German Communists.

Warrant for Ludendorff?

COPENHAGEN, March 19.—Warrants have been issued for the arrest of General Ludendorff and Colonel Bauer, characterized as Ludendorff's "right-hand man," says a dispatch to the Social Demokraten today from Berlin.

The Berlin correspondent of the Politiken declares that General Ludendorff is compromised in the highest degree in connection with the revolt.

Theatre on West Forty-second Street, near Broadway, and made a profit of $400,000 in a single day in a Fifth Avenue transaction by effecting a cancellation of the lease with Tiffin Products and making a new lease with I. Miller & Son for twenty-one years on the property at the northwest corner of Fifth Avenue and Forty-sixth Street. The old lease called for $60,000 a year, while the new lease was made on the basis of $80,000.

There has been a strong buying movement within recent months affecting skyscraper office buildings on Broadway, south of Fulton Street. About five weeks ago former Ambassador Henry Morgenthau, associated with Robert E. Dowling and Robert E. Simon, purchased the thirty-two-story Adams Express Building at 61 Broadway for a reported price of $9,250,000. More recently the Exchange Court Building at 52 Broadway was bought by a syndicate of members of the New York Stock Exchange headed by Edwin N. Chapman of the firm of Chisolm & Chapman.

Other recent deals involving million-dollar Broadway office buildings in the immediate neighborhood include the purchase by Gregori Benenson, Russian banker, of the City Investing Building, 165 Broadway, for about $9,000,000; the acquisition of the Empire Building at 71 Broadway by the United States Steel Corporation for $5,000,000 and the purchase by the International Mercantile Marine of 1 Broadway for $6,000,000. The Henry L. Doherty Company some months ago bought all the downtown Chesebrough holdings on Battery Place and State Street for a reported consideration of $6,000,000.

a year in debating over a question of phraseology does not understand the American people or our pressing domestic problems. It may be that the Peace Treaty is down today. I refuse to disbelieve in the possibility of its resurrection."

Mr. Bryan, whose subject was "Beware the Dam," said that the failure to ratify the Peace Treaty was another obstruction which must be removed from the path of human progress. He compared civilization to a mighty stream, which would not be denied, but lifted all obstacles which were placed in its pathway.

Declares Democracy "Dry."

Adoption of the Federal prohibition amendment marked the removal of one of the greatest of these obstacles, said Mr. Bryan, adding that he was proud to feel that the Democratic Party finally had redeemed itself on this question after having been known for years as the party of the liquor interests. He said that a Democratic Senate and House of Representatives had passed the bill which made the District of Columbia "dry" and that it was a Democratic Senate and House that voted to submit the amendment. Eight Democratic States, he said, were the first to ratify, and now every Democratic State has ratified.

"Talk about New York asking the Democratic Party to insult the conscience of the nation by becoming the champion of an outlawed traffic," said Mr. Bryan. "If any of you want to know what will happen at the convention at San Francisco, I might venture a guess.

"One of the things they thought might happen was to write a 'wet' plank in the Democratic platform. They now know that it is not possible. You will find that long before the convention meets no Democrat will dare to ask for a 'wet' plank. There will not be a 'wet' Republican who will dare to ask it of the Republican Party. There will be no 'wet' planks in the platform adopted either at Chicago or at San Francisco.

"Next, they will want to straddle. That is the usual attitude of the 'wet' politician of either party. They will want to get a platform that says nothing and get a candidate who says nothing and then pledge him in secret.

"If you think that we are going to allow a bunch from New York to come out there and saddle us with a non-committal platform and a non-committal candidate you are mistaken. The Democratic Party is not a non-committal party."

Quotes Former Party Pledges.

Mr. Bryan read extracts from the Democratic national platforms of 1868, of the civil war. This, he said, had pledged support to the Constitution with the amendment ending slavery and with other amendments growing out of the Civil War. This, he said, had always been the Democratic Party's position, and must always be its position if it would be a party pledged to support the law.

Speedy ratification of the woman suffrage amendment was predicted by Mr. Bryan. "Women's influence is needed just now," he said, "to silence opposition to the prohibition amendment and to hasten the day of universal peace. Woman's influence is needed throughout the world to oppose universal military training and to provide for a referendum on war except in case of invasion."

The profiteer and private monopoly were listed by Mr. Bryan as the two obstacles to progress needing immediate attention. He predicted the enactment of drastic laws to curb the profiteers and suggested the limitation of the profits of merchants just as the banker's interest on loaned money is now limited by law. He declared a private monopoly indefensible and intolerable, and predicted ultimate ownership of all natural monopolies by the people.

Mr. Seabury declared that the Democratic State Convention's action in urging the repeal of the prohibition amendment was "cheap politics." "The action of the convention was typical of the leadership which afflicts the party in this State," he said. "It was done for no other purpose than to deceive the public and to win the support of the liquor interest."

Other speakers included the Rev. Charles Scanlon, head of the American section of the World Prohibition Federation; Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League; Mrs. Ella C. Boole of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, Bird S. Coler, Commissioner of Public Charities; Mrs. Lillian R. Sire and J. C. Barrett. About 600 persons were present.

Telegrams regretting their inability to be present were read from Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy; Samuel Untermyer and Louis F. Post, Assistant Secretary of Labor.

BRYAN ASSAILS HITCHCOCK.

Will Resist Any Attempt to Commit Party to a "Wet" Policy.

William J. Bryan made it clear yesterday that he would resist with all the force at his command any attempt to commit the Democratic Party to a "wet" policy. In an interview at the Hotel Chatham Mr. Bryan attacked the action of the recent unofficial Democratic New York State Convention in advocating repeal of the prohibition amendment, and asserted that the delegates misrepresented democracy. He announced his intention of campaigning in his own State of Nebraska for election as delegate at large on a "dry" platform, attacked Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock as leader of the "wet" forces there, and said that he would not vote for the nomination of the latter for President, even if the State should so instruct, but would permit his alternate to cast his vote.

Mr. Bryan evaded discussion of the possibility of his own nomination by saying that he already had declared frankly that he was not a candidate and that there was nothing to add. He refused to consider seriously the candidacy of Governor Edward I. Edwards of New Jersey, and said in his opinion the "wet" fight would have evaporated long before the Democratic National Convention at San Francisco.

"You ask me what I think of the possibility of the repeal of the prohibition amendment?" said Mr. Bryan. "Just about the same as the prospects for the return of slavery, and no greater. There is no more danger that the prohibition amendment will be repealed than that the nation will return to a system of involuntary servitude."

Mr. Bryan said that the New York Democrats who declared in favor of legislation nullifying the prohibition amendment had raised a large issue in assuming that a State could nullify a Federal amendment and a national law. He declared that during and after the civil war the New York Democracy had accepted the amendment abolishing slavery and other amendments.

"The question in this State is whether you stand for the enforcement of law or for a reign of lawlessness," said Mr. Bryan. "I say that they represented the party in the convention at Albany, because I can't believe that all the New York Democrats are more interested in saloons than in the enforcement of law.

"The same criticism applies to the 'wet' forces in the Republican Party, for it is as easy to tell what a 'wet' will do, whether he is a Republican or a Democrat, as it is to tell what a duck will do. I know the nature of the bird; I got acquainted with him in Nebraska before I got to know him in New York. The beer bill at Albany only shows that a duck waddles true to form in all parties."

Mr. Bryan would not give an opinion as to the availability of various Democratic Presidential candidates, saying that it would not be fair to discuss them at this time. He said that, of course, he favored the nomination of a "dry" candidate, as well as the formulation of a "dry" platform.

"The American people have settled the saloon question and they will not re-open it," Mr. Bryan went on to say. "I think that both parties will declare for prohibition and pledge their candidates accordingly. If they do that, the question will be eliminated from the campaign."

Mr. Bryan started his attack upon Senator Hitchcock following a reporter's reference to a dispatch from Washington that Senator Hitchcock had accepted Mr. Bryan's challenge for control of Nebraska on the "wet" and "dry" issue.

"Senator Hitchcock didn't accept my challenge," Mr. Bryan said. "He is the one who issued the challenge and he did it ten years ago. He tried to prevent my going as a delegate to the Baltimore convention eight years ago. He did prevent my going to the St. Louis convention in 1916 and he is against my going to the San Francisco convention.

"Senator Hitchcock has been a leader in the fight for the liquor interests in Nebraska, even to the extent that he refused to vote in the Senate for the submission of the Eighteenth Amendment after the State had gone dry by 29,000."

Nebraska showed what it thought of prohibition when it ratified the amendment with only one dissenting vote in the Legislature, Mr. Bryan said. Returning to Senator Hitchcock's record, Mr. Bryan said the Senator had been against woman suffrage and had been on the brewers' side of the liquor question and on the Wall Street side of the currency question.

Mr. Bryan stated that he intended to devote most of his time before the Nebraska primaries on April 20 to his campaign for election as delegate at large, upon the success of which will depend in large part the influence that he will wield at the Democratic National Convention. He will speak at Boston tonight and at Montclair, N. J., and before the Marquette Club at the Waldorf-Astoria on Sunday. Then he plans to go to Nebraska, stopping for speeches at Fort Wayne, Ind., and Springfield, Ill. He intended to pass the next four weeks speaking in Nebraska, he said, except for a trip to Los Angeles to address the Southwestern States Conference.

Bryan Heads Anti-Hitchcock Fight.

LINCOLN, Nebb., March 19.—Petitions for opposing sets of delegates to the Democratic National Convention were filed today with the Secretary of State. One list favors the candidacy for President of United States Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock, the other, known as the Bryan slate, opposes Hitchcock. The W. J. Bryan list for delegates at large is headed by Bryan himself. Complete opposing lists of district delegates were also filed. Of the twelve Bryan district delegates two are women.

NOSKE WON'T RESIGN; WILL PUNISH REBELS

ASKS ALLIES TO BE LENIENT

Says That Strong Measures Would Only Be Giving Reactionaries Material for Propaganda.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 19.—Noske, the German War Minister, has not resigned. He remains in the saddle pledged to punish the authors of the Berlin upheaval and to curb the Spartacides. The correspondent of Le Matin at Stuttgart telegraphs that he interviewed Noske at 1 o'clock this afternoon and that Noske denied any intention of resigning.

Noske gave the correspondent a strong statement declaring that the failure of the militaristic effort showed that love of democratic Government lay deep in the hearts of the German people. He said:

"The resolute resistance which the military and reactionary coup d'état has met with among the masses proves how deep are the roots of the democratic ideal in the great majority of the German people. The rascals of the reactionary coup have been swept away with force before they were able to establish themselves in the ministerial seats they coveted.

"The German Government has always felt clearly that successive manifestations of war and of revolution would not easily give place to a normal and peaceful situation. At the same time we have always felt that the social classes whose ambitions perished in the revolution would not accommodate themselves without resistance to the insignificant position to which German democracy condemns them.

"The passing success which their political intrigues have had can only be explained by the fact that the allied Governments have only slowly and with extreme difficulty understood the situation of the German people and of the new democratic Government. I have always drawn the attention of official representatives of the Entente and of members of the press to the great difficulties which the execution of the military demands of the Peace Treaty entailed. The destruction of the gigantic army of from six to seven million men and the creation of a tiny army could not be effected without disturbances. Ten thousand officers have been deprived of their livelihood and see themselves condemned to a future quite uncertain and full of privation.

"The economic life of Germany is paralyzed in many of its branches. In every occupation there is an excess of labor. It is therefore comprehensible that all those who ought, under the treaty terms, to be dismissed within a short time, should be filled with concern with regard to their future. Agitation by dismissed officers and by reactionary fools would not have had any success among the troops if they had not also felt themselves in danger of being without work.

"An allied note forced me to order the demobilization of two brigades of marines within ten days. Demobilization of these brigades ought to be followed within a few weeks by that of from 50,000 to 60,000 other men. These belong almost entirely to units in Brandenburg and the east of the empire. In Eastern Prussia alone I ought, according to the Entente demands, to dismiss about 12,000 men.

Only the Erkhardt Marine Brigade mutinied, knowing what it was doing. For the most part both officers and men were almost completely ignorant of political intent and obeyed orders of von Lüttwitz without considering exactly what would be the result. Fortunately one can state that the larger part of the troops of the Reichswehr and of West Prussia remained loyal.

"Officers and often non-commissioned officers and men without hesitation remained loyal to the Constitutional Government. That proves, in my opinion, that the Reichswehr was adapting itself more and more to democratic conditions, but was not too optimistic. It is certain also that a large part of the troops which obeyed, at the beginning, the orders of their officers and mutinied against the Constitutional Government were quick to right themselves, and had almost decided themselves to arrest their officers, in whom they had no more confidence.

"Naturally it will be some time before the damages caused in Berlin by this revolt against our economic life can be repaired. It is to be hoped that because of these regrettable events the allied Governments will understand that vigorous action against the German Republic would have no other result than to furnish arguments for reactionary propaganda in Germany."

ANTI-SEMITIC WAVE ACCOMPANIES REVOLT

Baltic Troops Accused of Part in Agitation Which Disturbs Berlin Jews.

BERLIN, March 18 (Associated Press).—A sudden and widespread revival of the anti-Semitic movement made itself felt today, when at intervals throughout the day leaflets were distributed protesting against the presence of Jews in public office and attempting to inflame the public mind by cartoons picturing the German people as starving in a cage while well-fed and prosperous Jewish merchants look on and are made to say: "Don't feed the animals." Prominent Jewish residents are outspoken in expressing their serious apprehension over the recurrence of the movement at this time.

The Baltic troops, which made such a sanguinary departure from the city, are accused of taking a leading part in the agitation, and numerous inciting handbills are attributed to them. Among the anti-Semitic street speakers were Baltic officers and enlisted men.

Since the first German revolution in November, 1918, it has been estimated that about 80,000 Jews from Russia, Poland, Galicia and East Prussia have come to Berlin. The Jewish population of the capital now is estimated at 210,000 persons. The great influx of Jews stirred up feeling because of the widespread circulation of reports that many of the Jews were speculating in foodstuffs and other necessities, and also operating as money lenders.

The Jews are generally keeping off the streets today. The recrudescence of the anti-Jewish movement is attributed by some to the attempts of the conservatives to combat the growing strength of the radical elements, many leaders of which are Jews.

GERMAN SOVIETS GROWING.

French Business Men, Motoring from Berlin, Report Reds Active.

PARIS, March 19.—French business men who have just come through from Berlin by automobile found armed groups at the entrances to all towns, the groups sometimes composed of very young men, questioning travelers and delivering passes in the name of some local workmen's association, says the Temps.

The business men are reported as asserting that the tendency toward Sovietism is undeniable. They say, however, there is a total lack of organization and that it is impossible to state whether the feeling will develop or die.

The travelers were also struck by the absence of a desire for work on the part of these workmen, declaring that German manufacturers with whom they talked had confirmed these observations.

BERLIN IN GRAVE STRAITS.

Strike Is Not Yet Ended and There Is Political Chaos.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, March 19.—The chaos in Berlin is greater than ever, says the Rotterdam Sche Courant's correspondent, in a long distance telephone message.

In Wilhelmstrasse a few officials of Ebert's Government resumed their duties, but Kapp's officers and soldiers guarded the entrances to buildings, refusing to allow many visitors to enter.

Kapp's troops maintained their insolent attitude of bravado until the last, their officers making incendiary speeches in the street. Commander Ehrhardt told his troops he was obliged to postpone his political plans, but would not consider allowing the troops to be disarmed.

On leaving, the soldiers scattered anti-Semitic leaflets from automobiles, urging pogroms and the murder of Oscar Cohn and other Jewish Socialists. Firing in the town continues and the disorder is indescribable.

In West Berlin and Charlottenburg there is great unrest.

Much more serious, however, is the political situation. No one knows what will happen as to the strike. Even the majority Socialists have made no decision but intend to impose conditions which must be granted before work will be resumed. These conditions will include changes in the Government's policy and important shifts in the Cabinet.

The Socialist groups refuse to hold a conference. It is reported that representatives of the international have arrived in Berlin to organize groups.

ALLIES WILL PRESS GERMANY TO DISARM

Firm Note Will Be Sent as Soon as Ebert Resumes Control.

APRIL 10 IS THE TIME LIMIT

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 19.—While the Allies have followed a policy of non-interference in the German political situation, that does not mean that the recent occurrences there will be overlooked by the Entente. The resumption of active control by the Ebert Government, which is expected next week, will be the occasion of the sending of a very firm note by the Allies setting forth their determination to enforce the Treaty of Versailles and laying special emphasis on its disarmament provisions.

On April 10 the German Army should have been reduced to 200,000 men, and in view of the fact that Von Kapp's move was possible through the connivance of the Iron Division, which should long ago have been disbanded, the Allies will probably insist on strict measures to enforce the whittling down of German forces to the required proportions by the end of three weeks.

The French have a deeper interest than any other nation in the disarmament of Germany, and it is likely that Marshal Foch will recommend the occupation of the Ruhr Basin should Germany not fulfill the disarmament terms on schedule time.

The French Foreign Office blames the whole disturbance in Germany upon what it regards as the weakening of the Allies in treaty demands. Consequently it contends that the Allies should go no further in that direction. There is also the oft-voiced opinion in Paris that America's failure to ratify the treaty was partly responsible for the present troubles.

According to French information, President Ebert has not gone to Berlin, but remains in Stüttgart. He may go to the capital Monday, accompanied by the National Assembly, whose leaders hope to resume their sessions in Berlin next week.

Official French reports say that the Wolff Agency reports of Spartacide uprisings in Germany are exaggerated, for the purpose of furnishing arguments against the reduction of the German Army. The French say they have reports from the Ruhr district this morning saying that all is calm there and that the workers are going back to their jobs. Reports from Berlin this morning told of great disturbances in the Ruhr Valley.

French officials frankly doubt the existence of a Spartacide peril in Germany. They note outbursts in many places, but say these happenings are sporadic and have no great significance because of their disconnection. They do not share the English view of a Red danger across the Rhine. The French idea is summed by La Liberté, which says:

"We must not forget that it is to Germany's interest to exaggerate these incidents. She seeks a pretext to conserve her effectives. The Einwohnenwehr and the Sicherheitswehr, which played the capital rôle in von Kapp's efforts, exist, it is proclaimed, for the purpose of fighting Spartacism. Germany is probably seeking to keep these forces, which we are determined she shall not keep, to be used as the basis for a conquering army."

The French point to the declaration of Captain Erhardt to the Iron Division, in which he said that the division would never allow itself to be disbanded. They say they will insist that this division, which has given the Allies so much trouble since the days when von der Goltz led it into the Baltic provinces, be done away with. They also remark that the action of the Iron Division, in firing upon Berlin crowds yesterday as it left the capital, shows that it is not of the sort of armed force that can be tolerated in Germany.

There is no confirmation of the report that Noske has resigned, and doubt is expressed of its truth.

It appears that there may be some friction between President Ebert and Herr Schiffer, his Minister of Justice, who holds power in Berlin for the moment. The report that Noske had resigned came from Berlin, and was accompanied by the report that General von Seeckt, who commands the Reichswehr in the Berlin district, would succeed him. Apparently that is all news to Stüttgart. Another report from Berlin, that Schiffer is to succeed Bauer as Chancellor, lacks confirmation.

Furthermore, the reports of the concessions which the Ebert Government was to make have all come from Berlin, and not from Stüttgart, which gives further ground for the suspicion that Schiffer and Ebert may not be in complete agreement.

Yesterday's session of the National Assembly at Stüttgart produced a favorable impression here. The declarations of the Majority Socialist leader, Philipp Scheidemann, arraigning the militarists were especially well received. All the Paris papers give prominence to his statement with regard to the authors of the Berlin coup: "What these people wanted was to re-establish the régime under which the Prussian Kings would dance to the music of the Junkers."

The Ebert Government before the Assembly yesterday made much capital of the fact that von Kapp demanded that the army should not be reduced as the treaty provided, and it is assumed that Ebert will do his best to meet the conditions laid down in the treaty.

ASSEMBLY FEARS TO GO TO BERLIN

STUTTGART, March 19 (Associated Press).—The members of the National Assembly today discussed the advisability of remaining in Stuttgart for further sessions, instead of convening the Assembly in Berlin Tuesday, owing to the prevailing conditions in the capital.

The Government is still hoping that there will be some way to prevent being forced to accept the resignation of Gustav Noske as Minister of Defense. A Socialist Party caucus, with a few opposing voices, has decided to request Noske to remain in the Cabinet.

It was said today that Philipp Scheidemann's attack on Noske yesterday was not authorized by the Socialist Party.

Should Noske retire it seems probable he will be succeeded by General von Seeckt, now in command of the troops in Berlin. Dr. Schieffer, the Minister of Justice, is being mentioned for the Premiership in the proposed reorganized Cabinet. Herr Noske was present at the Assembly session today when Philipp Scheidemann, Majority Socialist leader and former Premier, attacked the Minister of Defense in a stirring speech and demanded a radical overhauling of the Cabinet. Herr Henke, leader of the Independent Socialists, asked Herr Noske where he was when the Kapp forces had their hands at the Government's throat and why he did not "break their bones," but Herr Noske by this time had disappeared from the chamber.

Representatives of all the principal parties at the session delivered speeches condemning the Kapp movement and urging the punishment of the guilty. The speechmaking lasted from 4 o'clock until nearly 9. Herr Scheidemann in the course of his address said:

"Any one who had eyes could see how anti-Republican sentiment had been growing in the security guards, the monarchist officers becoming more and more insolent."

He attributed Dr. Kapp's downfall to the response made by the workingmen to the call for a general strike.

The Government has instructed the court at Leipsic to draw warrants against nine of the principals in the revolt movement, but there is still discussion of how severely these men shall be punished. One element in the Government has suggested that only a single culprit be shot as an example. Efforts were being made tonight to have the Socialists agree to this program instead of insisting upon the execution of all those who should eventually be convicted of treason.

The Austrian Ambassador and the French Chargé d'Affaires, who are in Stuttgart, are residing at the same hotel as the German Ministers, and some conferences have been held with them.

The Government is maintaining a censorship upon the newspapers, but has let it be known that no restrictions will be placed on foreign correspondents.

BERLIN, March 18 (Associated Press).—While statements have been issued in Stuttgart by the Ebert Government that no negotiations of any nature had taken place with the Kapp régime in Berlin and that a compromise of any kind was out of the question, the developments here regarding the formation of a new Cabinet would make it appear that the chief demands which had been made by the Kapp interests had been virtually agreed to.

PARIS FEARS REDS MAY WIN IN BERLIN

But Thinks Ebert Has Compromised with Bourgeoisie to Fight Communists.

SEES THEIR HELP NEEDED

Believes Revolt May, if Things Go Well, Have Actually Strengthened the Government.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 19.—Through the fog of lies, rumors, propaganda, "news" and general confusion which obscures the situation in Germany it is felt here that something in the nature of a compromise between the Ebert Government and the German popular party or Democrats has been reached. The latter includes the higher bourgeoisie, big business and industrial interests, agrarians and the more moderate sections of the former supporters of the Kaiser and militarist régime.

They form the strongest party in the country outside the Communists, and if Ebert is to defeat the Communist movement it can only be, it is said, with their assistance. The Kapp-Lüttwitz group undoubtedly counted on their support and failed because it is not forthcoming.

Nothing, it is said here, is more certain than that Ebert will oppose the Communists to the utmost. In fact Germany, it is held, is now in the same position as Russia after the overthrow of the Czar. There has been a change of Government but no real revolution—the oligarchy of the governing class still maintains control. When Lenin set out to beat Kerensky his watchword was "full reolution; no compromise with the bourgoisie."

He argued that to leave the oligarichy of the higher bourgeoisie in power meant simply a change of label without any real differences.

In Germany the original revolution in November, 1918, was a real revolution by the workers and soldiers, who held power for the first few days. Then the leaders of the oligarchy reasserted themselves and the power passed back to the governing class. A labor element tried to make th erevolution complete—as Lenin had done—by the Spartacist rising of January, 1919. They were defeated and as a result of their attempt and its defeat the hold of the oligarchy on the country was still further strengthened.

During the last fifteen months, however, the sympathy of this governing class, which really ruled Germany, has been for various reasons gradually alienated from the Cabinet, which nominally held the reins of power. Von Kapp and Lüttwitz speculated erroneously on this alienation. They have disappeared, but the Cabinet has realized that unless it can win back the support of the leaders of the oligarchy its days are numbered.

The oligarchy has no less interest in reaching a compromise on account of their fear of the Communists and on the extent and genuineness of this compromise and on its working success as a practical factor depends victory or defeat of communism, it is thought here. If it works well it may be that instead of being weakened by the military upheaval as was Kerensky, the Ebert Government, it is said, may actually have been strengthened.

The French Socialist press points out that the events of the last week have resulted in the issue being clearly defined in Germany. Henceforth it is evident, it says, that there are two antagonists, the proletariat and the oligarchy, the higher bourgeoisie governing class or whatever it may be called.

Whether, as some French newspapers appear to think, the Ebert Government will make so many concessions as to become little more than a puppet, "a prisoner of a plutocratic-military-bureaucratic-Agrarian oligarchy," one French writer terms it, or whether the latter's own fear of the Communists will cause the Government to be left with a fair degree of independence, really doesn't matter, it is said here. The point is that in the eyes of the Socialist the revolution is not compelte, and they are out to make it so.

Their success or failure will hinge, it is said, on the degree of unity among their opponents and on the extent to which the latter can depend on the Reichswehr to meet the proletariat weapon of a general strike.

Judging by the paralyzing efficiency of proletariat methods against von Kapp aand Lüttwitz, it is thought here that the odds are in the Communists' favor, providing, of course, thata they can duplicate the same performance against the bourgeoise oligarchy.

SEE KAISER AFFAIR CLOSED.

Dutch Press Express Satisfaction at Government's Stand.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, March 19.—The Dutch press express great satisfaction at the decision taken by the Netherlands Government as regards the ex-Kaiser. The Rotterdamsche Courant says:

"Now, that a definite decision has been taken in the matter of the extradition of the ex-Kaiser and his residence formally regulated according to the letter of the aliens law, the incident can be closed, and it is hoped that we won't excite ourselves at every event in Germany as though we did not trust our Government to do its duty."

The paper hopes the Entente will not continue to interfere in this matter or to make difficulties, and further states that every visitor to Amerongen, including many American journalists, who spent weeks and months there in order to see the ex-Kaiser's nose and make "copy," must have remarked that the ex-Kaiser is not treated like an ordinary alien.

"Americans who tried to storm Amerongen Castle, [Luke Lee and his aids] saw how difficult it was," says the paper. "All this shows how carefully the ex-Kaiser is guarded. [No reference is made to the admittance of German visitors.] It may be the allied Powers business to see that the ex-Kaiser does not become the centre of political intrigues, but it is the Netherland's affair to guard him. Measures would, however, be useless if explained in detail and would give the Entente occasion to interfere in the Netherland's business, and the Socialist schaper need not get nervous."

The Nieuwe Courant points out that the royal decree merely formulates definitely what happened long ago, but throws a dam against the mud which has been thrown at Holland. The paper considers the measure of a very serious nature. "Similar confinement of an ex-Monarch is without precedent in history and if the ex-Kaiser has not conformed correctly to the rules and regulations of the agreement in connection with his presence here during the last fifteen months, the present prisoner at Amerongen would have had his movement to resort to such severe measures was a difficult task for the Government to resort tto such severe measures without giving the impression of yielding to pressure."

PARIS, March 19.—A dispatch from Cologne quotes the Kölner Tageblat as saying that President Ebert has arrived in Berlin and requested Philipp Scheidemann, former Minister of Foreign Affairs, to form a Cabinet.

Prussian Finance Minister Says Report of Intrigue Is Being Investigated.

APPEALS FOR OUTSIDE AID

Government Faces Another Hard Test Next May and Must Be Strong, He Says.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, March 18.—Up to noon today none of the members of the Federal Government had returned, though they were hourly expected, some traveling by automobile, others by airplane. The Prussian Government, however, is fully reestablished and conducting business as usual, besides attending to the functions of the Federal Government.

The Prussian Minister of Finance, Dr. Südekum, never for one moment deserted his post during Kapp's occupation. Loyally supported by his whole staff, on Sunday morning Dr. Südekum ventured daringly into the lion's cage, facing Kapp and telling him that unless he evacuated Wilhelmstrasse within six hours all the trains throughout Germany would be stopped by 12 o'clock that night. That same night Kapp sent an officer and several men to the Prussian treasury to take possession, but Südekum simply refused to admit them.

The next day another detachment appeared to search the house for "conspirators."

"I told them," Secretary Sudekum said, relating the story to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent, "for conspirators they must look in Wilhelmstrasse and banged the door in their faces."

THE TIMES correspondent mentioned a report circulating among officers that Wilhelm II. had financed Kapp's "Putsch."

Looking for Kaiser Intrigue.

"We're trying to find out what there is in it," said Herr Südekum. "Of course we are convinced the Kapp 'putsch' was undertaken in the interest of the monarchy. If we find the Hohenzollerns are behind it, it will not go well with them, as Wilhelm's action as the heaed of the family must reflect on his whole family.

THE TIMES correspondent asked what would be Kapp's and his friends punishment.

"That will be left to a truly republican court of justice," was Südekum's answer, which implied that no old-time bureaucrat would be selected for this job.

Südekum once more referred to the exclusively monarchist character of Kapp's revolution, Kapp, with a large number of intimate friends and officers, mostly younger men, having fled to parts unknown and asked THE TIMES correspondent to explain to the American people that "such a revolt would have been impossible if the Entente had not imposed an inhuman peace upon us under the false pretense that it was based on Wilson's Fourteen Points."

"Germany is being badly abused by the whole world," he continued, "and prevented from getting on her feet again while at the same time unsettled affairs at home contribute to endanger her existence. It is impossible to maintain law and order with 100,000 men conceded by the Entente. You may say America is doing it with less, but remember in the United States you live in orderly conditions and nobody questions the republican form of the State. We have 100,000 retired officers who are desperate because they have no way to make a living, and among them are reactionaries who will commit any crime for the return of the old times.

"These were the ones who persuaded and fooled the common soldiers into rebellion, pretending they were for an honest republican government but not for monarchy. If we had raw products we could employ these ex-officers and they would forget the old times, but we can not offer them anything. If only America and the Entente would give us raw products everything would yet turn out well. We can pay with coal and nitrate acid, but we need quick help.

Another Test in May.

"If by May things are not straightened out and in better shape the Republic will again face a grave crisis," continued Minister Südekum. "In May the new elections will take place, and we know the reactionaries will sacrifice tremendous treasure to swing it their way, knowing it is their last chance. By May, too, the Russian Government will be in position to afford the German Bolshevists military aid, and with radicals of both extremes against us we shall be unable to resist unless we can show the people material results of republican rule."

"You don't expect any repetition of Kapp's enterprise?"

"Indeed not. If you consider that within five days, and without firing one shot, we managed to conquer the monarchist rebellion merely by unanimous will of workmen, official employes and citizens generally, you must admit the republican faith has become deep-rooted in the people. They obeyed our strike order like one man. They simply paralyzed Kapp."

"How about the telegraph operators and telephonists?"

"The telephonists worked with our consent and the telegraphists also. Otherwise the strike orders could not be sent. Anyhow the telegrahpists told Kapp's men that unless they were permitted to forward the old Government's messages they would refuse to work for the new Government. If Kapp had lasted one day longer the telephonists and telegraphists too would have struck."

"And are the masses obeying the order to return to work with equal enthusiasm?"

"The wheels of the commonwealth are quickly brought to a standstill but not so suddenly set in motion again. For four days no coal has arrived in Berlin. That means 32,000 railway carloads. Many factories cannot open before more fuel arrives, but tomorrow most people will be at work again."

"What about the Bolshevist danger?"

"That was mainly the invention of the officers and served them as an excuse to their misguided men. Only recently they swore allegiance to the republic, then they took up arms for the minarchist adventurers against the republic. Now that they find themselves deserted by these adventurers they must find some execuse to give their men who have lost faith in them, and so it's 'fighting the common enemy.'"

"We are determined radically to reform the army, but I can't give you the details yet," continued Herr Südekum. "I may only say there was a large number of officers and men, even in Berlin, who absolutely refused to join Kapp's forces. These will form the nucleus of the reformed army. Of course, there will be some fighting yet with the anarchist elements, but that will not be serious, either in Berlin or any other part of Germany. The Baltic troops will be withdrawn from Berlin tonight, because the people hate them. They, and the rise in prices which is bound to follow this paralyzation of business, are our gravest care just now. If ever we needed America's and the Entente's aid and good-will it is now."

Delegates of "Black Hundred" at Conference, Moscow Wireless Says.

LONDON, March 19.—Two weeks before the revolt in Berlin, says a wireless dispatch from Moscow, a secret conference was held in Berlin between the supporters of Dr. Wolfgang Kapp and representatives of the Russian "Black Hundreds," the latter including Alexander J. Guchkoff and Prince Volconski.

JUNKER FAREWELL A BERLIN TRAGEDY

By GEORGE RENWICK.

machine guns joined in making a terrific din. From the Brandenburg Gate, too, came firing and for a few minutes it appeared as though the retreating troops might hit back and cause something approaching a massacre.

The great column of troops halted. Those in Wilhelmstrasse ran back into the shelter of the nearest side street. People were yelling everywhere, running into doorways and climbing into low windows. The horses attached to the guns and wagons took fright and bolted, careering away down Wilhelmstrasse and Unter den Linden. Officers and men rushed about with revolvers and hand grenades in their hands. For minutes on end the utmost confusion reigned. Those who saw the terrible scene before their eyes scarcely dared breathe. They were minutes in which anything might have happened.

Meanwhile, the hall of the Adlon Hotel was transformed until it looked like a hospital ward. Two dead and half a dozen wounded were brought in and the latter, placed on sofas and on the floor, were at once attended to by doctors and nurses.

Then silence reigned again. The troops reformed and the march out continued and was completed in the tensest silence, only broken by the dull tramp of marching men and the rumble of wheels.

My colleague Leonard Spray gives me the following account of his afternoon adventure:

"I was driving into the Potsdamerplatz from the west when I met the first column of outgoing troops. The men were singing, and as the crowd was jeering, shouting and whistling some soldiers fired shots into the air. There was a stampede, naturally, though, as far as I could see, no casualties occurred. I reached Unter den Linden by a roundabout way, hearing firing in the distance from the direction of the Pariserplatz. I got into a crowd watching the soldiers leave Wilhelmstrasse. Round about me the people were quite orderly and quiet, when suddenly volley after volley rang out.

"The people rushed in a panic down the street. Then mechanically everybody fell face downward or crushed against the wall. I found myself crawling forward. Then the weight of the crowd behind me burst open the door of the branch office of the Lokal-Anzeiger, and there we picked ourselves up.

"From the window I could see large numbers of people and numerous soldiers bolting down the street, panic-stricken. Ambulance wagons were on the spot immediately, but I saw only one man taken away. Then complete silence fell, and the soldiers slowly returned up the street again. Gradually the people left their shelters and returned sullenly to watch the resumption of the march out of the troops."

Junker Army Departs.

It had been arranged that troops which entered Berlin on Saturday morning had to leave by 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. Lined up in marching order, they occupied the whole length of the official part of the Wilhelmstrasse. In the side streets stood the artillery wagons, field kitchens, etc. The Erhardt marine division flew its flags and here and there were artillery and naval bands.

Shortly after 4 o'clock the first contingent began to move, swinging heavily out of Wilhelmstrasse through the Brandenburg gate and turning to the left it went across the Potsdam Paltz and westward out of the city. It was really a wonderful sight. There were marines dressed and helmeted like the soldiers who had a lot to do with the revolution more than a year ago. The guns rattled, the baggage wagons followed and trench mortars and machine guns were dragged along.

It took just about an hour for the forces to pass the Brandenburg Gate, where a little less than six days ago (or is it six months?) they entered to achieve, as they thought, the triumph of their cause. Their defeat had been complete and ignominious. You could see the anger and anxiety on every face. Their great gamble had failed. Was it the exit from the scene of so many Junker glories of the last Junker army which was taking place? It was very appropriate that it was in the Wilhelmstrasse, which has aspired to rule the world, that the last scene was staged. No one who saw it will forget it.

It was an hour of history. It was the passing of the final piece of the pageant of power which but a few short years ago seemed so rock-firm. It passed in the rain out into the night. With the going of this mass the army of the desperadoes of junkerdom sinks with its dishonored flags into the dust.

By 5:30 o'clock the last troops had disappeared through the Brandenburg Gate and the crowds melted away. The force will march right out of Berlin and spend the night in small contingents in various outlying suburbs. General von Seeckt has taken precautions in the city to prevent disorder and the military police, which remained true to the Bauer government, will be at the disposal of the authorities.

As for the general position, the strike is still maintained. The Independent Socialists take up the standpoint that it must continue as a weapon against the Bauer Government. The Majority Socialists have postponed their decision pending the reply to the demands which have been sent to Stuttgart. They demand the resignation of Noske and Heine, the Prussian Minister of the Interior, who are regarded as the two most culpable persons in the Government which permitted the Junker coup to take place. They also insist on no amnesty for those concerned in it and that there should be greater co-operation of workers in labor legislation and administration.

The Bauer Government will return on Saturday or Sunday.

The whereabouts of Kapp and his colleagues are unknown. I learn that Kapp cut a most miserable figure throughout the whole absurd drama. He could hardly be persuaded a general strike had really taken place. When a number of prominent Generals refused to side with him he lost his nerve completely and behaved like a frightened school boy. He broke down completely and wept when it was shown the whole desperate game had failed. He was under the impression the whole country was with him and throughout showed quite a childish political outlook and complete ignorance of the whole situation.

Undoubtedly he was the catspaw of the military clique, but that will not be regarded as lessening the seriousness of his criminal action. It is certain a great treason trial will take place, and a number of very prominent Generals will be haled before the bar. I think it is certain the Communists will not attempt a coup. Däumig, leader of the Left Wing of the Independent Socialists, has, I have heard, declared his faction was not strong enough to achieve power. Even if it did, he admits it could not hold it. Camille Huysmans, the Belgian Socialist leader, and other International Socialists at present here, have been endeavoring to bring about Socialist unity, but the Independents declare that it is only possible if the Majority part abandon its coalition with the bourgeois parties.

The situation in the country causes no little alarm here, especially the state of affairs in Westphalia. A large number of towns there, it is reported, are in the hands of workers who are organizing Red armies. Recruiting offices have been opened. A Red army, variously estimated as between 3,000 and 16,000 men, is reported to be marching on Munster. The ports and South Germany are quiet, with the exception of Thuringia, where armed workers are said to be in possession of authority in many places.

At Stettin the position is also critical, and in the Mecklenburg region the peasants are said to have risen and to have plundered several estates.

Rostock is in the hands of the workers. Will the result of this mad coup be the disintegration of Germany?

three persons were killed and eighty wounded.

The Premier added that the troops and the police were now masters of the situation.

Leaflets are being circulated in Hamburg in which the Independent Socialist Party contradicts the rumor that it intends to proclaim a Soviet republic there, according to a dispatch from Hamburg under today's date.

The dispatch adds that fighting is proceeding in the town of Schleswig, seventy miles northwest of Hamburg, between regulars and armed workmen, and, according to reports at hand in Hamburg, there seems to be no prospect of the troops surrendering.

DEMAND SOVIET IN SAXONY.

Workers' Councils Undertake an Extreme Radical Move.

BERLIN, March 19.—Reports have been received here of an extreme radical movement in Saxony and the adjacent parts of the Thuringia. A congress of workers' councils of those districts met at Chemnitz yesterday. Four hundred delegates were in attendance and a resolution was passed with only two dissenting votes, demanding the disarmament and disbandment of the regular troops, the security guard and the volunteers. The resolution also demanded the formation of workmen's guards under control of the workers' councils and the formation of revolutionary employes' and workers' councils.

The resolution further demanded the convocation of a Central Soviet Congress, the establishment of revolutionary courts to try Dr. Kapp, General von Lüttwitz and their supporters, the release of all political prisoners and payment for time lost during the general strike.

A general strike has been put into effect in all parts of Erzgebirge, Vogtland and North Saxony. Collisions have occurred at Gera and Plauen, in Vogtland and at Auerbach and Dorna in Saxony.

Work has been resumed at Düsseldorf, Görlitz, Hanover, Bochum, Barmen and Duisburg, according to advices received today.

At Kottbus, Prussia, an agreement is reported to have been reached between the senior garrison officer and the leaders of the so-called Red Guard, formed of workmen of the Senftenberg lignite region. The officer promised not to have the Red Guards prosecuted if they immediately surrendered their arms and ammunition and released the prisoners they had taken, while at the same time the troops would release about a hundred workmen who had been made prisoners.

Collisions occurred between a large crowd and the troops at Cassel yesterday, in which several persons were killed or wounded.

According to advices dated Thursday, Independents and Communists in Arnstadt, ten miles south of Erfurt, formed an executive committee under whose jurisdiction the Burgomaster placed himself. Quiet is reported in the city.

Persons arriving in Berlin yesterday by automobile from points in south Germany report that the radical labor elements are everywhere in charge in the important industrial centres. These travelers state that the workers are not only armed, but are besieging the Government troops in their own barracks at many points in southwestern and central Germany, and that Soviet Governments have been installed in several cities.

Rear Admiral Evers has been appointed station commander at Kiel, replacing Rear Admiral Levetzow. The former has been given an advisory council of four burgesses belonging to various parties.

SCORES ARE KILLED IN BERLIN CLASHES

BERLIN, March 19 (Associated Press).—Berlin has not yet succeeded in emerging from the chaos into which it was thrown when Dr. Wolfgang Kapp and his associates by a coup d'état took over the Government a week ago. Although most all, if not all, of the troops which formed the backbone of the revolt have left the city proper, disorders continued spasmodically during Thursday night and Friday.

Many additional casualties, both in killed and wounded, occurred during this period.

A party of soldiers attempting to pass the Alexanderplatz this afternoon was stopped by a crowd, whereupon the soldiers fired machine guns, killing some people. The number killed is placed at about eighty.

Several persons were also killed in a clash at Pottsdamerplatz.

The American Embassy has notfied the American newspapermen that should the situation become dangerous tney and their families can find refuge at the Embassy.

In addition to further shooting, in which a number of persons were killed or maimed in front of the Hotel Adlon, three officers were shot dead and one officer was mortally wounded at 1 o'clock today by members of the security police stationed at the guard house at the Brandenburg gate. The police ordered an automobile bearing the officers, who were reported to have been members of the Baltic force which invaded Berlin, to halt. Thereupon a crowd surrounded the car and the officers opened fire with revolvers on the civilians. An armored motor car appeared upon the scene, and the soldiers in it threw hand grenades into the officers' car and simultaneously the police fired with their rifles upon it. The three officers fell dead and the other toppled over, wounded. Unter den Linden was crowded at the time, and the explosions of the grenades caused a panic. Six civilians were wounded by the bursting missiles and were taken for medical aid into the Hotel Adlon.

In the early morning two persons were killed and seven were wounded in disorders which ended in street fighting.

There was much disorder last night in the outlying sections of Berlin in the workmen's districts east and north of the city, and even in the semi-fashionable Schönenberg section, where it is reported that twelve unarmed army officers leaving the city on a truck were dragged off the vehicle by a mob and severely beaten, and several of them were killed.

Reports from cities and towns in various parts of Germany tell of continued operations by radicals. But in some of the cities the radical movement seemingly is waning and workmen are returning to their jobs. This is especially true in South Germany.

The expectation had been that President Ebert and his faithful ministers would arrive in Berlin today to join Gustav Noske, Minister of Defense, and Dr. Schiffer, Minister of Justice, and aid them in their efforts to stabilize the situation. Information from Stuttgart, however, is to the effect that the departure of the Ebert Government to the capital has been postponed and that its appearance here cannot be expected before Sunday, and possibly not until next Tuesday.

According to present plans the National Assembly members will leave Stuttgart in time to attend a meeting of the Assembly in Berlin on Tuesday.

Hope had been entertained that with the overthrow of the short-lived Kapp régime conditions resembling, even in a small measure, those prevailing in normal times, might return, but most of the strikers in Berlin continued today to absent themselves from their posts. Consequently the population still was experiencing difficulty in obtaining supplies.

Until the disturbed railroad condition again is brought to normal the situation will remain acute. Some of the railroads have made attempts to resume service, but their efforts have not proved altogether successful. One train is reported to have arrived in Cologne from Berlin this morning, the journey having been made without incident, and one will leave Cologne for Berlin tomorrow morning. Another train reached Frankfort from Berlin during the day, but a train from Lignitz bound for Berlin found the track torn up at Erfurt and could not reach the capital

The great feeling of uneasiness here was accentuated today by the non-appearance of the newspapers. The city thus was left prey to the wildest rumors. Everybody was asking his neighbor what next would happen.

The general strike situation in the city remains unchanged. The postal services and the railways and tramways were at a standstill, and the telephone and telegraph employes threatened to strike at any moment.

When the attack on the officers occurred in the Schönenberg section last night, a mob first surrounded the truck in which they were riding. Some of the workmen climbed upon the truck and dissuaded the people from injuring the officers owing to the fact that they were not armed. The truck was permitted to proceed, but when it reached Klonnenstrasse another mob dragged off the officers and beat them mercilessly.

This morning Spartacan placards were seen in various parts of the city. These accused Noske of responsibility in the formation of the Kapp-von Lüttwitz dictatorship.

Baltic Troops Intrench.

STUTTGART, March 19 (Associated Press).—The Baltic troops retiring from Berlin have intrenched themselves at the Zoological Gardens and at Charlottenburg, on the west side of Berlin, according to reliable reports received here this afternoon.

Dead Put at 100 in Berlin.

COPENHAGEN, March 19.—One hundred persons were killed and more than two hundred others wounded in collisions in various quarters of Berlin on Thursday, according to advices from the German Capital. It is declared that in the suburbs of Schöneberg fifteen officers of the Baltic troops were literally trampled to death by the crowd.

PARIS, March 19.—Another disturbance in front of the Hotel Adlon today is reported in a despatch reaching here from Berlin. This message, coming from a source considered extremely reliable, says that several persons were killed in disorders in the Alexanderplatz at 11 o'clock this morning.

A report that the Berlin Socialists are drawing up an 11-point charter, which amounts to the establishment of a Soviet Government, is also given. Dr. Schiffer, Minister of Justice, believes the situation serous but not hopeless.

CANCELS SAILING OF THE IMPERATOR

Cunard Company Will Overhaul Liner, Which Made Southampton with a List.

ASH EJECTOR WON'T WORK

Said to Have Taken In Water—Sinister Predictions of German Engineers Recalled.

SOUTHAMPTON, March 18.—The steamship Imperator, which arrived this morning from New York, will have to be overhauled again, although this is only her second Atlantic trip under her new management. Her next sailing has been canceled.

It is stated the Imperator has not yet been relieved of the list which was observed on her last voyage. This list is said to be due to the fact that her ash ejectors have failed to work and instead of clearing out the ashes have taken in water. The list caused some alarm to those of her 2,000 passengers who did not know the reason for it.

Officials of the Cunard Line said yesterday that they had not received any word from Liverpool concerning the arrival of the Imperator at Southampton on Thursday with a bad list and a general condition of discomfort for the passengers. The dispatch which reached New York late on Thursday merely announced the arrival of the liner. A previous message from the head office, which arrived here Wednesday, stated that the sailing from New York of April 10 would have to be canceled and that the next departure of the Imperator from this port would be May 8.

This caused a great deal of work for the booking clerks in the Cunard office, as the liner had over 1,000 booked in the cabin and many of them tried to take passage on the White Star liner Cedric, which is due to sail on April 10 from New York for Liverpool.

It was admitted by her officers when the Imperator was in this port early in the month that she had made a bad eastward voyage, but they said she had behaved much better coming this way.

German engineers long ago circulated the rumor that neither the British nor the Americans would be able to operate the former German passenger liners properly, because they did not understand the mechanism, and had no plans specially constructed, and had no plans of the ships or their engine rooms.

Marine engineers said yesterday that the listing over of the Imperator was probably due to the coal being taken out of her bunkers on one side and the firemen not understanding how to trim her properly. The failure of the ash ejectors to work properly might also have had something to do with it, they said.

The Imperator was laid up near Cuxhaven at the mouth of the Elbe for more than four years, and her boilers were in bad condition when she was loaned to the United States Government to bring American troops back from France. On the three trips she made to this port with troops the liner had four German engineers and three deck officers to see that everything went right. The only fault found by the United States naval engineers was that the boilers were in such condition that she had to go at reduced speed.

When the Imperator got outside Sandy Hook on March 8 a heavy westerly gale was blowing, and the observers at Navesink noticed that she was flying signals as if her steering gear had broken down and she was not under control.

Since the armistice was signed all kinds of accidents have occurred to the former German steamships under their new flags, mostly with the machinery, and occasionally there have been fires and sinkings at the piers without any apparent cause.

WINITSKY TRIAL STARTS.

Communist Party Secretary Faces Criminal Anarchy Charge.

The trial of Harry Winitsky, Executive Secretary of the New York Communist Party, on a charge of criminal anarchy was begun yesterday before Justice Weeks and a jury in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court. Assistant District Attorney Bowers announced that the prosecution will try to prove that the Communist Party, by means of its manifesto, advocated the overthrow of organized government by force and violence and other unlawful means. Mr. Bowers told the court that Winitsky was present at the Chicago convention in 1919, where the program of the party was outlined, and that he had aided in its formulation and subscribed to it.

Charles F. Donnelly, a special agent for the Lusk Committee, testified to the purchase of copies of the manifesto, referred to by the prosecution, and other publications, at the headquarters of the Communist Party, at 207 East Tenth Street, on Oct. 31. The copies were admitted to the record.

The manifesto proposed a plan for ending capitalism and providing a "workers' republic." It declared the League of Nations to be reactionary. The Socialist Party was condemned and its attitude during the war was criticised on the ground of conservatism and approval accorded to the Soviet of Russia. The American Federation of Labor was declared to be reactionary and a bulwark of capitalism. Assistant District Attorney Rorke submitted to the court what he said was the constitution of the Communist Party.

Held for Profiteering in Sugar.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 19.—Victor Laurence, Amie Grenier and Alphonse Lanoir of the Phenix Public Market at Phenix were arrested by Department of Justice officials today on charges alleging profiteering in retail sales of sugar. They are said by department agents to have made sales of sugar at the rate of 23⅓ cents a pound. They pleaded not guilty and were held in $1,000 each for trial next Thursday.

SURFACE LINES NEED CASH.

Owe $6,625,000 to Deferred Maintenance Accounts.

Testimony given yesterday before the Public Service Commission in an inquiry concerning deferred maintenance accounts of the surface railroad lines disclosed that the various companies owe $6,625,000 to these accounts and that they have practically no money laid aside to pay for upkeep and safe operation.

R. H. Nexsen, the commission's electrical and equipment engineer, stated that needed repairs to pavements, tracks and cars of the New York Railways Company would cost $1,256,000. Some of this money, he explained, would have to be used in repairs to the Eighth and Ninth Avenue lines, which are now under independent management.

Other lines which require the expenditure of large sums in order to make them safe for operation and in good repair, and the amounts each would have to spend, are: Third Avenue Railroad Company, $1,010,000; Union Railway Company, $997,000; the surface lines of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company and the Brooklyn City Railroad Company, $1,691,000; New York and Queens County Railway Company, $410,000; Richmond Light & Railroad Company, $325,000.

The Staten Island Midland Railway Company and the New York & North Shore Traction Company, which have suspended operation, would have to spend $200,000 and $60,000, respectively, before they could resume operation under proper conditions.

The hearing will be continued on March 29.

House Rejects Senate Amendments to Naval Measure.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—After refusing to agree to Senate amendments by which pay increases also would be given officers and men of the army, coast guard and public health services, the House today sent the naval pay bill to conference.

Declaring that Republican leaders seemed opposed to increases for any service men except petty officers and enlisted men of the navy, Representative Crago, Republican, of Pennsylvania, attacked the rule by which the bill was sent to conference, contending that it would block consideration of the other services.

LENIN WARNS ALLIES OF HORVATH DEALS

Note Sent to Allies and United States Says Soviet Regards Anti-Bolshevist Leader as a Bandit.

LONDON, March 19.—According to a Russian wireless dispatch today M. Tchitcherin, the Bolshevist Commissioner for Foreign Affairs, has sent a note to the Governments of Japan, Great Britain, France, Italy and the United States saying he had received information to the effect that General Horvath, anti-Bolshevist commander in the territory of the Chinese Eastern Railway, has entered into negotiations with the Japanese Government, or Japanese companies, for the sale of the commercial fleet on the Amur River.

The Commissioner declares this fleet is a part of the nationalized property of the Russian Government, and his communication adds:

"The Soviet Government expresses its firm conviction that the carrying out of such a transaction will not be permitted by the interested Governments."

The note alludes to General Horvath as a "self-appointed personage" who is considered by he Soviet Government to be "a bandit subject to a military criminal tribunal," and it gives warning that any relations with him "will be regarded as an encroachment upon the sovereign rights of the Soviet republic."

"Such a transaction will never be recognized by us," the note adds, "and can only hinder the resumption of our normal economic relations with the Japanese Government."

CIRCUS ARRIVES IN SNOW.

Crowd Watches Barnum and Bailey's Caravan Parade to Garden.

In the midst of a heavy snowstorm elephants, camels and other animals and the wagons of Barnum & Bailey's circus paraded down Fifth Avenue last night from the Port Morris station of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad to Madison Square Garden, where the circus opens next week.

A few minutes after the train came a crowd collected to watch the unloading and the start for the Garden, whither the cavalcade was preceded by three mounted policemen.

Small boys there to watch the annual event were few.

TURK NATIONALISTS ORGANIZE TO RESIST

BRITISH DEPORT AGITATORS

Several Deputies and a Prominent Woman Leader Banished to Malta.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 19.—Leaders of the Turkish Nationalists, from Azerbaijan to Palestine, seem to be co-operating in a movement to oppose allied proposals for a peace unfavorable to Turkey. Men closely associated with Mustapha Kemal, leader of the Nationalists, have been skillfully promoting opposition to all foreign interference, it is asserted, and the Arabs, Kurds and other tribes are said to be aligned with forces planning to checkmate any movement on the part of the Entente looking to the partitioning of the country.

The whole movement seems to be political rather than religious, being declared by many not to be Pan Islamic in any way. Whether Bolshevism enters into the situation has not as yet developed, but it may turn in that direction. Mesopotamia has so far held aloof from the Russian Bolsheviki.

Turkish newspapers frankly say the Allies cannot muster sufficient strength to force an unacceptable peace upon the country. They point to Captain Gabriele d'Annunzio's defiance of the Supreme Council of the Peace Conference and other instances in which the Allies have been powerless to enforce orders, and say it would be better, in any event, to risk humiliating defeat rather than have the country "turned into a group of European dependencies.".

With the exception of the Marash incident there have been no massacres of Christians, although there are large numbers of Armenians and Greeks at the mercy of the Turks in Asia Minor. These people are living in terror lest they be attacked when the peace terms are made known by the Allies, and even in this city well-to-do Armenians and Greeks are moving into the embassy section, which is under better police protection than outlying parts of the city. In some sections of Asia Minor Christians have appealed to the Entente to send troops, while in other regions the Allies have been asked to withdraw their troops, the presence of the soldiers being regarded as adding to the danger.

French detachments are reported to be meeting stubborn resistance in their effort to occupy districts northeast of Aleppo, where British troops were formerly stationed.

Americans in Asia Minor have been requested to remain absolutely neutral in the event of disorders in districts occupied by foreign armies. Great reliance is placed in Mustapha Kemal's pledge that Americans are not to be harmed, and many Armenians are placing themselves under the protection of American missionaries and relief workers.

Turkish Woman Novelist Exiled.

Halide Edib, the most prominent woman leader among the Turkish Nationalists, and Reouf Bey, Deputy for Sivas and mouthpiece of Mustapha Kemal in this city; Cara Vassif Bey and several other members of the Chamber of Deputies have been deported, presumably to Malta, by the British. They were placed on board the cruiser Hibiscus yesterday a little while before that warship sailed.

After Mustapha Kemal and Reouf Bey, Halide Edib was probably the best-known speaker and organizer in the Nationalist movement. When the Greeks landed at Smyrna and some Turks were killed she cast aside all traditions of Turkish women. She organized and addressed mass meetings and so inflamed the Turks here against alleged plans for the disemberment of the country that the allied High Commissioners forbade further meetings. She has often been described in the British press as a "firebrand and a dangerous agitator."

She was graduated from the American Woman's College here and won recognition as a novelist and poet. She is a widely traveled, handsome woman, and distinguished herself during the war as an aid to her husband, who was head of the Turkish Red Crescent, which fills the place of the Red Cross in the Turkish armies.

Status of General Milne Explained.

PARIS, March 18.—An explanation of the designation of Lieut. Gen. Sir George F. Milne of the British Army as commander of the allied troops at Constantinople is furnished by the Temps today. It points out that although General Franchet d'Esperey, commander of the interallied forces on the Macedonian front, is the superior of General Milne in rank and Constantinople is his headquarters, the British Government insisted after the defeat of Bulgaria that troops sent to the Near East should be under the command of a British officer.

The Temps says that General Franchet d'Esperey is still Commander in Chief of the allied forces in European Turkey, but that General Milne heads the Constantinople garrison.

MISS COBB ASKS HEARING.

Bedford Reformatory Head Wants Chance to Fight Dismissal.

BEDFORD, N. Y., March 19.—Miss Helen Cobb, Superintendent of the State Reformatory in Bedford, whose dismissal was recommended by Commissioner John S. Kennedy after his investigation of alleged cruelties to inmates of the institution, telegraphed to Governor Smith yesterday asking for a chance to be heard and represented by counsel.

Miss Cobb issued a statement denying the charges of cruelty. She said that many of the recommendations of Mr. Kennedy for improved equipment and methods duplicated recommendations of the Board of Managers, but were prevented from realization by insufficiency of appropriations. She said she was pleased with a paragraph in the report saying:

"The business and financial management seemed excellent, the buildings cleanly, orderly and well-kept, food and clothing ample and satisfactory" and that "excellent plans for education, industrial and domestic training are in operation."

Miss Cobb said that "when I took charge at Bedford I found the discipline at a very low ebb. The inmates were not properly fed or clothed, the buildings were in a bad state of repair and the general morale of the institution was very low."

MISS DEACON WINS LIBEL.

London Paper to Pay £500 for Naming Her with German Crown Prince.

LONDON, March 18.—Miss Gladys Deacon of Boston, Mass., sister of Princess Radziwill, was awarded today a verdict of £500 and costs against The Daily Graphic in court here, as damages for the publication of a libelous article by the newspaper on Jan. 1. The article complained of had asserted Miss Deacon was "banished from Germany, where her name was frequently coupled with that of the Crown Prince."

Owners of The Daily Graphic have apologized to Miss Deacon and made a formal statement that there was absolutely no foundation for the article. Miss Deacon's counsel declares the only time she ever met the German Crown Prince was while she was staying at Bleinheim with the Duchess of Marlborough.

10-CENT MILK PLAN OFFERED BY SWANN

ASKS DAIRYMEN TO HELP

Company Defends Limit on Output —Prosecution Under Lever Act Likely.

After conferring with Edward J. O'Malley, Commissioner of Markets, and Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Health Commissioner, District Attorney Swann announced yesterday that a plan is on foot to use $300,000 which the city gained through the recent sales of army and navy foodstuffs for the establishment of stations in the city for the distribution of milk to consumers at about 10 cents a quart. He said that the city could establish such stations in food depots, public health stations and in 600 public schools at the beginning of the Summer, and in that manner the 2,500,000 surplus quarts of milk which Loton Horton, President of the Sheffield Farms Company, recently told him were going to waste every day could be shipped here and disposed of to the residents of the city.

"In my conferences with Mr. O'Malley and Dr. Copeland," explained the District Attorney, "I mentioned the fact that two years ago officials of the Dairymen's League, which represents the producers, offered to ship milk direct to the city during the then pending milk strike, and to distribute it to a chain of stores they proposed to establish here. I hope the Dairymen's League will join us now in our efforts to bring the 2,500,000 surplus quarts of milk to this city, which representatives of the Sheffield Farms Company apparently are trying to cut off."

Mr. Swann said Mr. O'Malley and Dr. Copeland were in favor of the plan. Mr. O'Malley informed him, the District Attorney said, that there are seventy-three public health stations in charge of nurses who could superintend the disposal of the milk, and that each station is fully equipped to handle the milk. Each station, O'Malley said, has a large ice box in which the milk could be stored in ice, and, the District Attorney said, O'Malley suggested that the milk be sold in paraffine containers when it was not possible to sell it in bottles.

City Has $300,000 Fund.

"Commissioner O'Malley said," continued Mr. Swann, "that the containers, as well as the large cans which will have to be used in transporting the milk from the farms can be purchased out of the $300,000 obtained as profit through the sale of Government foodstuffs, and he has promised to work out details for the handling of the milk if the scheme can be worked out.

"After my conference with Health Commissioner Copeland I received assurance that Mayor Hylan undoubtedly will approve of the scheme. I expect to have a conference next Monday with Roswell D. Cooper, President of the Dairymen's League, and several members of the Sales Committee of the league. I shall discuss with them arrangements whereby the Dairymen's League can contract to sell the 2,500,000 quarts of milk each day to the city.

The District Attorney said he was informed that the representatives of the Dairymen's League in this city held a meeting here yesterday, at which, he was given to understand, the proposal to bring the surplus milk to this city was discussed.

After his conference Monday with President Cooper of the Dairymen's League, the District Attorney said, he will arrange for a conference with Mayor Hylan, Commissioner O'Malley and Health Commissioner Copeland. He said a rough estimate of the cost of a quart of milk at the farm placed the figure between 7 and 8 cents, and he was of the belief that if the milk can be purchased from the farmer at that figure the city authorities will be in a position to sell it to the consumers at about 10 cents, which would be at cost price.

Prosecution Plans Laid.

District Attorney Swann said that during the day Henry A. Goller, Assistant United States Attorney, informed him that Francis G. Caffey, United States Attorney for this district, had assigned him to investigate the charge that officials of the Sheffield Farms Company had violated the Lever War-time Food Conservation act by urging farmers not to increase the size of their herds and to decrease their milk supply.

"I informed Mr. Goller I shall place before him all the evidence we have already collected, as well as evidence we expect to have in our possession soon," said the District Attorney. "I believe from the evidence we already have gathered a conviction can be obtained under the Lever act, which specifically prevents limiting the production of food supplies during the war. The Lever act still is in effect, because the President has not proclaimed the war to have come to an end. The act also provides for trials of violators, even though the President should have issued his proclamation ending the war before the trials begin."

Health Commissioner Copeland, commenting yesterday on the efforts of District Attorney Swann to find legal grounds on which to prosecute milk distributers, said:

"The members of the Milk Trust have been breaking the law and will continue to do so when the Milk Conference Board and the representatives of the Dairymen's League meet tomorrow to decide on the price of milk for April. The Federal laws, however, are not sufficient to handle the situation and our only chance for relief is in State legislation."

Defense of Curtailment Notice.

Irwin G. Jennings, head of the Good Will Department of the Sheffield Farms Company, yesterday issued a statement in defense of the order recently posted on the door of the company's milk receiving station at Franklinville, N. Y., ordering decrease in supplies of milk from farmers in the vicinity.

"There are only three ways that a producer may increase his production at will," he said; "by regulating the freshening period; by feeding rich proteid foods; by buying more cows.

"The freshening period must be started at least nine months before the time when it is intended that more milk be produced. As the notice complained of was meant to take immediate effect it could have no reference to this method of restricting milk production except for future guidance.

"Rich proteid foods are very high in price and subject to shortages and increasing higher prices. This method of increasing the supply should be regulated more or less according to the demand for it.

"Regarding the purchase of more cows, in a declining market for cows, and where a curtailment of a demand for milk is noted, this method of increasing the milk supply would be bad business policy, and those familiar with conditions, mainly the dealers, owe it as a duty to their producers to warn them.

"The demand for milk is not dependent as much as is popularly supposed on its cheapness. Several hundred thousands more quarts of milk were consumed when milk was selling at 18 cents a quart last January than when it was selling at 9 cents several years ago. There never was a time, even when more than half the New York milk supply was at 6 cents or less a quart, that the public consumed as milk all the supply in the months of May and June. Any of the supply, therefore, that is treated as surplus is handled at a loss, which eventually becomes a public loss.

"The following is a fundamental economic principle of the milk business: Furnishing all the milk the public will buy as milk tends to cheapen its price. But increasing the surplus over and above this demand tends to increase the price of milk. The only effect of dumping 2,500,000 quarts of surplus into New York City would be to glut the milk market, break down all the sanitary safeguards of the milk supply and cause tremendous losses both of product and of capital.

Under what rule of moral law and business policy should a milk dealer who has agreed to take all the milk produced by a sufficient number of dairies to cover his needs during the short months, and in order to do this loading himself up with a heavy surplus in flush times, be expected at the beginning of an unusual period of surplus to make his creameries the dumping ground for all the dairies which heretofore have gone to his competitors and whose facilities for producing sanitary milk may be in grave doubt?

Loss of $50,000 a Day Figured.

"Thus, if a surplus condition and surplus demand warrant a five-cent price to the farmer, why should the Sheffield Farms Company, which has been ridiculously and unfairly charged with keeping 2,500,000 quarts out of the city, lose two cents a quart or $50,000 a day? On this basis there might be a loss of $1,500,000 per month.

"How would the farmers know conditions, especially the export market, if they were not advised? Were they not entitled under the circumstances to a notice and a warning? Why should they be allowed to buy more cows, to increase a glutted market and thus sell the milk at a loss and probably their cows as well? In as much as all magnanimously agree that the farmers should be allowed to make a profit, and in theory even the milk dealer, who would ultimately suffer these losses but the public itself?

"One thing that would contribute to a lowering of the cost of milk would be to have less surplus in May and June and more milk produced in July and August. The above notice was intended to prevent the regular Sheffield patrons from buying more cows and producing more milk under adverse conditions. It could have no other meaning, as the farmers at this time cannot prevent the freshening of their cows in the months of May or June."

District Attorney Swann yesterday expected to question Leroy A. Von Bomel, a director of the Sheffield Farms Company, about the order he is alleged to have sent to the receiving station at Franklinville, which the District Attorney asserts is a violation of the Lever act, but Von Bomel did not appear at the District Attorney's office. Mr. Swann said he received word from Von Bomel that he was very busy on matters connected with the business of the company, and asked if the District Attorney would not defer the matter until a later date. The District Attorney said he acceded to Von Bomel's request but said he expected Von Bomel to appear at his office in a few days.

OFFICER SUES MORRIS PLAN.

A. E. F. Man Seeks $50,000, Charging Baseless Judgment.

Edwin H. Quinby, chief engineer of the Consolidated Telegraph and Electrical Subway Company, who served as an army officer abroad, sued the Morris Plan in the Supreme Court yesterday for $50,000 damages. He alleges that he borrowed money from the defendant and lived up to the terms of the agreement, but that through an error, which the defendant admitted, it took judgment against him for the amount of the loan and also against his two indorsers, who were associates in the corporation employing him, and executions were levied against the salaries of all three.

Mr. Quinby said the action of the defendant held him up to ridicule and contempt and caused the employer, who had promised him an increase in salary, to refuse it on the ground that he had brought disgrace upon himself, his associates and the corporation. He contends that the defendant acted wantonly and maliciously.

Discredit Mexican-Japanese Treaty Yarn.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The State Department, it was learned today, does not believe any treaty exists which guarantees to Mexico immediate Japanese assistance if Mexico should be attacked by another nation. Alleged negotiations for such a treaty between Eliseo Arredondo, Mexican Minister to Spain, and a Japanese diplomat at Madrid, were reported in press dispatches today. According to the report an important series of letters, the majority of which were exchanged between Arredondo and President Carranza's Government, purporting to pertain to the negotiations for an offensive and defensive treaty between Mexico and Japan, have come into possession of the Senate sub-committee investigating the Mexican situation. The report states that whether or not the treaty involved was ever concluded is a matter of conjecture.

WILL KEEP UP FIGHT AGAINST CATHOLICS

W. H. Anderson Sees Recent Attack as "Working Out to Prohibition Advantage."

FOR A GILLETT INQUIRY

Dry Leader Asks Assembly Who Is Financing Campaign for Beer and Wine Bill.

William H. Anderson, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New York, in a letter "to the pastors of New York State who intend to see the prohibition fight through," made public yesterday, declared that his attack on Catholics in a letter to Protestant ministers some two weeks ago is "working out to prohibition advantage."

"We knew exactly what we were doing when we started this Catholic proposition," writes Mr. Anderson. "We are surprised at the small number of people that have been alarmed by the Catholic fulminations. We have simply called an ancient bluff and have demonstrated that it is possible to blow the smoke screen away from those who attempt to use the name and prestige of a great Church to further unworthy ends. Catholics who are wet and dabbling in politics as Catholics to promote certain ends are no exception to the rule that turning on the light destroys most of their power for harm. We have been exceedingly careful to avoid starting this row, but now that it has been started by Cardinal Gibbons and the Archbishop of New York and others, we intend to see that it is finished on terms that are in harmony with Americansm." Mr. Anderson also attacked the newspapers in New York and "most of those up-State," calling them lying newspapers.

Would Investigate Gillett.

In a letter to the Assembly of the State of New York yesterday, the Anti-Saloon League chief said:

"While you are 'investigating,' why not do the job right? Everybody knows that the Anti-Saloon League is raising money in behalf of prohibition and spending it to advance that cause, but the situation is not so clear with respect to Colonel Gillett, whose remarks at the hearing foreshadowed and whose name is signed to a large display advertisement printed up-State, the heading of which is so worded that it can be used in every district without special change, setting out the alleged merits of 'his' beer and wine bill and urging support for it.

"Some pertinent questions are:

"Is Colonel Gillett paying for this advertisement personally out of what is left of his $1,500 salary as an Assemblyman, after paying his last Fall's wet campaign expenses?

"If not, who is furnishing the money and who is he a false front for?

"If he is taking money from somebody else to resurrect the breweries, is he working for the people of his district and the interests of the State, or is he working for those who furnish the money?

"Is a brewery booster and lobbyist any less a brewery booster and lobbyist merely because he belongs to the Assembly? What other Assemblyman ever spent money openly for the breweries?

French Wine Propaganda.

"Is Mr. Gillett doing this because of his thirst for beer, or because he loves the brewers? Or, is it in return for favors in the last election or favors expected in the future?

"What is Mr. Gillett's connection with the notorious propaganda of the French wine interests, frankly proposed to be carried on through the American Expeditionary Forces in France, to make them advocates of wine when they returned home?

"Is it not up to the Assembly to start into an investigation of the Anti-Saloon League with clean hands by cleaning up its own premises first? Colonel Gillett proposes to handle the letters of those in favor of beer and wine if they do not know just to whom to write. If there is a tenth as much sentiment for beer and wine as he claims, the correspondence will be enormous. Who is furnishing the clerical force to take care of it? Is Colonel Gillett paying for it? Are the brewers paying for it? Or is it being done by Assembly clerks, paid at the expense of the taxpayers of the State?"

A reply to Woodhaven Post 118, American Legion, was made yesterday by Mr. Anderson. The post resented the charge of Mr. Anderson that some service men are "brewery tools." Mr. Anderson said his statement reflects only upon those members to whom it applies, and not upon the American Legion as a whole. He declared he has no apology to offer, which was asked by the post. Mr. Anderson said that if anybody had discredited the American Legion it is the individual members "who have done discreditable things."

CAN REPEAL DRY LAW.

Father Blakely Counsels Obedience, but Asserts Right to Reconsider.

The Rev. Paul L. Blakely, S. J., delivered a lecture at the Fordham University School of Sociology and Social Service last night on the Eighteenth Amendment.

"The Eighteenth Amendment," the speaker said, "is part of the Constitution of the United States and is therefore the supreme law of the land, and it must be obeyed by every law-abiding citizen, and as good citizens and Catholics we are bound to abide by it, but we are not bound to acquiesce in it.

"There is no law in the American form of government that is immutable. There is no law or phrase of the law that cannot be changed. We formed this Government and we can repeal and destroy it. We accepted this amendment and we can repeal it. We accepted the Volstead act and we can repeal it."

MAY SUMMON ANDERSON.

Assemblymen Talk of Demanding Public Retraction of His Attacks.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 19.—Superintendent Anderson, of the Anti-Saloon League, may be brought before the Assembly to answer for attacks on legislators, which have been termed by them as "vilifying."

Asserting that some action must be taken to put a stop to Anderson's vilification, friends of Colonel Gillett stated tonight that action might be expected Monday night, demanding that Anderson publicly retract his abusive characterizations of Assemblymen who have indicated they will support beer and light wine legislation.

Says Legislators Get Liquors.

JACKSON, Miss., March 19.—Declaring he had reason to believe intoxicating liquors were being sold "openly and brazenly" to members of the Legislature, Major W. Calvin Wells, Federal Prohibition Commissioner for Mississippi appealed to the lawmakers today as a law-abiding citizen to reveal the source of their supply. The lower house voted down last week a bill to appropriate funds to aid the Federal authorities in running down moonshiners.

Calls Dry Referendum Illegal.

Rev. L. P. Tucker, Field Secretary of the New York State Anti-Saloon League, told of the activities of the league in connection with the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution last night at a meeting of the Men's Brotherhood of the Fourth Presbyterian Church. He said that the Eighteenth Amendment was adopted in as legal and constitutional a manner as any of the seventeen amendments which preceded it and that the Governor's proposal of a referendum is "absolutely illegal."

TALK OF A HOOVER PARTY.

Special to The New York Times.

CONCORD, N. H., March 19.—A movement is under way in New Hampshire to form a third party, with Herbert Hoover as its candidate. Prominent Democrats are identified with the move. Conferences are being held almost daily.

Two days after Mr. Hoover's telegram refusing a Democratic nomination the first conference was held among National Committeeman Robert C. Murchie, former State Food Administrator; Huntley N. Spaulding, Robert Jackson of this city and Clarence E. Carr of Andover at the Eagle Hotel. Jackson, who will go to the Democratic Convention, says he will vote for Hoover "in the convention or out."

HOOVER IN CALIFORNIA RACE

Contests Republican Primary May 4 with Senator Johnson.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 19.—Delegates pledged to support Herbert C. Hoover and Senator Johnson for the Republican Presidential nomination will contest at the primary election on May 4 for the delegates to the National Convention at Chicago. Political leaders here said they considered it improbable that other candidates for the nomination would enter the State with a list of delegates.

The primary election will have only two other ballots, the Democratic ticket and the Prohibition ticket, and each of these will be uninstructed and unopposed.

NEWSPAPERS RAISE PRICE.

Five Westchester Journals Go to 3 Cents Because of Paper Shortage.

The scarcity and high cost of newsprint paper has forced five daily newspapers in Westchester County to increase their retail price to 3 cents within the last week.

The Yonkers Herald went to 3 cents on Monday. The Tarrytown News suspended publication for one day on Tuesday owing to its inability to obtain white paper at any cost. Next day it raised its rate to 3 cents. The Mount Vernon Argus, Port Chester Item and Ossining Citizen-Sentinel have followed the lead of the others in adopting the 3-cent rate.

WOOD'S PLATFORM IS 'SQUARE DEAL'

General Tells South Dakota Voters What He Stands For as Candidate.

DISCUSSES VITAL PROBLEMS

Special to The New York Times.

BROOKINGS, S. D., March 19.—Major General Leonard Wood, campaigning for the South Dakota delegation to the National Convention, invaded today that part of the State which a few weeks ago was practically conceded to Governor Lowden, of Illinois. Starting at Howard, in Minor County, at 8:40 o'clock this morning, General Wood talkel to the people of Lake, Kingsbury and Broklings Counties, all claimed by the managers of the opposition candidates as certain to go against the General in next Tuesday's primaries. That Lowden and Johnson are stronger in these counties than in others visited earlier in the week by General Wood may be true, but there there was no ocular evidence of the fact discoverable today.

At Howard General Wood found a large crowd of enthusiastic men and women, who met him with a brass band and cheered him time and again during the short time he was the guest of that town. At Madison, county seat of Lake County and one of the principal towns in this part of the State, he spoke to a crowd that packed to capacity the largest hall in the county, included in the audience being 800 ex-service men, a majority of whom had served under him at Camp Funston. Another bid crowd, and just as enthusiastic as the others, greeted the candidate at Lake Preston, county seat of Kingsbury County.

General Wood spoke tonight at Brookings, seat of the county of the same name. He was due here at 7 o'clock, but his train, owing to snow and other adverse weather conditions, did not arrive until 9:30 o'clock, and it was twenty minutes later when he appeared in the Brookings Auditorium, where he received an ovation from the men and women who crowded the place to its capacity.

At all of his meetings today General Wood discussed the problems of the farm, labor and capital, foreign relations and universal military training. Before the great audience in Madison he summarized the platform on which he seeks the Republican nomination for the Presidency.

Outlines His Platform.

"What we are working for in America today," he said, "is government of the people and by the people; absolute democracy; courts untouched by politics, independent of all outside influence; no class legislation; a square deal for everybody; a strong but not quarrelsome foreign policy; friendly relations with all nations; the building up of arbitration, and of the best possible conditions in this country; bringing women into politics whole-heartedly and without any reservations; doing everything we can to improve the general conditions under which those who work shall live.

"It is not enough to let people live; we must help them to live, and under conditions where those who work industriously may know that what they save will be their own. We must establish thrift and industry in this country. Industry means production, and production we must have.

"There is nothing to worry about if we pull together. Destructive criticism is useless. The things that are done are done and exist only as lessons for the future. There is no use whining about the expenses of the war. We regret them, but they, with a part of our losses of life, were the result of our unpreparedness. We must take the lesson to heart and not let such things occur again. The past is the past. Our great concern is with the future."

Urges Peace Treaty.

General Wood again urged, tonight, the prompt ratification of what he termed a properly amended treaty of peace. "We ought," he said, "to get rid of the treaty through action in Congress. The Senate ought to dispose of the treaty as provided by the Constitution. It should not be held over for the election. It is too vital. The world wants to settle down and the world will be a great deal better off when we decide what we are going to do. But whatever we do we want to remain a free people, free to act as we see fit."

Governor Norbeck, who is campaigning the State for General Wood, joined him last night at Mitchell. The Governor told THE TIMES correspondent that there was no question in his mind as to how South Dakota would go on Tuesday.

"It is simply a question of the size of General Wood's plurality," said Governor Norbeck.

General Wood will go tomorrow to Pierre, where at night he will debate the issues before the public with Senator Poindexter.

REPUBLICAN CHIEFS TO FIGHT JOHNSON

Aroused by accusations of managers of Senator Hiram W. Johnson's campaign for the Republican Presidential nomination, that the Republican Old Guard is using the tactics of 1912 to defeat a free expression of the will of the people regarding the selection of a President at the National Convention in Chicago next June, Republican leaders in the city and State plan to put up a spirited fight against the Johnson candidates for delegates at the primaries on April 6.

Besides the dozen or more speeches Senator Johnson will make in Manhattan and Brooklyn during the two weeks preceding the primaries, another was added yesterday to his list. On Saturday, April 3, the Senator will discuss the Adriatic question at a meeting at Carnegie Hall under the auspices of the Order of the Sons of Italy. The invitation for the Senator to speak was extended through Stefalo Miele, National Master of the order. It is said to be an organization of nearly half a million members covering the entire country. The meeting will be non-political and members of all parties will be asked to attend. Other speakers will be present.

Chairman Will H. Hays of the Republican National Committee is said to feel alarmed over the bitterness that has developed among factions of the Republican organization as a result of the activities of the various candidacies, and especially over the fight that is to be made in New York. Friends of the Chairman said yesterday that he is taking no part in the contest, and is carefully refraining from exhibiting any interest in any one candidate. If the ill-feeling now being engendered among the Republicans is in evidence after the primaries the National Chairman will become exceedingly active in the work of patching up differences, so that the party will be entirely harmonious during the campaign this Fall.

Information concerning General Wood's candidacy, issued yesterday at the Wood headquarters here, included the following:

"The Fifth Tennessee District has just elected two delegates instructed to vote for Wood, making ten instructed Wood delegates thus far chosen in that State. Tennessee has twenty delegates, and all of them will be pledged to Wood.

"John S. Darst, State Auditor of West Virginia, has organized a big Wood Club in Huntington, W. Va.

"John W. Towle, Nebraska manager, wired William Cooper Procter, national manager, that 75 per cent. of the American Legion men in that State are for Wood, regardless of politics. Most of the business men in Nebraska—conservatives, progressives and so-called standpatters—are for Wood.

"Mrs. J. H. Arnold, wife of a former Lieutenant Governor of Ohio, has been named as Chairman of the Ohio Women's Wood organization.

"Two of the leading negro papers in Ohio strongly indorsed Wood and condemned the tactics of Harding and Harry Daugherty, his campaign manager, in attempting to hand-pick delegates, ignoring 150,000 colored voters on the delegate list. The negro voters have organized their own forces voluntarily for Wood. Three Cleveland Congressional districts are organized for active primary campaign. Carl B. Ford is Chairman. Other organizers were Federal Judge Day, D. R. Hanna, Jr., and George A. Reynolds, manager of three successful campaigns for Mayor Davis of Cleveland.

"The Indiana Wood headquarters has completed plans for a State-wide organization of women. Mrs. Curtis Hodges of Indianapolis is Chairman of the Women's Committee, and will appoint a manager in every county."

It was announced that Leonard Wood leagues are being formed in all sections of New Jersey, and meetings are taking place daily. Assemblyman Theodore Roosevelt is to be one of the principal Wood speakers in the various primary campaigns, it was announced.

John R. Davies, manager of the Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler campaign, said yesterday that enthusiastic reports regarding the progress of Dr. Butler's campaign had come from the Southern States, which the candidate recently visited.

TWELVE OF MINNESOTA DELEGATES FOR WOOD

Ten More Are Uninstructed and Others Will Be Selected Tomorrow and Wednesday.

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 19.—Five delegations of two each instructed to vote for General Leonard Wood for the Presidential nomination, four uninstructed delegations and the Tenth District delegation split into two factions, one for Wood and one uninstructed, will be sent to the Republican National Convention at Chicago next June. This lineup was determined today, when Republicans in eight of the State's ten Congressional districts held conventions to select delegates to the National and State Conventions. The Fourth (St. Paul) and Fifth (Minneapolis) Districts met Wednesday.

The Tenth District Convention, which met at Minneapolis, split at the opening of the meeting over the naming of a chairman. Part of the delegates left the floor and met in a convention of their own, naming two delegates to vote for Wood. The other convention then elected two uninstructed delegates.

'NICKY' SETS HOUR, FAILS TO APPEAR

Arnstein Changes Mind After Agreeing to Surrender in Court at 4:10 P. M.

FEARS A NIGHT IN TOMBS

"Nicky" Arnstein revealed himself as a rather temperamental fugitive when in the space of fifteen minutes yesterday he announced he would surrender himself before Justice Weeks, in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court, and then changed his mind. William J. Fallon and Eugene F. McGee, counsel for Arnstein, were engaged in a trial before Justice Weeks at 3:30 o'clock when they received word that "Nicky" would step off a train in a few minutes and that he wanted Mr. McGee to meet him at a certain place in the city, so he could accompany the lawyer in an automobile to the Criminal Courts Building.

Mr. McGee hurried out of the courtroom to meet the elusive "Nicky," but he hardly had left the Criminal Courts Building when word was conveyed to District Attorney Swann and Assistant District Attorneys Dooling, Murphy and Unger that the much-sought Arnstein was in town and was about to surrender himself on an indictment charging him with being connected with the alleged plot to steal millions of dollars' worth of securities from brokerage houses in the financial district.

Feared Hitch Over Bond.

While Mr. Dooling was in conference with Mr. Fallon, it was declared that "Nicky" had every intention of surrendering himself up to about ten minutes of 4 o clock, but that he had changed his mind because he feared there might be a slip-up in the arrangements for having him released on $100,000 bail, pending his trial on the indictment, which slip-up might result in his being committed to a cell in the Tombs over night.

A representative of a surety company, who seemed to be the most excited person in the Criminal Courts Building over the return of "Nicky" to the jurisdiction of the court, explained that arrangements had been made with his company by friends of the fugitive to provide the bail. He said Arnstein's friends had placed with the surety company collateral to back up the bail bond.

During a recess of the trial in which Mr. Fallon was engaged he said that he expected to receive a message from Mr. McGee, and soon after he received word from Mr. McGee that "Nicky" did not meet him at the rendezvous. Mr. Fallon urged his fellow-counsel to stay at the place until he received word from the fugitive. "I told him to tell Arnstein to come down to court right away," explained Mr. Fallon, "as everything had been carefully attended to and there was no chance of his being placed in a cell in the Tombs once he appeared before Justice Weeks."

News that Arnstein at last had condescended to surrender himself spread swiftly throughout the lower end of the city, and soon the corridor outside Justice Weeks's court on the second floor of the Criminal Court Building was packed with men and women. The representative of the surety company furnished the information that the automobile containing "Nicky" would "come right up to the front door of the Court House." Eventually a large touring automobile pulled up to the main entrance of the Criminal Court Building on Centre Street, and there was a wild rush down the stone steps leading to the sidewalk to greet "Nicky."

Four well-groomed young men got out of the automobile and immediately the men and women who lined the path to the courtroom began to greet the party with salutations such as: "Hello, Nicky!" "How'd you like the trip?" "Where's your mustache?"

The party proved to be composed of lawyers who had called at the Court House to meet Mr. Fallon. Later another automobile pulled up to the door and this time at least 500 men and women crowded around the vehicle. Two motion picture operators stepped out and blandly greeted the Arnstein "reception committee." By that time Mr. Fallon had received word that "Nicky" had delayed his appearance in court until Monday morning. Then the "reception committee" melted away.

CALLS JUSTICE SLOW.

Legal Aid Attorney Backs Findings of Carnegie Foundation.

Leonard McGee, attorney in chief of the Legal Aid Society, said yesterday that after an investigation he had reached the conclusion that the finding of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching was right when it stated in a report that the poor had difficulty in obtaining justice in the courts. He found no fault with the administration of justice to the poor, but rather criticised the slow moving and complex machinery set up to grind out justice. New York City, he said, had gone further than any other jurisdiction in obtaining justice for the poor.

Mr. McGee described the procedure in the Municipal Courts and said that when litigation reaches the point where the clerk of the court made out an execution of judgment and handed it to a City Marshal the real trouble began, for, he said, a condition existed and has existed here for ten years that made for serious delay. Mr. McGee will deal with this subject in his annual report, soon to be issued.

"In a wage claim," he said, "speed is the essence of justice, for the suit is brought to obtain a means of livelihood. This serious delay can be placed, and properly so, at the doors of our city marshals. As an example, one of my branch offices turned over to certain marshals executions amounting to $1,832.63 and not more than $100 of this amount was collected. Supplementary proceedings were instituted and many of these judgments collected. I have found that some of the city marshals simply pigeon-hole executions that have been issued on free summonses because of the smallness of the amount involved and the inability of the marshals to collect substantial fees.

INDICT A. D. PORTER, ENRIGHT'S DEPUTY

made 165 arrests in the Fourth Inspection District in February.

The transfer of Wheelwright and Sorger occurred after they told their stories to Assistant District Attorney James E. Smith, according to the latter. They did not appear as accusers against Mr. Porter as the result of a grudge, according to Assistant District Attorney Smith, who said that he had sent for them and drawn the story from them after spending two months investigating rumors involving the Deputy Commissioner.

The facts surrounding the transfer of the two detectives, threats alleged to have been made against them and other measures alleged to have been taken to prevent a charge from being made against the Deputy Commissioner will be placed before the Grand Jury, and other indictments, it was said, may follow.

Assistant District Attorney Smith said that he had first heard of the story two months ago, but did not then learn the name of the police official implicated or the correct address of the apartment where the incident was said to have occurred. Mr. Smith said he checked up raids at various addresses in the West Nineties without results. Recently, he said, he investigated the raid in West Ninety-sixth Street and then sent for the detectives who made it. When questioned at his office they told him the whole story, declared Mr. Smith.

The transfer of the detectives, immediately after Mr. Smith got in touch with them, is attributed by members of the District Attorney's staff to the circumstance that detectives from Police Headquarters are constantly on watch in the Criminal Courts Building in order to keep posted on every move of the so-called vice and graft investigations now under way in the District Attorney's office and before the Grand Jury.

Describe Raid via Fire Escape.

The raid in West Ninety-sixth Street, according to the detectives, followed a complaint by neighbors. The telephone at the apartment was tapped and the conversations over the telephone convinced the detectives that the complaint was well founded. Accordingly, on the night of Nov. 12, they went to the building and stationed themselves on the fourth floor in order to watch visitors to the apartment under suspicion, which was on the third floor. After seeing two men visit it the detectives say they went out on the fire escape, descended to the third floor and came in through the window, shouting that everybody in the place was under arrest. Two men were surprised and captured, they said, one called "Brooklyn Jack" in the affidavit of Detective Sorger, while the other is alleged to have been Mr. Porter.

"Do you know who you are talking to?" the second man exclaimed, according to the story of the detectives.

"No," was the answer.

"I am the Third Deputy Police Commissioner."

"That is what they all say," replied one of the detectives.

The prisoner then produced the card of the Deputy Commissioner, it is asserted. While they were inspecting the card, the prisoner is alleged to have directed them to free him and his companion at once.

"All right, you are our boss," one of the detectives replied, according to their story. The detectives said that their superior promised to protect them against all ill results from the disappearance of their prisoners.

The detectives, however, arrested the lessee of the flat, known as Adele Goodell, 70 years of age. She was held in the Magistrate's Court on the charge of conducting a disorderly house. The three detectives testified against her, telling the same story which they later told Assistant District Attorney Smith, with the exception that they did not identify the police official. Adele Goodell was tried in Special Sessions on Jan. 12 of this year, but acquitted. At that trial the detectives again censored their testimony, saying nothing to involve any police official and gave the impression that they did not know the identity of the man they had released.

Testimony Valid, Says Swann Aid.

Assistant District Attorney Smith said the transcript of the testimony at the Goodell trial would not be available until today. He added that he was not afraid the evasions the detectives practiced in their testimony or any conflicts between their testimony at Special Sessions and their story before the Grand Jury, would impair their value as witnesses. He said:

"I don't know that there are any real discrepancies in their different stories. I think their testimony at the trial will rather tend to prove the truth of their present story and to prove the coercion used to compel them not to involve the police official."

When Mr. Smith was asked why the police official, if he had ordered the release of himself and his companion, had not also ordered the release of Adele Goodell, keeping the case from getting into court at all, he replied that the detectives would have been liable to prosecution if they broke into an apartment and failed to make an arrest or show justification for their conduct.

According to the detectives they were warned not to tell of the occurrence to any one, but they did tell the story, they said, to their commanding officer, Inspector McDonald. Later, according to the detective, the story got abroad and was circulated widely, finally coming to the ears of Deputy Commission Porter.

The detectives asserted that they were summoned before the Third Deputy and accused by him of tattling. He repeated a warning to them, the detectives added, and asserted that he had acquainted Commissioner Enright with his version of the case.

Text of the Charge.

"Well knowing his duty, and intending and contriving as such public duty as such public officer to prostitute and betray his said office, he did willfully and unlawfully wholly fail, neglect and omit to perform the said duty so enjoined him by the laws of the State of New York and the said rules and regulations of the said Police Department as aforesaid, in that he, the said defendant, did then and there willfully fail refuse and neglect to arrest and apprehend the said Jane Doe upon the charge of having committed the act and crime aforesaid, and failed, refused and neglected then and there to direct and command the said Hilbert Wheelwright and Fred Sorger, and each of them, so being such patrolmen aforesaid, to arrest and apprehend the said Jane Doe upon the charge of having committed the act and crime aforesaid, but, on the contrary, he, the said defendant, willfully and knowingly did then and there direct and command the said Hilbert Wheelwright and Fred Sorger, and each of them, so being such patrolmen aforesaid, in the violation of their said duty, not to arrest and apprehend the said Jane Doe upon the charge of having committed the said act and crime and to suffer and permit her to go free, against the form of the statute in such case made and provided and against the peace of the people of the State of New York and their nignity."

Third Deputy Commissioner Porter was acting head of the entire Police Department in August of last year when Commissioner Enright and the First and Second Deputies were on their vacations. Mr. Porter entered office with Police Commissioner Enright as his secretary, which office he had held under Commissioner McKay. He was a Lieutenant Colonel of the Twelfth Infantry, N. G. N. Y., in 1918, when he retired. He served first as a private in the Pennsylvania National Guard in 1885. He served in the Spanish War as a Battalion Adjutant and Regimental Commissary. He was later Captain on the First Brigade Staff of the Pennsylvania Guard. He is a nephew of the late General Richard C. Drum, Adjutant-General, U. S. A. He is a member of the Union Club, Society of Colonial Wars, Sons of the Revolution, Society of Foreign Wars, 1812 Society and others.

When reporters called at Police Headquarters in the afternoon, Commissioner Enright sent out word that he had nothing to say.

BRITISH LABOR AROUSED BY NEW PARTY MOVE

LONDON, March 19.—Winston Spencer Churchill, the War Secretary, today added fuel to the political conflagration, started by the proposal of Premier Lloyd George that the Coalition Liberals and Unionists unite into a new party to oppose the Labor Party and the extremists.

In an article in The Evening News Mr. Churchill reiterates the Premier's call of yesterday and characterizes the Socialist Party as the darkest and most formidable menace with which British civilization is confronted.

In the meantime, Andrew Bonar Law, the Government leader, is making a speech also upholding the coalition.

Labor has been quick to accept the challenge and Labor statements today indicate that the Laborites are prepared to fight to the bitter finish to determine which party shall hold power in the Government.

THE SENATE KILLS THE TREATY.

The Senate's prolonged and disgraceful exhibition of mean-spirited partisanship and incompetence came to an appropriately miserable ending yesterday in the vote, 49 to 35, rejecting the Treaty. Senator LODGE has accomplished his purpose, but not in the way he had planned. He has never wavered in his resolve to destroy Mr. WILSON's work, but he intended that the Senate should ratify, the President reject. It was not the Treaty of Versailles that he would have ratified, neither he nor his Republican associates would have assented to that; it was his purpose to ratify his own League covenant, the mangled remains of the compact after he and his packed Committee on Foreign Relations had worked their evil will upon it and shorn away those provisions which afforded a hopeful protection against war.

He was balked in that design by the offensive and impossible reservation respecting Ireland proposed by Mr. GERRY, a Democratic Senator from Rhode Island, and adopted by the Senate. As a retort to Mr. LODGE's partisan tactics, the Gerry reservation is politically understandable. It cannot for one moment be defended or condoned, even on that ground. Mr. GERRY manoeuvred to force the Senate to reject the Treaty, which was not at all what Mr. LODGE wanted. The Senate is Republican, and there rests the responsibility for the rejection. Mr. LODGE might at any time have secured ratification with reservations sufficient for every reasonable purpose, reservations not obviously intended as dagger-thrusts. He has been beaten at his own game, a most despicable, deadly game, and upon him, as the leader of the Republican majority, the actual responsibility falls and will rest.

The end he sought to accomplish did not justify Senator GERRY's reservation about Ireland. No merely political exigency could justify such an affront to a friendly nation. It is conceivable that the vote of the Senate to inject matter of this offensive nature into an instrument of international importance might disturb our relations with a Power with which we should always be on terms of friendship. Mr. GERRY has been little heard of in the Senate; he is now heard of to his serious disadvantage.

The wreck of the Treaty is so complete that the country may well despair of any salvage. But to say that this great instrument of liberty and peace cannot be saved would be, indeed, a counsel of despair, unworthy of the acceptance of a nation which only a few months ago cherished noble aspirations, the aspiration above all of ending the World War in a way to make the repetition of it impossible. Although the Treaty of Versailles was killed on Nov. 19—we have the high authority of Senator LODGE for the statement that it was then "dead"—although Mr. LODGE's own treaty has now been killed, hope is not dead and hope should sustain the soul of every man and woman in the country who loves peace and abhors war. Now that the bloody work has been done in Washington there should be a revulsion of feeling there. Would it not be possible for President WILSON to take advantage of his present opportunity to address to the Senate and to the country a statement picturing forth, as he of all men knows best how to picture forth, the consequences of our failure to ratify the Treaty, of our refusal to become a member of the League of Nations?

Such a statement would be effective in proportion that it was not controversial. Let him portray the present condition of the world, the recently observed and lamentable tendencies toward a relapse into old ways and practices, in contrast with that condition of hopefulness and security dependent upon law and right and justice in the relation of peoples which would be established by our entry into the society of nations. We are the one remaining great Power that holds aloof. Such an attitude was not expected of us, a year ago the American people themselves would have said it was impossible. We cannot hold aloof, for neither we nor the world can afford to face the consequences, the certain disasters flowing from our abstention. Some men may talk of precedents, they may say that it is impossible that the Treaty should be revived and resubmitted. Let precedents be hanged. They are too often the plague of good men, of good resolution, of beneficent purposes. The Senate, we are sure, has learned much in these months of strife. Certainly, the President must have learned something. Confronting as we do at this hour a great peril, let animosities be laid aside, let both departments of the treaty-making power join in the effort to put the Treaty and the League covenant into effect. Reservations there may be and will be, but the country would demand and compel ratification if it understood what dangers failure to make peace and enter the League involves and invites.

LATEST FROM MR. EDWARDS.

Governor EDWARDS of New Jersey continues to be the Puck of politics. His talent for making other people uncomfortable is wonderful. After Vice President MARSHALL and Mr. MCADOO have entered into a gentlemen's agreement not to file petitions in Indiana, EDWARDS suddenly files one on the last day, and the Vice President has to gallop to get his own petition in. Mr. MCADOO also gallops, but does not arrive in time, the lists being closed. Then Mr. EDWARDS suddenly withdraws his petition, and the Vice President, with impaired dignity, withdraws his. What is one to do with such a man?

But Mr. EDWARDS withdraws not only in Indiana but everywhere. All the petitions filed for him in all States are withdrawn except in one State where the law provides no method of withdrawal. This greatly delights the soul of Mr. BRYAN, who takes it to mean that Mr. EDWARDS is out of the race, and delivers an edifying sermon thereon. Mr. EDWARDS, with what secret glee one can imagine, kindly sets the Commoner right. His withdrawal of petitions does not mean that he is out of the race, he explains; it means that he is in it more than ever. He withdrew the petitions so as to get into the now fashionable game of going after uninstructed delegations.

This development of the campaign is one of its most peculiar features. General WOOD, for instance, has less than a score of pledged delegates, yet his managers claim about 250 already roped, tied and branded. Nearly all of them, it will be seen, are uninstructed. The same game is being played industriously by the Old Guard, with a view to swinging those uninstructed delegates whom they control to LOWDEN, HARDING, or whoever may seem in June to have the best chance as against WOOD, HOOVER and JOHNSON. JOHNSON seems to be making a straight-out fight for pledged delegations, but he is an exception among the leading candidates. On the Democratic side MARSHALL and MCADOO are imploring the voters not to instruct a single delegate for them.

The great advantages of this scheme, which has never been exploited before on such a scale, struck Governor EDWARDS just in time. He therefore got all his petitions out of the way and joined in the new game. As he did not explain his reasons, however, he led Mr. BRYAN into a trap and leaves him there looking uncommonly foolish. At the same time, his ability to make trouble for BRYAN if the latter carries out his threats to make trouble for the convention is greatly increased.

THE DEMOCRATIC OPPORTUNITY.

What has become of the passionate Republican ardor for economy, reduced expenditure and reduced taxation? In 1916 "the increasing cost "of the National Government, and "the need for the greatest economy of "its resources, in order to meet the "growing demands of the people for "Government service, call for the "severest condemnation of the waste-"ful appropriations of this Democratic "Administration, of its shameless "raids on the Treasury," and so on. So stern was the Republican national platform for 1916. Since last Spring the Republican Congress has been in power. What has it done or tried to do for economy? Its leaders have deliberately resolved to do nothing for economy. Secretary HOUSTON's suggestions of changes in the excess profit tax are snubbed by Mr. FORDNEY, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee; by Mr. MONDELL, Republican leader in the House; by Representative NICHOLAS LONGWORTH.

Mr. FORDNEY is afraid of "hasty action." It won't do to begin to revise the revenue laws. If one tax is altered, revised or taken away, there will be bills in multitudes proposing other revenue changes. Mr. FORDNEY shudders at the deluge of such bills. Besides, reductions in the taxes can't be made "unless expenditures are greatly reduced." The thought of reducing expenditures much or little is unintelligible to Mr. FORDNEY at present. His game, the Republican game, is beautifully clear. They want to make a campaign issue of "Democratic extravagance." It is much easier to squeak and gibber in campaign rhetoric, to point an accusing finger at the wastrels on the other side, than it is to do something positive in the way of economy.

The Democrats have no responsibility for the supply bills or any other bills of this Congress. In the war and for the purpose of winning the war they made great and necessary appropriations. The war is over, in effect, if not technically. Appropriations ought to be scaled down toward a peace basis. A multitude of Government employés, needed during the war, and now needless, should be sent back to increase production. Appropriations should be pared down. In that way, and only in that way, can taxation be essentially reduced. Ever since last Spring the Republicans have had the power, if they had the will, to lessen expenditure and taxation. They have done practically nothing. Now their leaders say that nothing will be done until the next session.

The Republicans are deliberately evading a cardinal duty and seeking to project a false issue upon the country. The Democrats should take advantage of the occasion offered them by the extreme and narrow partisanship of their opponents. They should work heartily and intelligently for the reduction of war taxation. They should make economy, smaller Government expenditures and lower taxes, the great issue of their campaign. In nothing else of domestic policy have the majority of the American people so keen an interest. In regard to taxation as in regard to the treaty of peace the Republicans have pursued and are pursuing a policy of false pretenses. It is for the Democrats to impress that fact upon the country, not merely in campaign speeches, but by continual efforts in Congress for the diminution of appropriations, the abolition of superfluous places, the lowering of taxes.

NEW YORK INCOME TAX AMENDMENT.

It has been necessary to recall from the Governor the bill which was passed to remove the discriminations against non-residents in the income tax law. It would seem unnecessary to point out that the way to remove discriminations was to remove them, but the proposal was to allow exemptions to non-residents only in proportion to their earnings within the State. When the bill is amended so as to make exemptions equal, there are other amendments worth consideration.

It cannot be hidden from the lawmakers that it was found too difficult for either taxpayers or tax collectors to make out returns and pay what they call for on the same date with the Federal taxes, without the privilege of payment in installments. A State with $20,000,000 in its Treasury has no instant need for all its income taxes in one payment, and it would not cost it a cent to allow taxpayers such privileges as the nation allows.

HOPE FOR GERMANY.

Now that the Kapp rebellion in Germany is dead, Socialist leaders—Independents presumably—have made demands on the Ebert Government which must be fulfilled before the general strike is called off. Labor legislation must be introduced into the Assembly; labor must have a greater share in the Government; there must be no amnesty for the Kapp-Luettwitz conspirators, and NOSKE must go. If this program is honestly intended, and is not a mere political stratagem to get the Ebert Government into difficulties, its acceptance would be an excellent thing for the world. The great objection to the Ebert Government, the reason why the Allies could not show much favor to it, was that too many of the men who made the old Germany were still in it, and those reactionaries who were outside of it were able to scare it now and then into doing something which suited their plans.

If the Government should drop most of the old bureaucrats and those leaders whose dissatisfaction with Kaiserism dates only from the time when Kaiserism was obviously beaten in the war, it would deserve, and receive, a good deal more confidence. HELFFERICH is doubtless as bad as ERZBERGER, but HELFFERICH did Germany a service in getting rid of ERZBERGER none the less. A few more Erzbergers out of the way and we can begin to trust the Ebert Government. So long as HUGO HAASE lived the Bolshevist faction in the Independent Socialist Party was never able to get the upper hand; it has prevailed since HAASE's murder, but if the Government gets rid of the reactionary influences in or near it and takes in a certain element of the Independents, there is good reason to hope that the Bolshevist influence will never amount to very much. The Independents would become more moderate and the Government would become considerably more radical and more trustworthy. The danger of a Bolshevist revolution would be very considerably decreased.

The Independents, and a good many Majority Socialists, have never forgiven NOSKE for his severity in putting down the Spartacus rising of January, 1919, and his rigorous measures since. Whether NOSKE himself is really on the side of the reactionaries has never been established; he stood by, or rather ran with, the Government when KAPP and LUETTWITZ came in; what he would have done if it had been a more formidable movement, with all the forces of reaction frankly behind it, nobody can say. But at least NOSKE's usefulness is over. His troops fought desperately and victoriously against the mobs of Spartacus; but when the Baltic troops of LUETTWITZ marched on the Government offices NOSKE's garrison shouldered its rifles and moved out of the way. Perhaps NOSKE had nothing to do with it; perhaps the army which he nominally controlled was always really the servant of the reactionary officers and not of NOSKE; but in that case he can be of no more use to the Government. What is needed is a Minister of Defense whose army will shoot at the Right as readily as at the Left, and whatever NOSKE's personal feelings his army will not do that.

The Ebert Government must find troops and a commander who will disarm and scatter the Baltic army, which is still intact, still a standing menace to Berlin. It may not be easy, but it is already evident that it cannot be done by the assistance of the reactionaries; EBERT may not like to lean too much on the Independents, but they are his last hope.

AGRICULTURAL RESEARCH.

The nature of the attack which Congress is making, in the name of economy, upon the research workers in the Department of Agriculture is illustrated by the remarks of Representative GILBERT N. HAUGEN of Iowa. The "specialist" is pictured as a highly paid emissary from Washington who travels by automobile and puts up at expensive hotels in order to "teach "the farmer's wife how to make "cream cheese." There is no reference to discoveries made in the laboratories at Washington which have prevented the loss of hundreds of millions in crops and stock, and which have added other hundreds of millions to the present and future wealth of the nation. "If the purpose is to increase "production, give the surplus and in-"efficient specialist a job on the farm "instead of in Washington. Give him "a ride on the gang plow instead of "in an automobile."

When it is a question of the county agent, however, the Congressional sense of economy breaks down as completely as in the matter of free seeds. The county agent may be, and often is, of value. He knows the local soil and climate and is hail-fellow with the local population. While perhaps abstaining from lessons on cream cheese to the farmer's wife, he knows very well the farmer's limitations in the more scientific aspects of farm management. "What the farmer wants," says Mr. HAUGEN, in a burst of frankness, "is somebody who will come to the farm to enlighten him." Quite so. And he wants the Federal Government to advance a good half of the total expense—a matter of millions yearly. "They want all the money "they can get, but they want it for "county agents." The great idea is that "the appropriation for special-"ists be cut and more money be ap-"propriated" for the home talent. Hereupon the Congressional Record pauses to register applause.

If any cut is made, it should be in the amount of national aid to the farmer's home schooling. Strict logic would do away with it altogether. Elementary instruction is essentially a local matter, and the farmer of today can amply pay for his business education out of the money it brings him. The specialist works for the nation as a whole, for all nations. The researchers at Washington have the enthusiasm of a great service and have long submitted to salaries pitifully inadequate. But the time has come when they can no longer retain their primitive self-respect, as men and husbands and fathers. They are quitting in large numbers, and their talents are eagerly employed by business men at twice and thrice their former pay.

The situation is well within the grasp of any ordinary intelligence. Members of Congress can be no more deceived as to the county agent than as to free seeds. What is more, the majority of intelligent farmers know as clearly the difference between local interest and public service.

CONSTANTINE.

Exiles of the Greek monarchist party are believed to have definite plans for a rising to restore the late monarch CONSTANTINE, variously noted as strategist and brother-in-law. There are elements of respectability in the group which supports him—men who served under him in the victorious campaigns of 1912 and 1913, and can think of him only as the General who defeated the hereditary enemy; men whose sympathies, undecided at first, were turned toward CONSTANTINE by the allied policy of pin-pricks in 1916; politicians who, like other politicians in other countries, are still living in the shadow of old animosities after the world has been turned upside down. But the great majority of the progressive and liberal forces in Greece, the men who have modernized the national spirit and have set it on the way to a great future, are with VENIZELOS. The Venizelists are confident of popular approval in the approaching elections, but a good many of CONSTANTINE's supporters would override the popular verdict by an armed insurrection.

CONSTANTINE was the loyal servant of the Kaiser, and his followers did the Kaiser's work, though not always through preference for the Kaiser. VENIZELOS brought Greece into the war on the right side and did much to make possible FRANCHET D'ESPEREY's victory in Macedonia, a victory which had a great effect on the course of the war, if we are to believe LUDENDORFF. CONSTANTINE's policy of neutrality might or might not have been rewarded if the Germans had won, but, at any rate, it was a quiescent and negative policy. Participation in the fighting in Macedonia, the occupation of Thrace and Smyrna, have kept many Greek troops under arms and cost a good deal of money, yet Greek exchange is better today than that of any other country in Eastern Europe. Greece has made sacrifices, though not so great as those of her neighbors, and the partisans of CONSTANTINE have insisted that she will get nothing out of them.

More than half the Greek race was still under alien and hated sovereignty when the war came to an end. Hundreds of thousands of Greeks have been redeemed, at least for the moment, but the dealings of the Peace Conference with the Turkish question are not yet completed and the enemies of Greece are still active. It may not be practically possible to grant all the Greek claims which are morally just, but those who are dividing the Near East ought to remember that every decision made against Greece furnishes campaign arguments to the followers of CONSTANTINE, the enemies of the allied cause, the reactionaries whose policy would be ruinous for Greece and dangerous for her neighbors. The antagonism between the worse elements of the old statesmanship and the better tendencies of the new is nowhere more clearly pronounced than in Greece, and a heavy responsibility lies on those Americans, usually of liberal sympathies, who have for some unexplained reason steadfastly opposed the just claims of Greece and lent an ear to the manufactured arguments of our enemies.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

New York Could Do the Same.

About one-fifth of the land in the State of Massachusetts is at present unproductive and is assessed at the average of $5 an acre. This fact has been coupled by the Massachusetts Forestry Association with the other fact that the State debt is greater than the debt of any other State in the Union except one—a total of $91,500,000, or $23.50 per capita of population—and it hopefully figures out a way in which the land on which nothing, or what it calls "weed trees," is now growing can be made to pay off an obligation already burdensome and steadily becoming heavier.

What the foresters propose, naturally, is that as soon as possible as much as possible of the land not suitable for agriculture be turned into woods, and, as a beginning, they advocate the purchase of 250,000 acres, to be planted with white pine. As there will be no return for something like fifty years, the task is not one to appeal to private enterprise, but the State can afford to wait. The ultimate profit is sure, as terrestrial certainties go, and meanwhile there will be not a few incidental advantages which the whole population will share, or can if they choose.

According to the association's computation, which is said to have been made with a careful consideration of all costs, including that of interest on both investment and on maintenance expenditures, the average cost of a properly planted acre of this land will be $25, and each acre each year will need 70 cents' worth of oversight. With interest added, the cost of the land and of the trees on it at the end of fifty years will be $368.91, and the value then of the "stumpage" will be $600 if white pine then fetches $20 per 1,000 feet, and nobody imagines that it will be any less. The profit to be realized, therefore, will be $231.09 per acre, or $57,772,500 in all—enough to make an appreciable hole in a State debt considerably larger than that of Massachusetts is now, or is likely to be half a century hence.

Colonial Ideas Surviving.

Computations of the kind made by the Massachusetts foresters do not appeal very strongly to many minds, and benefits to be so long deferred are not alluring. This one, however, evidently has been made with caution not to prophesy too much, and it deserves attention outside of Massachusetts as well as in it.

The people of the United States are just beginning to realize from severe pains in their pocketbooks the extravagant uses and wastes they have made of their forests, and to replace with seedlings a few of the trees that once seemed to have no end. Of scientific forestry they are doing pitifully little as yet, but at least they are talking about making a serious start, and that is something.

Not all tree crops are as slow to mature as is white pine, and though that timber is for many and important purposes the best in the world, other kinds are in several respects more interesting, and promises more likely to fix popular attention could be made honestly in regard to them. The difference is one demanding attention from the forestry propagandists, for they must convince a race who have not entirely outlived the feeling of the early colonists that the best thing to do with a tree is to cut it down and get it out of the way, by burning if necessary. The colonists were justified in their day, but their plan long since became a desperately bad one, and unfortunately its now admirable opposite is still waiting general and hearty adoption by the American people.

Public or Private Business?

There is something rather startling in the proposal of Dr. COPELAND to deal with housing as a public utility instead of as the distinctly private property it always and everywhere has been held to be, and, as in the case of other public utilities, to treat the holder of title less as owner than as agent or trustee. That is, the doctor would require the man going into or in the landlord business to take out a license, and make retention of the license depend on the fidelity with which he observes the conditions imposed upon him.

It is only the present existence in the housing situation of conditions without a precedent, here at least, that suggests such action. Hitherto New York has usually been overbuilt, from the landlord's point of view, and the tenants, having the upper hand, or conferring favors instead of receiving them, have been able in some degree to impose the terms that suited them. It is not surprising that the landlords remember those days much more clearly than the tenants do, or that the former are resentful of the denunciations they are receiving for conduct that is the common rule of all business.

But it also is not surprising that the landlords' protests are heard coldly or indignantly, for a good many of them are utilizing an opportunity ruthlessly to exploit the necessities of their fellow-men, and that is something which is never pardoned except under compulsion. It is not easy to imagine just how the licenses suggested by the head of the Health Department would read. It would be hardly worth while to bind the landlord anew to observe the laws and ordinances that apply to his property. He is so bound already, and as it is can be put out of business if he misbehaves.

So Many Share Her Woes.

That somebody in Russia is living in a box car, ill-dressed and poorly fed, is a fact that would not seem of importance enough in an individual case, nowadays, to be the subject of a long cable dispatch if the somebody did not happen to be a surviving sister of the dead Czar. Yet merely because the Grand Duchess OLGA formerly had a particularly easy and comfortable life at the expense of the Russian people—for whom she did nothing at all—her present state seems strangely pathetic to all of us who are not distinctly "Red," and her misfortunes stand out prominently, though they are surrounded by the worse misfortunes of millions of other Russians.

The logic is bad, or rather it is not logic at all, but the feeling remains—probably because feelings and logic have little in common. A cynic might say, and probably would, that to accord a special commiseration to this Duchess is a revelation of snobbishness. It hardly can be that, unless everybody is a snob, and that, of course, is inadmissible.

Appeal from Austrian Teachers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I would like to ask you to publish this desperate letter of some Austrian gentlewomen.

LIA DE MAURIAC.
New York, March 17, 1920.

Vienna, February 21, 1920.

Dear Madam: The union of the Austrian female academical teachers, Maedchen-Mittelschule, beg to address to their American fellow-teachers an urgent appeal for help.

You know the desperate situation of our country and especially of Vienna, where the female academical teachers, being very badly paid, suffer great distress.

The American people having in so very generous a manner declared their readiness to help the people here with provisions, we beg you heartily to be so very kind as to forward the cards following under separate cover as printed matter to different addresses of organizations. We suppose that you in America also have unions of female academical teachers, similar to our union Maedchen-Mittelschule, and that these organizations might be willing to help us by sending parcels with food.

The President of the union Maedchen-Mittelschule begs to present in the name of all her fellow-teachers their very best thanks for any trouble you may have in helping us.

Believe me to be, dear madam,
Yours sincerely,
DIREKTOR HILDEGARD MEISSNER,
Ausschussmitglied des Verbandes Maedchen-Mittelschule.
Pensingerstr. 113, Vienna.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Let me thank you for the letter of Mr. Marburg and for your fine editorial article in today's TIMES.

With amazed grief and humiliation we have beheld the blindness and hardness of our Senate in the face of the appalling misery of countless thousands of men, women and children among our allies and in the Near East.

With indignation and shame we behold America fallen from her position of leadership among the nations and misled by voices of cowardice and selfishness.

We do not want to play the part of cowards. We want our share in the great adventure, the League of Nations. "America First" ought to mean America first (not last), as now, to redeem her pledge; America first, not last, to pay her debt of honor; America first, not last, to make a willing sacrifice.

Pleasing Everybody.

A few days ago one of your correspondents took exception to the candidacy of General Wood because of his appealing to pretty much everybody.

Most of us don't want a President elected by and for any class but our own, and in our soberer moments admit that a man elected by and for one class is not in keeping with Americanism.

Very many of us believe that the fact that Leonard Wood does appeal to representatives of every class of good Americans is his strongest point. And we further believe in the sincerity of his platform and his ability to carry out all his promises after election.

For Fairer School Histories.

Under the caption "Lingering Reasons for Friction," you have condensed in a few paragraphs what writers on Anglo-American relations have often dwelt upon in long essays. What you say about American school histories ought to be repeated over and over again. A fairer presentation of our War of Independence and the War of 1812 would help much to put better foundations under the new Anglo-Saxon solidarity which is so necessary for the well-being of the coming generation.

The Rand School and the Regents.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your news columns today, reporting the bills introduced in the State Legislature in connection with the Lusk committee's preliminary report, you make the statement that the Rand School of Social Science has sought in vain to get the approval of the State Board of Regents for the courses which it gives. In the interest of accuracy, I hope you will permit me to say that the Rand School has at no time asked for recognition by the Board of Regents.

KEEP SPARRING.

There's trouble in the U. S. A.,
  Unrest is not abating;
Let Congress now get under way

Our financiers and profiteers
  Still have the same old nature;
The Bolshevik his head uprears,
  The H. C. L. is H-er!

The burden on the public falls,
  The trust still overreaches;
I'm sure the situation calls
  For more and louder speeches!

The matter of the L. of N.
  Not settled is or near it,
Why don't our politicians, then,
  Whoop up the party spirit?

  It is a thousand pities
It cannot rally and appoint
  A dozen new committees!

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 19.—The will of the late Viscount Astor, dated Jan. 3, 1919, leaves property in England valued at £421,963 gross, with a net personalty of £359,067.

The testator declares his intention of making separate wills disposing of his American and Italian property. He directed that all English death duties should be paid primarily out of moneys available from a deed made between himself and the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, New York, and if that be not sufficient, then from his residuary estate, as all legacies given by his will are to be free of duty.

Various bequests are made to his servants and employés. He left to his second son, John Jacob Astor, the sapphire ram's head usually worn on his watch charm, his cat's eye ring and the writing desk at his London office; a ruby ring usually worn by him, his ruby links and buttons, his pearl links and studs to his granddaughter, Nancy P. L. Astor; a gold ring, engraved with a Greek inscription signifying "honor avenged," worn by his mother in commemoration of the recapture of Fort Sumter in 1865, and the balance of his jewelry and plate, &c., not otherwise disposed of, to his children in equal shares.

The contents of Hever Castle and his outdoor effects here are left to his son John Jacob; his western house and estate at Brighton and effects there to the eldest son of the present Lord Astor on attaining his majority; the effects at his London office to his two sons, jointly, with the remainder to the survivor, and the residue of his property is equally divided between his sons John Jacob and the present Lord Astor.

The late Viscount directed that the executors of his American will should pay to the trustees of his English will any sums which they might decide on in righting requests within two years of his death for the purpose of his will.

WOULD KEEP MORTGAGE TAX

Special to The New York Times.

UTICA, N. Y., March 19.—The New York State Tax Conference closed here this afternoon. Ogden L. Mills of New York was re-elected President for a fourth term. The Vice Presidents are Edwin A. R. Seligman of Columbia University, Charles J. Tobin of New York, M. J. Walsh of Yonkers and Kingman Nott Robins of Rochester. Leo Day Woodworth of New York was re-elected Secretary and Treasurer.

In a resolution the association expressed disapproval of the plan of Mayor Hylan of New York to abolish the mortgage tax. The resolution recites that the State exemption of income from public obligations other than those of the United States Government should be discontinued, and urges elimination of the exemption of income from further issues of bonds of this State and its municipalities.

CABINET MEN APPEAL FOR SUFFRAGE CAUSE

LABOR LEADER JOINS PLEA

Prediction Made in Dover That the Legislature Will Act Favorably Early Next Week.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Appeals for ratification of the woman suffrage amendment when the Delaware Legislature meets next Monday, have been made to Democrats of that State by Attorney General Palmer, a Presidential candidate; Secretary of the Navy Daniels, Secretary of the Treasury Houston and Secretary of Agriculture Meredith.

Attorney General Palmer's letter read in part:

"The National Democratic Committee has taken a strong stand for ratification of suffrage. The fact that we have a considerable representation from our party in your Legislature gives us an excellent opportunity to be of help to the suffrage cause. Now that the suffrage campaign is approaching its conclusion and the battle against ratification is becoming more vigorous than ever before, our help is needed and we must not fail to give it."

Secretary Daniels's letter concluded:

"The fact that Delaware's ratification is necessary to enable women to vote in the November elections makes it particularly important that our party give undivided support to ratification in the Delaware Legislature."

Secretary Meredith expressed in his letter the "earnest hope that the Democratic Party in Delaware will do everything possible to see that the suffrage amendment is ratified."

Frank Morrison, National Secretary of the American Federation of Labor, telegraphed Daniel M. Layton, Jr., Chairman of the Republican State Committee, and the Governor of Delaware, urging them "to do everything possible to secure ratification by Delaware Legislature."

Special to The New York Times.

DOVER, Del., March 19.—Notwithstanding the inclement weather this afternoon fully 400 persons attended the meeting of the Women's Equal Suffrage Association, at which Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt was the speaker.

Mrs. Catt argued that the question of suffrage was not a State question but a national question. She pleaded for suffrage on the ground that many foreign countries already had extended the right of suffrage to women, and asked if the State of Delaware would decline the same privilege to its women. As for the statement that many women do not want the ballot, Mrs. Catt replied that neither do all men exercise the ballot.

The prediction was made that Delaware would ratify the amendment in the early days of next week's special session.

Miss Mary G. Kilbreth, National President of the Anti-Suffragist Association, declared at a meeting here tonight that the Chairmen and leaders of both political parties were trying to "sandbag" the Delaware legislators into ratifying the suffrage amendment. Miss Catherine Rowe declared Chairman Hays's methods in behalf of suffrage had disrupted the Republican Party in several States.

EXPORTS FELL IN FEBRUARY.

Foreign Trade Was Less Than in Any Month Since October.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Decided decrease in exports is shown by the February foreign trade statement issued today by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, exports for the month amounting to $646,000,000, the smallest monthly total since October. Imports also decreased from $474,000,000 in January to $467,000,000.

Exports during the eight months ending March 1 amounted to $5,231,000,000, against $4,383,000,000 during the corresponding period of 1918-19. Imports for the eight months exceeded by $140,000,000 the imports during the entire fiscal year ending June 30, 1919.

Imports of gold during February were unusually small, amounting to $4,473,000, against exports of $43,000,000. For the eight months period gold imports were $43,000,000, against exports of $362,000,000. Silver imports amounted to $12,000,000 in February, and $68,000,000 in the eight months, while exports of silver were valued at $16,000,000 for the month and $137,000,000 for the eight months.

AGREE ON PORT TREATY.

Commission of Six, Three from Each State, to be in Control.

What is expected to be a final agreement on the proposed New York-New Jersey port treaty was reached yesterday at a conference of the Joint Legislative Committee, representing both States, at the office of the New York-New Jersey Port and Terminal Improvement Commission. Those present included J. Henry Walters, majority leader of the Senate, and Simon L. Adler, majority leader of the Assembly, representing New York, and Senators Case and Whitney of New Jersey.

The treaty, as agreed upon, was said to provide for a commission to be known as the Port Authority to Control the Port of New York, to be composed of three members from New York State, two of whom must be from New York City, and three from New Jersey. The treaty is expected to be submitted, to the Legislatures of the two States next week, after those in consultation yesterday have submitted the draft to their colleagues of the Joint Legislative Committee.

PUSH UNIVERSAL TRAINING.

At a dinner given at the University Club last night the Governing Board of the Military Training Camps Association voted to use all of its resources to institute an active campaign in favor of universal military training. This was the first meeting of the board since 1916 and was attended by men prominent throughout the country.

The object of the dinner was to take up the subject of calling a convention of its members, of whom there are over 20,000 in the United States, and it was decided to hold the convention in April. The purpose is to aid the passage of Senate bill 3792, providing for universal military training.

Among those who attended the dinner were Dr. Harry A. Garfield, President of Williams College; Charles Evans Hughes, Jr., Thomas R. Wiles of the Detroit Graphite Company, Elihu Root, Jr., Henry M. Waite, John T. Pratt, J. W. Farley of Boston, James Barnes, Snowden Fahnestock, H. B. Clark and John Chauncey Dewey of Junction City, Kan.

PUTS GOV. COX ON 'WET' LIST

Anti-Saloon League Will Fight Nominating Him for President.

WESTERVILLE, Ohio, March 19.—Following the announcement by the Anti-Saloon League of America that it would oppose Presidential candidates not thoroughly proven "dry," the Rev. P. A. Baker, General Superintendent of the league, today issued a statement characterizing Governor James M. Cox of Ohio, as "thoroughly wet."

"Governor Cox will receive no 'dry' votes except the votes of the 'drys' who also are standpatters," said the statement. The Rev. Mr. Baker said he was advised that Eastern "wet" Democrats were for Governor Cox and not for Governor Edwards of New Jersey because the latter was not big enough and was too open a foe of prohibition.

Friends of Governor Cox were pleased with the assault made on him by the Rev. Mr. Baker. Baker has always opposed him, having supported former Governor Willis, whom Cox twice defeated. In view of the growth of sentiment against the Volstead act in Ohio the attack was welcomed.

MAYOR HYLAN A VISITOR

Quite new as a feature of the Flower Show at the Grand Central Palace was a flower ball with a dance of the flowers, held in the tea room last evening, in which society débutantes as well as professional dancers took part. Many of the guests were in costume, wearing flower hats and carrying wands. The judges awarding the prizes for costumes were Mrs. John W. Alexander, Miss Elsie Ferguson and James S. Metcalfe. The stage furnished the judges for the best dancing couple in Miss Blanche Bates, Willie Collier, Jack Hazzard and Miss Ada Lewis. Mrs. Jameson Lee Finney, a member of the Women's Campaign Committee of the Navy Club, contributed the prizes. The Allied Loyalty League co-operated with the Navy Club in giving the ball.

Mrs. Edwin B. Grossman, Mrs. Walden Pell, Mrs. John R. Drexel, Jr., Mrs. Casimir de Rham, Mrs. Richard S. Emmet, Mrs. Edward McVicker and Miss Margaret Hamilton were among the members of the Dance Committee on which the patronesses, Mrs. Edward M. Breitung, Mrs. Charles Astor Bristed, Mrs. Frederic R. Coudert, Miss Maude Wetmore, Mrs. Newbold Leroy Edgar, Mrs. E. H. Harriman, Mrs. William H. Hamilton, Mrs. Frederick Vanderbilt, Mrs. Price Post, Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, Mrs. John H. Iselin and Mrs. Elbert H. Gary, served.

William Rockhill, Edward Shearson, Arthur Ryle, Charles Boynton and Serge Ughit. Maria Barrientos of the Metropolitan Opera House was the guest of Mrs. LeRoy Newbold Edgar. Tea was served by society débutantes and matrons dressed in Russian costume and members of the Russian Isba company sang.

Yesterday was the second and biggest rose day of the show and thousands of new blossoms were added. There were five exhibitors of table decorations, Adolph Lewisohn carrying off the first prize, Spencer Eddy of Manhasset the second, while the third went to Mrs. Payne Whitney.

Mr. Lewisohn combined blue larkspur effectively with pink roses and maidenhair fern, while pansies, ferns and forget-me-nots were in the smaller and corsage bouquets. A pretty combination was found by Mr. Eddy, who showed lilies-of-the-valley with baby pink primroses. Mrs. Whitney's table was delightful, with only one variety of flower, the freesia, but in many different delicate shades of color. An interesting table was that of Mrs. Sidney Rosenstein, which in addition to Easter lilies and jonquils contained little chickens, garden tools, golf sticks and other symbols of Spring.

For sweet pea displays covering twenty-five square feet, Mrs. F. E. Lewis of Ridgefield, Conn., won first prize, and Mrs. Payne Whitney, Mrs. Paul Moore and Mrs. William Guthrie of Locust Valley, N. Y., were other winners. Sweet pea commercial first prize winners were M. Matherson, M. Graf and the Atlee Burpee Company, the latter having an exhibit of 100 square feet. A prize of $150 was received by the Springfield Floral Company of Springfield, N. J., for carnations. Their exhibit covered 150 square feet and contained 1,500 blooms.

POLES CAPTURE STAFF OF RUSSIAN BRIGADE

WARSAW, March 18 (Associated Press).—The Bolsheviki had planned the capture of Kamenetz-Podolsk, capital of Podolia and a city of about 50,000 inhabitants, according to a Polish communique issued today, which tells of the capture of the 2d Brigade staff of the Bolshevist 60th Division on the Volhynian front.

The Bolsheviki, says the communiqué, began a concentration which was shattered by the Poles, who captured the staff and all the plans, maps and documents of brigade headquarters.

In Opole and other Upper Silesian towns the Germans are greatly excited over news of the revolution in Germany. They endeavored to destroy the Polish emblems on the Consulate at Opole.

JAY A. WEBER IS ACQUITTED.

Pictorial Review Official Charged with Attempting Income Tax Bribe.

Jay A. Weber, Secretary of the Pictorial Review Company, was acquitted yesterday by a Federal District Court jury of the charge of attempted bribery growing out of an inquiry by internal revenue agents into the income tax returns of the company. The verdict was returned in forty-five minutes after Judge E. E. Cushman in his charge declared that if it was shown that Weber believed that the returns were properly made out it would go a long way toward removing any motive on Weber's part to offer a bribe.

MONTMARTRE WAITERS RAID RIVAL CAFES

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 19.—Paris at night is just now the scene of comic opera warfare. Montmartre as the champion of public morality is carrying out a series of nightly raids on other parts of the city to suppress cafés where one may dance and drink champagne at 100 francs a bottle after the hours decreed by the police.

Morality, however, is only one-half of the raiders' reason for this action. Up in Montmartre three days ago the café proprietors closed their establishments altogether rather than submit to the police order to close at 10 P. M. The result was that hundreds of waiters, cooks and attendants were thrown out of work. It is they who are organizing the raids. They are determined that if there is no night life in Montmartre, and no work for them, neither shall there be work and gayety in other parts of the city.

On Thursday night they carried out their first raid, with the aid of the police, and, emboldened by their success, last night they tried several more raids on their own account. After a council of war up on their mountain, they descended in ten groups upon the city by different routes and surrounded their objectives. Their leaders thundered at doors and demanded admittance in the name of the law and the Syndicated Café Workers of Montmartre. Once inside, they behaved with perfect decorum, but they were firm. Every one must leave at once.

Managers, waiters and dancers, male and female, protested, but their protests were of no avail. Out they had to go, and when all the offending houses were cleared and the "blackleg" waiters were packed off home, like their guests, the raiders returned triumphant to the fastnesses on the Mountain of Montmartre, which is itself a model of decorous dullness.

As the coal strike in the north of France which was the cause of the early closing order has been practically settled, it is now expected that the order will soon be rescinded and that life will resume its more ordinary forms of excitement.

C. F. U. TO SUPPORT LABOR CANDIDATES

Rejects Gompers Plan to "Reward Friends and Punish Enemies."

Following the lead of the Chicago Federation of Labor, the Central Federated Union in the Labor Temple, in East Eighty-fourth Street, last night manifested its defiance to Sampel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, through the adoption of a letter recommended by the Reconstruction or Political Committee, in which it was asserted that the central body had "decided to support only friends of labor running on the Labor Party ticket" in the forthcoming election.

Mr. Gompers's program calls for the appointment of a non-partisan committee to meet March 22 to make plans for a campaign to "reward friends and punish enemies" of labor. The union will comply with the request for the appointment of a committee, but that committee will not be one to carry out the wishes of Mr. Gompers, who would select the candidates from the two old parties.

The American Labor Party, through this letter makes known its intention to raise a campaign fund here of $100,000 to elect its candidates, and Mr. Gompers is politely asked to contribute $10,000 from the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor.

RENOUNCES DE VALERA.

Naturalization Petitioner Abjures Allegiance to "Irish Republic."

CHICAGO, March 19.—Patrick King, appearing in naturalization court this morning, not only renounced allegiance to the British Empire and King George, but also, by order of Judge Kavanaugh, to the "Republic of Ireland" and Eamonn de Valera, its "President."

This is the first case on record, attorneys say where the "Irish republic" has been officially recognized by an American court.

Judge Kavanaugh declared later that his action was official recognition of the Irish Republic and its executives. "It is a de facto government which exists with the consent of nine-tenths of Ireland's people," he said, "although it has not been recognized by foreign Governments. The same situation existed in the United States in the years intervening from 1776 to 1783."

WOULD AID EVICTED; HIS TENANTS JEER

IS DENOUNCED AT HEARING

Would Tack Rise on Them to Make Up for Gift, Say Objectors, Who Help Woman.

An uproar among 160 tenants from the Borough Park section of Brooklyn, who yesterday brought a complaint of profiteering against their landlord before the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering in the Municipal Building, followed their landlord's offer to contribute six months' rent to a woman who had been evicted and whose case had come to the attention of the committee. The tenants, who had contributed to a fund for the woman, denounced their landlord when he proposed a donation on the ground that if he were permitted to do so he would immediately raise their rent to make up the amount.

The tenants came from the eight twenty-family houses in Forty-second Street, Borough Park, Brooklyn, which are owned by David Becker of 958 Forty-second Street, who, they complained, is trying to raise rents on an average of 30 per cent., after having increased their rent since 1918 from 100 to 120 per cent. It was their contention that Becker had no right to make the latest increases, as they understood that they had signed a lease last Fall for the term of a year.

The existence of this lease is a matter of dispute. The tenants said they brought charges against their landlord last year before the Committee on Rent Profiteering, and that an adjudication was made when they signed an agreement on a piece of yellow paper which entitled them to ocupancy of their homes for another year at the rates mentioned in this document. The Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering, which underwent a change following the resignation of its first chairman, Nathan Hirsch, has been unable to find a trace of the original agreement or a copy of it, and efforts to substantiate the existence of such a document with the help of the former members have failed.

Lewinsohn Urges Compromise.

The matter was thrashed out at a hearing yesterday before Acting Chairman S. A. Lewinsohn. When Mr. Lewinsohn was unable to establish the existence of the alleged lease to the satisfaction of all contending parties, he tried to effect a compromise between tenants and landlord. Efforts were made to induce Becker to concede to the 160 tenants the rights which they would have enjoyed under such a lease, and the hearing was suspended to give him time to consider the proposal.

Mrs. Fannie Rosenberg of 448 Georgia Avenue, East New York, appeared before the Committee on Rent Profiteering with a plea for help to save herself and family of nine children from eviction. While the committee was considering the appeal Mrs. Rosenberg learned that all the family's belongings had been put out on the street in the slush. She said she didn't know what would become of herself and her nine children, as she and her husband had been unable to find another place to live.

"Judge" Lewinsohn and Deputy Tenement House Commissioner John P. Finnerty, whose good offices at many of the hearings have helped to settle disputes between landlords and their tenants, started a fund to help Mrs. Rosenberg. A hat was placed on the table in front of the acting commissioner. He and Mr. Finnerty made contributions. The tenants who had come to press their complaints against landlord Becker dug deep into their handbags and almost upset the table in their rush to donate. Nickels and dimes and quarters were showered into the hat, with a bill now and then, and when all had contributed to the limit of their means a count was made and it was found that $75 had been raised.

Would Pay Six Months' Rent.

At this point landlord Becker said he would pay six months' rent for Mrs. Rosenberg as soon as she could find a place, and that it made no difference whether she had to pay $30 or $60 a month.

"Don't let him do it, Judge," shouted one of his tenants. "If he does he'll try to raise our rents again and make up for the amount he wants to give."

This plea was taken up in chorus, and some of the tenants even went so far as to say that every time their landlord had announced a generous contribution to his house of worship they had felt the effects of a raise in rent. No ruling was made by Acting Chairman Lewinsohn as to the eligibility of the landlord as a contributer to the fund for Mrs. Rosenberg. She was advised to continue her search for a place to live and to report the result to Mr. Lewinsohn today.

The Committee on Rent Profiteering has been so swamped with tenants bringing complaints against their landlords that the Mayor has decided to establish branch offices in the Boroughs of Brooklyn and the Bronx. As a result of a communication from the Mayor Walter C. Martin, Superintendent of Tenement Houses in the Bronx, had a conference yesterday afternoon with the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering as to the most practical methods of hearing and disposing of such disagreements. Deputy Commissioner Thomas R. Farrell, in Brooklyn, is to have charge of similar work in Brooklyn and Queens. The aid of the Tenement House Department is to be enlisted because a great number of the complaints of tenants against their landlords of defective heating and plumbing have been referred in the first place to those departments for investigation.

Regarding a report that seventy families are to be evicted on April 1 from six houses at Broadway and Eighty-third Street, which are to be torn down to make way for a big motion picture theatre, it was explained that nothing could be done by the committee on behalf of these tenants. The houses are 223, 225, 227, 229 and 231 West Eighty-third Street and 2,304 Broadway.

Mayor Seeks Labor Truce.

Mayor Hylan, in an effort to hasten his building construction program, will try to effect a settlement of the disputes between building contractors and unions at a conference this afternoon in the Board of Estimate Chamber. When the labor problem is disposed of, the Mayor will turn his efforts to a solution of other difficulties standing in the way of stabilization of the prices of building material, the investment of money in mortgages on homes and the transportation of building materials.

Borough President Henry H. Curran yesterday committed himself to a proposal for the city to make an immediate appropriation of $10,000,000 for the construction and maintenance of apartments and dwellings, and suggested that such an investment could be made self-sustaining on the basis of a rental which would return 7½ per cent. on the investment. His resolution was not permitted to reach the calendar, following the objection of members of the board, and Mr. Curran complained that the board "attempted to block everything he proposed." Mr. Curran will bring the resolution up for consideration at the meeting of the Board of Estimate next week.

A committee representing building contractors of Bay Ridge, who are said to be making developments of approximately $20,000,000, called on the Mayor yesterday to complain that their projects were being held up as a result of the attitude of the Kings County Lighting Company in refusing to accept contracts for new gas mains. The spokesman for the delegation, John J. Muller, 7,825 Fifth Avenue, asserted that the order of the Public Service Commission, requiring that gas be supplied to houses within 100 feet of existing mains was still ignored by the lighting company. The contractors will lay their complaint before Public Service Commissioner Lewis Nixon.

The Tenants' Rights League of the Greater City, which was formed about two weeks ago for the purpose of urging passage by the Legislature of remedial laws controlling the rent situation, will hold a mass meeting tonight at 8 o'clock at Washington Irving High School, Sixteenth Street and Irving Place, to consider plans for its campaign. The call for the meeting has been issued by Homer Gray, President of the league, who said that F. H. LaGuardia, President of the Board of Aldermen, and Secretary of State Francis M. Hugo are expected to speak. The league seeks 1,000,000 members and has opened headquarters at 922 St. Mark's Avenue, Brooklyn. Headquarters will be established later in Manhattan and the other boroughs.

Realty Men Warn Legislators.

Building operations in New York City will be stopped altogether if the Legislative program to stamp out rent profiteers is carried out, according to a warning by members of the Real Estate Board at a dinner last night at the Hotel Astor, to which were invited members of the Legislative Committees on Taxes, Retrenchment and Cities and leaders of the Senate and Assembly. The dinner was given by the Legislative Committee of the Real Estate Board, of which Robert E. Dowling is Chairman, and the conference following it was private.

The legislators explained their position by describing the house shortage conditions, particularly in New York City, and the demands made from all sides for a remedy of the situation. They said they were committed to the program which already has been inaugurated, and gave the real estate men little hope that their plans could be changed. It was asserted by some of the speakers that if relief was not found immediately New York City might expect to have riots and bloodshed.

In objecting to the present legislative program the real estate men said it was proposed in this way to put in the hands of Municipal Judges a power which meant practical control of real estate operations, because these Judges would be able to determine what were the rights of tenants as against landlords.

Speeches were made by Senator John J. Dunnigan, Assemblyman Simon L. Adler, Republican leader of the House, Senator James J. Walker, Democratic leader of the Senate; Senator Charles D. Lockwood, Chairman of the Housing Committee of the Senate, and Assemblyman Donohue.

RALPH BEARDSLEY DROWNED

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., March 19.—Word was received here today of the tragic death of Ralph E. Beardsley, amateur automobile racer, whose body was found cast up on Craney Island, Norfolk Bay, Va., Thursday afternoon.

By Beardsley's side was found the framed license for the operation of a motor boat. The body and the license are the only tidings of the motor boat in which Beardsley, Samuel S. Elwell, a diver for the United States Government, and Arthur Scholl of the Britt Motor Company left Pine Beach, Va., on Monday night for Newport News, where they were going on business for Britt.

It is supposed when off Hampton Roads they were caught in the terrific gale that raged and the boat capsized.

Skolny Clothes

BUSINESS

These Saturday morning talks about Skolny Clothes are not inspired by vanity. We know the value of Skolny Clothes, and we are not a bit too modest to make our knowledge yours.

Therefore, the advertising—to tell you about Skolny quality and style—to stimulate your interest in them, be you dealer or retail buyer.

For twenty years we worked along definite lines to create Clothes - reputation before saying a word to the general public. Fame! You know how elusive it is. It flutters at the top of the hill like a piece of shining gold-leaf. Our great problem was to make the best Ready-for-Service Clothing for young men and boys—not to claim to do it, but to really do it.

Success in this direction attached Fame to Clothes bearing the Skolny name, and it is good business for all concerned that we do not keep the facts about our tailoring achievements confidential.

Hundreds Of Dealers Know The Character Of Skolny Clothes—All Should Know.

This is no time for anybody to take chances when buying Clothes. It is so easy for manufacturers of ordinary Clothes to justify themselves in asking prices that are out of all proportion to the worth of their products.

Then, why not regulate your purchases by prudence?

Skolny Clothes have deserved your confidence for twenty years—and were never more deserving of it than today. You know that not a dollar is added to the price of a garment unless it has been enhanced by some quality in cloth or tailoring to balance the increase.

We have no wish to indulge in talk about honesty being the best policy, but our practice of maintaining perfect equality between "value" and "price" is good business.

NEW YORK PLAYERS IN DOUBLES FINAL

BOSTON PAIR IS DEFEATED

Misses Bancroft and Sigourney Yield Hard-Fought Match in National Indoor Title Tourney.

The indoor tennis courts of the Seventh Regiment Armory were given up chiefly to doubles play yesterday in the women's national championship, the surviving teams being Miss Caroma Winn and Miss Gertrude Della Torre and Mrs. L. Gouverneur Morris anad Miss Helene Pollak. They will meet in the final round this afternoon immediately after the completion of the singles final, which is scheduled for 1 o'clock. In this the contestants are Miss Pollak and Miss Edith Sigourney of Boston, and the New York girl is generally favored to win.

Miss Pollak had a chance to test her rival's game yesterday, for the singles finalists were on opposite sides of the net in one semi-final match of the doubles, and it was the Boston team that came out on the losing end. It required three sets of hard and heady playing to return the local combination winners over Miss Bancroft and Miss Sigourney at 6—4, 3—6, 6—2. On the other side of the draw, Miss Margaret Grove and Mrs. R. Victor lost to Miss Winn and Miss Della Torre in straight sets, 6—3, 7—5.

The consolation singles were also completed yesterday, resulting in a victory for Mrs. F. Nesham over Miss Adele Cragin by scores of 6—4, 6—3.

The elimination of the Hub combination was largely due to the spectacular volleying of Mrs. Morris. She was the only one of the quartet to make a practice of crowding the barrier, and the ball came to her waiting racquet in a manner that almost suggested hypnotism. Miss Pollak was content to play altogether in deep court, driving very steadily and with consistent speed, and making many of her partner's more sensational shots possible. Neither of the Boston girls had the ability to go to the net and volley, and this shortcoming was their undoing.

Mrs. Morris on the Alert.

Miss Sigourney in particular found it difficult to keep the ball away from Mrs. Morris, and many of her drives traveled right at the waiting racquet, with Miss Bancroft up near the net, powerless to intercept the sharply angled return. Some of these kills were distinctly lucky, but in a majority of cases Mrs. Morris knew where she wanted to put the ball, and put it there.

Of the Boston team, Miss Bancroft was a trifle more effective yesterday, hitting hard and confidently at all times, and placing with more accuracy than her partner. Miss Sigourney's form was consistently good, but her strokes lacked the power to make them effective against good net play, and too often she was completely outguessed in the exchange of drives.

The Bostonians began like easy winners, taking the first two games with the loss of only one point, and winning the third for a lead of 3—0 after deuce had been called twice. Then Mrs. Morris began to get in some of her deadly volleying and her persistent closing in soon had the effect of upsetting the visitors' sense of direction completely. They dropped three deuce games in a row, then took one in similar fashion for a brief lead of 4—3. Miss Pollak and Mrs. Morris, however, were now thoroughly aware of the most useful plan of attack and they tied it up again and went into the lead in turn with still another deuce session. A love game gave the New Yorkers the set, 6—4.

Hub Pair Stages a Rally.

The demoralization of the Boston team continued for the first two games of the second set, which they lost in one-sided fashion. Then they finally evolved a system which for a time proved a winner, drawing Miss Pollak in close with short shots and then lobbing over the head of Mrs. Morris for the points. These tactics quickly accounted for the tying games, but soon the New Yorkers were in the lead again by three games to two. Miss Bancroft and Miss Sogourney, however, stuck to their work and in the end their judgment was vindicated, the remaining games of the set all going in their favor for a 6—3 decision, which squared the match.

The rubber proved a revelation of the real ability of the local team. They crowded on all speed and never let up for an instant until the victory was theirs at 6—2. The first four successive games went to Mrs. Morris and Miss Pollak in the most impressive fashion, and although the Boston partners picked up the next two and still looked threatening, the final pair netted them only one point. It was an overwhelming display of speed and accuracy on the part of the winners.

Mrs. Morris began the service in this set and lost only one point, through a placement ace by Miss Bancroft. The latter then dropped her service, after deuce had been called, and Miss Pollak put the affair on ice by serving a love game. Miss Sigourney also lost her delivery, making it 4—love against her side, but secured partial revenge by breaking through the service of Mrs. Morris for the first count of the set. Miss Bancroft gave her team its last score of the match by her fast, left-handed serves, and then the end came quickly.

Two Final Games One-sided.

Mrs. Morris accounted for five of the last eight points with her remarkable volleying and it was all over in two games in which the losers totaled a single point.

		T.P.	G.
FIRST SET.
Miss Pollak and Mrs. Morris	1 0 4 5 5 5 3 4 5 4	36	6
Miss Bancroft and Miss Sigourney	4 4 6 3 3 3 5 2 3 0	33	4
SECOND SET.
Miss Bancroft and Miss Sigourney	1 2 4 4 4 5 4 5 4	33	6
Miss Pollak and Mrs. Morris	4 4 0 2 6 3 2 3 2	26	3
THIRD SET.
Miss Pollak and Mrs. Morris	4 5 4 4 0 1 4 4	26	6
Miss Bancroft and Miss Sigourney	1 3 0 1 4 4 0 1	14	2

In the victory of Miss Winn and Miss Della Torre over Miss Grove and Mrs. Victor the ability to play the net was again the deciding factor. Both of the winners were able to do their share of volleying, and many of the rallies ended with the ball angled sharply off to the sides or killed completely overhead. Miss Grove also played the net skilfully, but received little help in this respect from her partner. The latter was steady in the deep court, hitting the ball with a chopping stroke that proved baffling off the ground, but had few terrors for a volleyer.

The losers started well, winning the first three games of the match, but after Miss Winn and Miss Della Torre got their aggressive game under way they had little difficulty in taking six in a row for the set, 6—3. In the second set, also, Miss Grove and her partner kept the lead most of the way, and for a time it looked as though the match might go to three sets. But when the pinch came the more experienced team once more asserted its class, and the victory was completed at 7—5.

Western Conference Feels High Cost of Athletics

CHICAGO, March 19.—Athletic directors of the Western Conference Universities met today to consider the advisability of raising prices of admission to football games and all other athletic contests. The advance was necessary, they said, because of the increased cost of athletic equipment and the high salaries paid to heads of athletic departments. Action was deferred.

M'NAMARA HAS A 70 IN ASHEVILLE OPEN

ASHEVILLE, N. C., March 19.—Tom McNamara of Siwanoy led the field here today in the Annual Open Golf Tourney at the Country Club. His net score at the end of the first round was 70, as against 71 for Jim Barnes of St. Louis, holder of the Western and Southern open titles. McNamara played sterling golf throughout, only missing two fairly easy putts, which would have lowered his score two strokes.

Pat Doyle of Deal, with a score of 73, played the best game of the day, with the exception of two holes, where his tee shots were almost buried. Charles Hoffner of Philadelphia tied with five others at 79.

Owing to the heavy rain this morning, the tournament had to be cut from 72 holes to 54, in order to complete it by Saturday afternoon. Jock Hutchison of Glen View, holder of the club record of 276 for 72 holes, could not get started today. He took 43 for the first nine holes and picked up. The scores:

Special to The New York Times.

BELLEAIR HEIGHTS, Fla., March 19.—Ellsworth Augustus of Cleveland will play George E. Morse of Rutland, Vt., for the Belleair championship tomorrow. Augustus, moving along at a fair clip today, eliminated C. M. Ransom in the semi-final by 7 and 6.

A better match in the semi-finals was played between R. Wistar Harvey of Philadelphia and Morse. The latter managed to win by 1 up, but there was never more than one hole's difference between them.

In the second sixteen W. A. Smith, Jr., of Grand Rapids, defeated R. A. Porter of Baltusrol by 1 up. N. B. Beecher of Pittsboro, Ohio, won from Phil Corbin of New Britain by 1 up.

MISS BROWN IS WINNER.

Captures Class A Medal Round in Silver Foils Golf Tournament.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 19.—The first golf fixture to be staged on the No. 4 course was played at Pinehurst today, when the silver foils held their March handicap medal round on the new course. Miss Dorothy Brown of Montclair and Mrs. A. S. Higgins of St. Andrews won the class A and class B prizes, respectively.

WINSTON IN SQUASH FINAL.

Eric S. Winston, who won the amateur squash tennis championship of the United States three times in the past, yesterday approached one step nearer the Harvard Club title by defeating George M. Rushmore in a straight game semi-final by scores of 15—7, 15—6, 15—4. He will meet Filmore Van S. Hyde, another former national champion, who defeated him in 1916, in the final round next Tuesday afternoon.

Rushmore put up a better battle yesterday than scores show. He made Winston work for every point, and lost only because of less experience in court tactics. While his strength lasted he exchanged drive for drive and showed almost as much speed as the former champion. In the last game, however, he tired perceptibly and succeeded in scoring only four points while his opponent was running out the match.

There will be a professional match at the Harvard Club this afternoon between Robert Cahill, assistant to Walter Kinsella at the Squash Club, and John Jacobs, who acts in a similar capacity for William D. Ganley on the home courts. Both of these boys have been coached by their preceptors, who will themselves cross racquets one week from today at the Yale Club, Kinsella allowing Ganley seven aces per game handicap.

INTERCITY TENNIS TODAY.

New York and Boston Teams to Meet on Longwood Indoor Courts.

The first intercity tennis match of the season for New York players begins today on the covered courts of the Longwood Cricket Club, Boston, with six singles and three doubles matches to be decided over the week-end. New York's team has been named as follows: Singles, Ichiya Kumagae, New York State champion, and America's third ranking player; Dean Mathey, Leonard Beekman, S. Howard Voshell, Henry S. Parker, Samuel Hardy; doubles, Mathey and Beekman, Voshell and Hardy and Beals Wright and Kumagae.

The Boston team will be headed by the former national champion, Richard Norris Williams, 2d., and will include also Richard Harte, the Harvard all-around athlete; Nathaniel W. Niles; Harry C. Johnson, the Massachusetts State champion; Irving C. Wright, a brother of the former national title holder, and Alfred S. Dabney.

N. Y. U. RETAINS ED THORP.

Basket Ball Coach Will Have Three Veteran Players Next Year.

Prospects of New York University having another championship basket ball team next season are bright. The first move toward a repetition of this year's success on the court came with the announcement yesterday that Coach Ed Thorp had signed a contract to direct the quintet again next year. Max Baker, Ed Delaney and Frank Goeller will be available from this year's team.

The N. Y. U. five, which won the championship title at Atlanta, will once again invade the South. The proposed trip will take place next Winter, when the Violet five will play two invitation games against the University of Georgia and the Atlanta Athletic Club.

MISS WELD SHOWS SKILL IN SKATING

Miss Brown and Mrs. Cramer Also Impress in Championship—Decisions Are Withheld.

First of the senior events to be completed in the International Figure Skating Championship of America, in progress at the Iceland Rink, Broadway and Fifty-second Street, under the auspices of the New York Skating Club, was that for women in school figures, in which three of the country's leading experts participated. Decision in the event was withheld until after the conclusion of the free skating championships tonight, as it had been earlier in the day in the men's and women's junior championships at school figures. But there was particular admiration expressed among the many experts in the gallery for the remarkable poise and grace displayed by Miss Theresa Weld of the Boston Skating Club.

Miss Weld's opponents for the women's senior international title were Miss Martha Brown, also of the Boston Skating Club, and Mrs. D. Cramer of the New York Skating Club. The competition was keen. Every conceivable variety of the figure eight was executed by these three models of perfection in equipoise. There were the back inside, double movement; the change of edge, rocker; counters, change of edge in the form of an eight; change of edge, loop; brackets and three-change-three, and every one of the difficult figures was performed with beautiful precision. It was all a fascinating exposition of figure skating as a fine art.

Poetry of Motion.

If the poetry of motion was perhaps exemplified in Miss Weld's case with a particularly close approach to perfection, Mrs. Cramer and Miss Brown were not at any time far behind her. But Miss Weld's freedom and strength of stroke seemed to be a trifle greater and her every movement was well-nigh the perfection of form.

The judges in last night's competition were Irving Brokaw, one of the most famous of New York's experts in figure skating; George H. Browne of Boston, Lieut. Col. A. E. Kirkpatrick of the Toronto Skating Club, Gorham Lynes, and Paul Armitage of New York.

No winners were announced, the conditions of the competition prescribing that the point score cannot be given out until the total results have been compiled, including both prescribed figures and free skating, after the final free skating contest tonight for the men's championship, starting at 8 o'clock.

Women Show Skill and Grace.

This most beautiful of ice sports provided an engaging spectacle in the morning competition for the junior women's championship. Skill and grace governed every movement of the eight contestants, and few envied the judges, Paul Armitage of the New York Skating Club, Gorham Lynes of New York and George H. Browne of Cambridge, Mass., their difficult task in awarding preferences in the point scores.

The entry list included names familiar to figure skaters throughout the country. They were: Miss Rosaline E. Dunn, New York Skating Club; Miss Guinevere Knott, Cohasset, Mass.; Miss Beatrice Loughran, New York Skating Club; Miss Rosalie Knapp, New York; Miss Sonia Wilson, New York Skating Club; Miss Pauline Cabot, Boston Skating Club; Miss Gertrude Dutton, Boston Skating Club, and Mrs. Nat W. Niles, Boston Skating Club.

In the men's junior championship in the afternoon there were three contestants: Charles B. Wyman of Boston, Oscar L. Richard, New York Skating Club, and Emil Fuchs of the same organization. The judges in this event were George H. Browne of Boston and Gorham Lynes and J. B. Liberman of New York.

BOXERS ARE A. W. O. L.

Arena Program Spoiled by Absentees and 4,000 Are Disappointed.

The program of boxing bouts scheduled for the Arena in Jersey City last night proved a disappointment to about 4,000 spectators who gathered at the Fourth Regiment Armory. Seven bouts of varying distances were listed, but only two were held that had any merit. Three exhibitions were staged in the ring and another was abandoned after forty seconds of make-believe boxing.

Harvey Crosby of Bayonne and Kid Troubles of West New York were the principals in the best bout of the night. This contest went four rounds and provided plenty of action. Crosby won, with considerable to spare. The other competitive bout brought together Young Eddy, a Connecticut lightweight, and Banty Sharp of Steubenville, Ohio. Both missed, but Eddy missed less frequently and was entitled to whatever honors there were. Eddie Fitzsimmons went on for a scheduled eight-round bout with Danny Bright of Brooklyn. Referee Phil Erhart separated the pair after forty seconds and declared the affair no contest.

The disappointments were announced as follows: Eddie Fitzsimmons was scheduled to box Eddie Dorsey, but Dorsey failed to appear; Gene Tunney was scheduled to box Jim Tully, but Tully was mysteriously absent; Frankie Burns was carded for a bout against Dutch Brandt, but Brandt was conspicuously missing; Willie Kohler appeared decked out in ring togs for a bout with Johnny Dundee, but there was no Dundee—it was announced Dundee was sick; Joe Jeannette was booked for carnage with Battling Levinsky, but the Battler was among those reported A. W. O. L.

ELI FOOTBALL MEN REPORT.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 19.—Yale's football players, who will be candidates for the team next Fall, reported for work this afternoon in the baseball cage and received some verbal instructions on the fine points of their positions. Members of last year's team handled the various squads this afternoon to the extent of giving them short talks.

Reinhardt took care of the ends, Dickens and Munger the tackles, Acosta and Galt the guards, Galvin the centres, Kempton and Laroche the quarter backs and Lay and Webb the half backs.

There will be no out-of-door work until the weather gets better. Just as Yale Field began to take on a normal appearance a heavy storm set in tonight and the field is now under a blanket of snow.

CITY A. C. WINS, 5 TO 1.

The City Athletic Club handball team entertained a squad playing under the name of Columbia Alumni last night on the club courts at 50 West Fifty-fourth Street, defeating the collegians five matches out of six. The City A. C. players captured three of the four singles tussels and both matches in doubles.

Think Ross May Have Another Sir Barton in Irish Dancer

Commander J. K. L. Ross, the Canadian sportsman, has decided to make a try for the Kentucky Derby this year with a colt which has never raced, and horsemen are wondering if he is preparing to put over another surprise such as he did last year when Sir Barton, then little known, won the rich prize. The colt on which Ross is putting his faith this time is Irish Dancer, which is by Celt-Ballet Girl. Irish Dancer was among the most highly regarded of the Ross two-year-olds at the beginning of last season, but never went to the post as he developed leg trouble and had to be taken out of training. He has since entirely recovered and has developed into a strong and powerful racer, and it is the opinion of trainer Guy Bedwell that the very fact that he did not race as a two-year-old may help to make nim a great three-year-old. Irish Dancer is a half brother to The Porter, but is a larger and more powerful animal.

FAMOUS GRAVESEND RACE TRACK IS SOLD

Course Which Played Big Part in Local Turf History to be Cut Into Lots.

Another of the historic landmarks of racing is soon to pass out of existence with the cutting up into building lots of the famous Gravesend course, which a decade or more ago was one of the most popular race tracks on Long Island. Taking advantage of the present boom in real estate, the Brooklyn Jockey Club has sold the Gravesend property for a price reported to be $675,000, and a new colony of homes will soon flourish where turf records were once made.

The Gravesend track was built thirty-five years ago by the Brooklyn Jockey Club, in which the Dwyer brothers, Philip J. and Michael F., were the largest stockholders. This is the last of the three courses in Kings County which were closed when the ban was put on racing during the administration of Governor Hughes. The Brighton track has already been turned into a real-estate development and the Sheepshead Bay track has for several years been used for a motor-car speedway, which is now being torn down.

The Gravesend track was the scene of many thrilling races and provided some of the biggest stake events then run. Chief among these was the Brooklyn Handicap, and many famous horses competed and made records there. Among these were Tenny, Fitz Herbert, Irish Lad and The Picket. It was there also that Mike Dwyer became famous as one of the heaviest plungers on the turf. That was in the days when open betting was legal and the big blackboards were seen in the ring. With the return of racing the Kings County tracks were replaced by those which now comprise the metropolitan circuit, though for years Gravesend has been used as a training track.

SUPPORT FOR BURKE BILL.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 19.—The House of Delegates today acted favorably upon the original Burke bill, with the referendum eliminated. It was substituted for the Andrews Anti-Gambling bill, which had been reported unfavorably. The substitute bill was then passed to the third reading file with the following changes:

The racing period in the State was reduced from 112 to 100 days each year. Establishment of new tracks or revival of old ones is prohibited.

All of the receipts from the taxes on the tracks are to be turned into the State Treasury, except $3,000, which as heretofore has been handed over annually from the receipts at the Pimlico track.

The next move will be to pass or defeat the bill in its amended form. Its fate will be decided next week. The vote today, 60 to 38, by which the Burke bill was substituted for the Andrews bill, would indicate that the friends of the bill as it is now framed are sufficiently numerous to pass it.

BID FOR POLO PONIES.

Highest Price Is Paid by S. G. Allen for Jimmy Oliver.

A consignment of polo ponies, many of which have played the game and others which are adaptable to the sport, brought some lively bidding at the sale conducted at Durland's Academy last night. The ponies were a consignment sent here by George W. Oliver, proprietor of the Chester Barr Ranch of Salmon, Idaho.

The highest price of the sale was paid by S. G. Allen for a six-year-old bay gelding, Jimmy Oliver, for which he paid $1,025. Jimmy Oliver is said to be a well-trained polo pony and was regarded as the pick of the entire consignment. Jimmy Oliver has won blue ribbons at the Salmon horse show in the last two years.

Other ponies which brought good prices were Clickitat, which went to C. C. Vernam for $650; Keplar, which was purchased by P. Schlussner for $600; Bucoda, which went to Miss Edith Webb for $575; Kanaskat, which sold for $500, and Moquah, which Mr. Allen also bought for $725.

RUTH SMITH SETS WORLD'S SWIM MARK

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 19.—The Smith sisters—Eleanor and Ruth—late of Columbus, and now members of the Morningside A. C. of New York, featured the swimming meet tonight at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association pool, termed the national and Alleghany Mountain championships. Each of the girls took two firsts and a second, while the Dayton (Ohio) girl, Ruby Butler, took a first, a second and a third. Ruth Smith broke the world's record of 1:29 1-5 in the 100-yard breast-stroke handicap for women, doing the distance in 1:27 1-5, while in the fifty-yard free-style handicap for women Eleanor Smith equaled the national record of Olga Dorfner of 0:29.

In the 100-yard junior championship for men, the title-holder, Leo Handy of Detroit, did not appear, and this was won by Jack Love of the P. A. A. in the time of 0:60 4-5. Ruby Butler won the 100-yard senior breast stroke championship for women, with Miss Nevol Taylor second and Frances Taylor third. Miss Mella Freeman of the Civic A. C. won the championship plunge for women, the distance being 45 feet 3 inches.

In the 50-yard free style handicap for women the two Smith girls were on scratch, and Eleanor was first with Ruth second. Time, 0:29. Then came the 100-yard breast stroke championship which Ruth Smith won and broke the record, with Ruby Butler second. Eleanor Smith did not compete. In the championship plunge for men R. Hephenstall, a Peabody High School boy, won, in the distance of 61 feet. Eleanor Smith won the 50-yard back stroke handicap for women, with Elizabeth Vance of Greensburg second. In the fancy diving Ruth Smith was awarded first prize. Eleanor Smith second, and Ruby Butler third.

SWIMMING RECORDS MADE.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, March 19.—One world's record and one American record were set by Charlotte Boyle and Ethelda Breibtrey in the invitation swimming meet in the Detroit Athletic Club's tank tonight. Miss Boyle shattered the international mark of 65 feet 10 inches, formerly held by Miss Helen Nolan of Detroit, by plunging 66 feet. As the event was characterized as an exhibition, the new mark may not be allowed.

In the 440-yard invitation Ethelda Breibtrey of New York smashed her own American record of 6:30 1-5 by trimming Mrs. Frances Scroth, the much-heralded San Francisco star, in 6:19 4-5, with Charlotte Boyle a close third.

Mrs. Schroth gave the two Manhattan mermaids a hard fight in the 200-yard relay, but saw the pair pass her, Miss Breibtrey beating her teammate in a close finish.

Plunge for Distance—Charlotte Boyle, New York, 66 feet, first; Helen Nolan, Detroit, 64 feet 6 inches, second; Dorothy McWood, Detroit, 62 feet, third. (New world's record.)

PRELIMINARY DERBY IS WON BY HERRON

HAVANA, Cuba, March 19.—Herron, which was sold a few days ago for $10,000, to E. L. Alveraz, was returned the winner of the Preliminary Derby at Oriental Park today. His victory was so impressive that he is conceded to be the logical choice for the rich Cuban derby which will be run on the closing day of the meeting, March 28. Herron ran the distance in the fast time of 1:38 4-5, which is three-fifths of a second slower than the track record. The Thraves and Spence entry, Mlle. Dazie and Miss Patty, finished second and third respectively.

Included in the purchase of Herron was the stipulation that in the event of his being successful in winning the derby, E. T. Baxter, his former owner, was to receive an additional $5,000.

Marty Lou led home a big field in the opening event, but after assuming a long lead in the early part she tired badly in the last sixteenth and had to be hard ridden at the end to last it out. Daisy L. was second and Will Soon was third. Burlingame sprang a surprise when he galloped off with the second race. The field that he was meeting was not a high class one, but he was never far from the pace and when called on in the stretch he moved up fast and won by two lengths. Jack Healy was a neck in front of Magic Mirror.

Presumption won the fourth event in a drive by three-quarters of a length with First Pullet second a length ahead of Pierrot.

RUTH FINALLY HITS HOME-RUN STRIDE

HIS SECOND HARDEST BLOW

Special to The New York Times.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 19.—Babe Ruth finally has lifted one over the fence. There was no game this afternoon, but the club was put through a stiff batting practice, with the pitchers putting all they had on the balls. Ruth caught one of De Vitali's shoots on the nose and knocked it over the centre field fence. It was 428 feet from the home plate to the fence, and it was estimated that the drive went over by about 50 feet, thus measuring 478 feet. It is the first time a ball has ever been driven over the centre field fence.

Ruth figures the ball was the second hardest he ever hit. His banner wallop was made off George Smith, the former Giant pitcher, in the Giant-Red Sox series of last Spring, when he knocked the ball over a race track fence in Tampa. The drive was measured afterward and was 550 feet. McGraw called it the longest home run of his experience.

Ruth made his homer off a fast ball. De Vitalis was not lobbing them over, and appeared to be in good form. Babe just got hold of one and sent it for a ride. It was a low liner somewhat similar to the home run in Tampa. That is, the ball never went any higher than twenty-five feet in the air, but just kept on sailing. The Big Babe seems to be on his way.

Huggins Holds Skull Practice.

A strong wind blew up in the afternoon, so Huggins decided not to put on a tilt between the first and second squads. Instead the club went through the same course of training that was the feature of its first week's work here. First there was batting practice, with De Vitalis, Collins, Mogridge, and Mays doing the pitching, followed by fielding practice. Huggins kept Fewster at second and Ward on third on his regular team. Pratt worked out in a sweater. He took part in batting practice but not in fielding.

In addition Huggins got the men out on the grass and held a long skull practice. Miller insisted he wanted smarter baseball and more of the infield variety the coming season. He pointed out flaws in the team's style of play last season and showed the men how they could be remedied. He said he wanted the outfielders to make a better study of batsmen, and to be able to shift around for batsmen, as does Speaker and the Cleveland outfielders. Huggins pointed out that much of Speaker's great success was due to the fact that he knows just where to play for batters and usually is in the right place to make a catch.

The manager also lectured his team on its mode of offense, and said that the Yankees would try out a greater variety of plays this season. The players have been invited to think out plays for themselves and to present them to Huggins for his judgment. He informed the men that the material was there and that it was up to them as well as to himself to see that it produced its maximum of effectiveness.

Will Try New Plays.

Some of the new plays will be tried out against Brooklyn tomorrow. The Yanks have been rather chagrined at their two defeats at the hands of the Dodgers, for, after beating Brooklyn in ten out of thirteen games last Spring, they were inclined to hold the Flatbush team cheaply. But the Dodgers have shown the Yanks that they will have to be on their toes if they want to make any kind of a showing.

Bob Shawkey and probably Thormahlen will work against the Dodgers tomorrow, and, with Ruth finally started, they hope to record their first victory over the Robins before another sundown.

Huggins says the Brooklyn defeats need not be taken seriously. He has veteran players, who will round into shape in proper time with a long training period, and is willing to let such men as Peck Pipp and others round themselves gradually into condition.

The Yanks also lost the golf championship to Brooklyn. Robbie and Ernie Krueger, his catcher, beat Bob Shawkey and Del Pratt in a Scotch foursome by eleven points. Krueger and Robbie played well, though the catcher made the better showing. Shawkey was the strong man on the Yankee team.

CRIMSON NINE AT WORK.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 19.—Eighteen Harvard base ball players, including a tentative first and second infield, worked for two hours in the large Middlesex School baseball cage at Concord this afternoon. Coach Slattery, after an hour of batting practice during which Carl Harrison and Everett Hardell were used as pitchers, formed a 'Varsity infield consisting of Captain Emmons at second base, Arthur Conlon at short, Eddie Lincoln at third, and Austen Blair at first.

He kept this combination busily engaged in fielding and throwing for half an hour with Bob Lancaster doing the catching. The second infield was composed of Mason at second, Roos at short, Shaw at third, and Ned Bigelow, the hockey star, at first. The practice will be repeated tomorrow. The remainder of the team practiced in the local cage under Claude Davidson.

WALK ENDS IN DISPUTE.

An endeavor to make a feature event of the one-mile walk last night on the program of the Hollywood Inn Club's athletic games in Yonkers resulted in a dismal failure when officials became confused at the finish and ultimately threw out the race. Fifteen starters toed the mark in the armory of Company G of the 1st Regiment, N. Y. G., including Joseph Pearman of the New York A. C., who started from scratch. Willie Plant of the Morningside A. C. was entered but did not appear.

Half a dozen of the walkers claimed the victory, with the protests of J. Aronson of the Pastime A. C. and James H. Hocking of the Morningside A. C. being heard the loudest. Pearman argued with the officials that he deserved second place, whereas they listed him far down on the chart. After several minutes of wrangling, the judges voted to abandon any hope of arriving at a decision.

One-Mile Run (Handicap)—Won by A. L. Hulsebosch, Paulist A. C., (scratch); A. Richards, Yonkers Y. M. C. A., (55 seconds), second; Ray Fox, Paulist A. C. (45 seconds), third.

Two-Mile Run (Handicap, Closed to Athletes of Westchester County)—Won by M. G. Mass, Yonkers Y. M. C. A. (50 yards); Thomas F. Barden, unattached, (scratch), second; Charlie Russell, Yonkers Y. M. C. A., (75 yards), third. Time—9:35.

One-Mile Run (Novice)—Won by A. J. Helsenstein, Loughlin Lyceum; R. B. Patterson, Yonkers Y. M. C. A., second; C. Cloonan, Loughlin Lyceum, third. Time—4:59.

45-Yard Dash, (Handicap)—Won by W. A. Farley, Loughlin Lyceum, (scratch); Frank Conway, Morningside A. C. (scratch); second; J. Valentine, Hollywood Inn Club, (7 feet), third. Time—0:05 1-5.

880-Yard Run, in Heavy Marching Order—Won by Corporal N. P. Linehan; Corporal E. N. Burns, second; Private M. D. Doyle, third.

Leads Blind Fan from Park, Player Sent to a Hospital

MACON, Ga., March 18.—Chick Shorten, outfielder of the Detroit Americans, is in a hospital here today as the result of stepping on a rusty nail. Shorten was leading a blind baseball fan from Detroit out of the ball park. It will be three weeks before he can play, doctors state, if no complications set in.

GIANTS LEAVE CAMP TO TACKLE RED SOX

Special to The New York Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 19.—The Giants' training camp here was rent asunder today, and tonight the regulars left for Dallas. From Dallas the players will go to Fort Worth tomorrow to open the exhibition series with the Red Sox.

Twenty-one players are in the squad which McGraw took out of this city tonight. They are Pitchers Barnes, Benton, Nehf, Douglas, Toney, Ryan, Hubbell and Winters; Outfielders Burns, Young, Kauff and Statz; Infielders Kelly, Doyle, Fletcher, Frisch, Sicking and Thomas, and Catchers McCarty, Snyder and Smith. Matty also is in the squad. The recruits will be left here under command of Mike Gonzales, who will put them through their paces until the return of Manager McGraw and the regulars next Thursday.

On the eve of the opening of the series with the Red Sox the Giants are in pretty good condition. Arthur Fletcher still is a little bit stiff and sore, and his throwing arm is not yet free from kinks, and Larry Doyle has not loosened up as yet; but aside from these two veterans the players are practically all ready for the clash with Ed Barrow's team. The regular pitchers have demonstrated in their recent performances that they are very nearly on edge, and McGraw expects them to do well against the red-hosed batters.

The last day of the Giant regulars in camp here was marked by a single workout, and a light one at that. Umpire Bill Klem, who is touring the National League training camps for the purpose of explaining the amendments to the playing rules, reached here in the morning and rendered his discourse out at the ball park shortly after his arrival. Many of the points elucidated by Klem had been touched upon by McGraw and Bill Brennan at previous practice sessions, and Klem found the Giants better informed on the correct interpretations of the rules than are most of the clubs.

"I don't think the umpires will have a great deal of trouble in enforcing the new rules," said Klem, "for the reason that, as far as I can hear and observe, there is a sincere willingness on the part of the managers and players to co-operate with the arbiters in this matter. They all seem to realize that these rules were enacted with the idea in view of bettering the game.

"A number of pitchers have said that it will work a real hardship on them if they are prevented from using a bit of resin with which to dry their fingers now and then in the course of a game, and I have taken this phase of the matter up with Mr. Heydler by telegraph. He seems reluctant to permit the use of resin even for this purpose, but I shall get in touch with him again tonight and he may take a different view of the case in point."

Klem will leave here tomorrow for Pasadena, where he will lecture to the Cubs. The visit to the Chicago Club's camp will complete his tour, and it is probable that he will join the Giants and Red Sox in New Orleans and work with Bill Brennan in the series to be played by these clubs.

BROOKLYN REGULARS WIN.

Special to The New York Times.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 19.—A high wind blew across the field this afternoon and Manager Robinson limited the practice game between the regulars and Yanigans to five and a half frames. At the end of the abbreviated contest the regulars were on the right side of an 8 to 2 count. Heitman and Krueger formed the battery for the Yanigans and Conlon and Beyers were in the points for the regulars. At the end of the game the regulars appeared ready for the third game of their series with the Yankees, which will be played here tomorrow afternoon.

Joe Conlon, the Chicago southpaw, pitched in splendid style and had only one bad session. It was the fifth, and in that round the youngsters made their four hits off him. Cadore started the round with a single, and scored when Krueger hit to left field for three bases. Heitman doubled, scoring Krueger.

Yanigans ....0 0 0 0 2 0—2

BLUMENTHAL IS WINNER.

Defeats Van Arsdale by 50 to 24 in Three-Cushion Tourney.

G. E. Van Arsdale	0	6	5	.000

William Blumenthal advanced a notch in the standing of the three-cushion tournament for the national championship of the American Amateur Billiard Association at Joe Thum's Academy last night. Blumenthal was at his best and it was George E. Van Arsdale's misfortune to be the victim. The final score was 50 to 24, a thoroughly decisive victory for the veteran. Being in excellent stroke, Blumenthal discarded much of the safety play—deliberate or veiled—which so often plays a prominent part in his victories.

The elimination of safety play by both men speeded up the game to an appreciable extent. It was the third shortest match that has yet been played in the tournament, consuming only eighty-eight innings. Incidentally Blumenthal was able to equal the high run record for the tourney when he clicked off a cluster of seven buttons. The previous mark had been held alone by Fred G. Owles. Now he has to share the honor with the "old war horse."

SPEAR WINS AT BALKLINE.

Defeats Steinbugler in Poggenberg Cup Tourney.

Four Class C players met in the two matches played yesterday afternoon and last evening at the National Recreation Academy, Brooklyn, in the annual 18.2 balkline billiard handicap tournament for the J. F. Poggenberg Cup being staged under the auspices of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players. George Spear defeated Charley Steinbugler by a score of 115 to 84, and Robert Steinbugler defeated C. R. Lewis 115 to 54. The men played on even terms and, as the scores indicate, the victories were easily scored.

SHOEMAKER SCORES VICTORY AT POOL

NATIONAL POCKET BILLIARD STANDING.

Player.	W.	L.	P.C.
J. H. Shoemaker	2	0	1000
L. B. Holbrook	1	0	1000
G. Gardner	3	1	.725
S. B. Burdett	3	1	.725
J. Moriarty	2	1	.667
E. Patterson	1	3	.250
C. E. Shongood, Jr.	1	3	.250
W. A. Tilt	0	4	.000

J. Howard Shoemaker, who has won the title seven times, last night scored his second victory in the pocket billiard tournament being played for the national championship of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players at the New York Athletic Club, and gained a clear lead in the race for the coveted crown. L. B. Holbrook of Hartford is the only other player who has not yet been defeated. He scored a victory in his only start thus far.

Three games were played yesterday, two in the afternoon and one in the evening. They resulted as follows: Schuyler B. Burdett defeated Charles E. Shongood, Jr., 125 to 94; Gus Gardner defeated William A. Tilt, 125 to 51, and J. Howard Shoemaker defeated Earl Patterson, 125 to 78.

Patterson, who is the champion of the Illinois Athletic Club, was generally expected to make the holder of the national title play all the pocket billiards he knows to win, and for a time he succeeded, but Shoemaker came with a rush in the closing frames and scored an impressive victory.

In the eleventh frame Patterson was in the lead. It wasn't a full-grown lead, but he was setting the pace by a one-point margin. The score was 76 to 75. In the next five frames, however, Shoemaker made a total of 53 balls, scratching three times, while his opponent was able to pocket only two. During this mad dash to victory Shoemaker made his high run of 25.

In making this run Shoemaker played some of the best pocket billiards that has been seen in the current event. It was Shoemaker at his best, and when the champion is stroking according to the high standard set by him in the past it means billiards de luxe. His execution was deadly accurate and his position play could scarcely have been improved upon. Several times he was called upon to make extremely difficult long cut shots, but he cued them into the pocket as if they had been "hangers."

In his match Schuyler Burdett was able to establish a good lead soon after the start of the game, and always held Charley Shongood safe. The latter did not get many breaks, and the frowns of Dame Fortune caused him quite a little trouble.

In the second afternoon game Gus Gardner, the New York State champion, advanced a notch in the standing by taking the measure of William A. Tilt. There was not much to this game. Gardner had things virtually his own way always from the beginning and Tilt was never dangerous.

Holbrook has elected an extremely difficult task for himself today. When asked if he would be able to play two matches he replied that he would like to play three. It was so arranged and he will meet Gardner, Shongood and Tilt in the order named.

Cutler Wins Another Match.

Albert Cutler won another 18.2 balkline billiard exhibition match at Maurice Daly's last night. He defeated the veteran Thomas Gallagher by a score of 300 to 44. Cutler made a high run of 95 and averaged 27 3-11.

The score by innings:

PENN STATE MATMEN WIN.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., March 19.—Penn State added another to her string of mat victories here tonight, defeating the Princeton wrestlers 24 to 8. State won four falls and one decision to Princeton's two decisions.

Shirk, Mills and Brown, making their last appearances on the local mats, each won their bouts in record time, Mills defeating Scarff in one minute. Garber, also seen here in his final bout, lost to Jacobs, the Princeton captain, in two extra periods.

While all the bouts were exceptionally well contested, the heavyweight class and Earley, a State find, went fifteen and Farley, a State find, went fifteen minutes before Carpenter won. Detar brought the crowd to its feet by throwing Hutchinson in 53 seconds.

Boxing at Brooklyn College.

Encouraged by the success of its initial tournament held last month, officials of the Brooklyn College Club have arranged another amateur boxing tournament for Loyola Hall, Rogers Avenue and Carroll Street, Brooklyn, to be held April 7 and 9. Competition is scheduled in four classes, at 115, 125, 135 and 158 pounds. The preliminary bouts will be conducted April 7 and the semi-finals and final April 9. Entries for the tournament will close March 31 with Benny Levine, local A. A. U. boxing official.

FIVE CREWS ON CHARLES.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 19.—Five Harvard crews, including the third 'Varsity eight, rowed on the Charles this afternoon, a stretch of nearly a half mile being navigable at a point below the upper Union boathouse. Coach Edward Brown was in charge, but unable to get a launch on the river.

Though a snow storm was in progress tonight, the feeling was that by the middle of next week all ice in the river would have disappeared.

The 'Varsity crews rowed at Lynn today. Dave Morris returned unexpectedly to his position in the second crew following an operation. The Harvard launch arrived at Lynn and was used for the first time by Coach Haines.

To Arrange Wrestling Tourney.

The Metropolitan A. A. U. Wrestling Championship Committee, of which Joseph O'Brien, Boys' Club, is Chairman, will hold a meeting at the Boys' Club next Tuesday night.

HANOVER, N. H., March 19.—A wonderful rally staged by Dartmouth in the last five minutes of play just failed to overcome the Tigers' overwhelming lead rolled up earlier in the game, and Princeton came out on the long end of a 35 to 31 score in the final intercollegiate basket ball game here tonight.

Beginning the middle of the second period, the Dartmouth team took on a new lease of life and its attack led by Yuill and Browne fairly swept through the Tigers' defense. But it was all Princeton in the first half, Legendre's uncanny ability in shooting fouls helping to roll up an early lead. At no time during the season has Dartmouth put up such a wonderful fight and, especially in the closing few minutes, its team play was remarkable. Captain Browne was the individual star for the Green, while Hynson, Dickinson and Legendre put up fast exhibitions for the visitors.

The line-up:

BRAIN WORKERS OF PARIS ORGANIZE

Unite to Protect Themselves Against the Exactions of Capital and Labor.

WIDE SUPPORT PROMISED

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 19.—A new union which has been mooted for some time in Paris was launched last night at a great meeting. It calls itself La Confédération des Travailleurs Intellectuels, or, for short, C. T. I. Its aim is to group into one organization the great body of mental workers, who at present are crushed between capital and manual labor, or, as one French journalist expresses it, between Croesus and Caliban.

Delegates from two hundred associations of brainworkers attended the meeting to draft a constitution for the new confederation. In a manifesto they declare their intention "to represent, coördinate and defend the interests of all those men and women who derive their principal livelihood from the work of their brains and not from manual labor or invested capital."

Clerks, inventors, managers, directors, writers, artists, teachers, lawyers and scientists are all eligible for membership. By a union of interests it is hoped not only to secure better conditions of work, better remuneration and wider prospects, but also to secure a larger measure of recognition by the world at large of the immense services done to the world by the brainworkers of all denominations.

The drafters of the manifesto complain that intellect has lost its pride of place in the world and that it is used by capital without respect and despised by labor. They contend that in the world's work it is the most important of all contributing factors, and as such deserves clear and uncompromised recognition.

"In developing in this way in national life the rôle and part of intelligence," the manifesto says, "it is certain that it will fulfill its aim and secure for the workers' organization and betterment, and for mankind organization, production and a guarantee of justice."

At the present, when the brainworking middle classes in France are severely hit by the high cost of living caused by profiteers on the one hand and the workers' demands on the other, the project has received enthusiastic support from all sides, and its success seems assured.

Its Fourth Performance Greeted with Enthusiasm.

"Parsifal" drew a full house at its fourth performance, which also was a third time in the regular opera subscription, at the Metropolitan last evening. Both the subscribers, hitherto often accounted averse to serious music drama, and the enthusiastic galleries and standing crowd, many of whom had waited in the storm for 7:30 o'clock, the advanced hour of starting, remained to the close of the last impressive "temple scene," a few minutes before midnight. Messrs. Harrold, Whitehill, Ananian, Rothier, Didur; Mmes. Matzenauer, Gordon, Sundelius, Romaine and others appeared as before, and Mr. Bodanzky conducted. The English used by several of the foreign artists has improved. As to the performance, its moments of mystic beauty seized the imagination of the crowd, which again showed a desire to express its approval even at those points where applause has always been barred.

Another hearing of "Parsifal", and this time a matinée out of the regular series, is understood to be planned for April 3, Good Friday.

Oliver Denton's Recital.

Oliver Denton, who gave a piano recital earlier in the season, appeared again yesterday afternoon in Aeolian Hall in a pleasing program, comprising Beethoven's early sonata, Op. 10, No. 2, "Songs Without Words" and the F sharp minor scherzo à capriccio by Mendelssohn, Schumann's "Etudes Symphoniques," and pieces by Hutcheson, Scriabine and Albeniz.

Mr. Denton has facility and power, a vigorous style that does not yield to sentimentality. Nor is his facility always marked by complete accuracy. He gave a strong and straightforward performance of Beethoven's sonata; and in the "Songs Without Words," by Mendelssohn, found expression for sincere sentiment.

Helen Zagat, Dancer, Applauded.

Helen Zagat, a new name among solo dancers, appeared at the Little Theatre yesterday afternoon, assisted at the piano by Hans Barth. Her audience demanded encores to Miss Zagat's program, which ranged from Chopin's "Funeral March" to his "Revolutionary Etude." There were an "Impromptu" of Schubert and one musical novelty, a manuscript "Prelude" by Isabel Swift.

Violinist and Pianist in Recital.

Adolph Schmidt, violin, and N. Val Peavey, piano, reappeared last evening at Aeolian Hall, where they were heard in solo numbers and jointly in sonatas, as they had been last year. Sylvio Lazzari's sonata, Op. 24, recalled the Parisian composer's visit here to produce his opera, "Le Sauteriot." The players concluded with the sonata, Op. 75, of Saint-Saëns.

Otto Kruger Secretly Married.

Otto Kruger and Sue MacManamy, it was learned yesterday, were secretly married last August. Mr. Kruger is playing the leading rôle in "Adam and Eva," at the Longacre, and Miss MacManamy is appearing on the road in "Stand From Under." She was seen here earlier in the season in "The Five Million."

MUSIC NOTES.

Jascha Heifetz and the orchestra of the Symphony Society, under Walter Damrosch, will appear at Carnegie Hall tonight in a special concert, the gross proceeds of which have been offered by President H. H. Flagler to be used in the rehabilitation of the Music School of Rheims.

Heinrich Meyn's playlet, "At the Inn of the Tired Donkey," will be presented this evening at the MacDowell Club.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"Wedding Bells" will end its engagement at the Harris Theatre in another week. The succeeding attraction at the Harris is as yet unannounced.

"Tick-Tack-Toe" will withdraw from the Princess tonight, and the house will be dark for a week prior to the opening of "Mrs. Jimmie Thompson."

THE PLAY

By Alexander Woollcott

John Murray Anderson's Revue.

The ascendant star of John Murray Anderson shines exceedingly bright after the production last night (and this morning) of the successor to his Greenwich Village Follies. It befell at the Maxine Elliott Theatre and is called "What's In a Name?" It is scant in its supply of humor, and it is musically ordinary, but it is full of a striving for new things, marked in every episode with a determination not to imitate, but rather to differ from, the preceding twenty-five musical shows of the season. And it is often surpassingly lovely to look upon. A stagecraft of considerable cunning, good taste and real imagination ruled over its preparation. Indeed, in a half dozen of its scenes, "What's In a Name" marks the most beautiful staging of musical comedy New York has known.

It is really a Summer show which arrived with the sleet and snow—like an importunate crocus. And unlike so many of its kind, it avoids the opulent and almost tropical splendor which has been the midsummer fashion, but achieves its beauty daintily, achieves a cool and airy loveliness, with silks of delicate yellow and green, sudden, startling adventures into black and white, and silver screens across which the lights play wonderfully. When masters of revue have learned how to appeal to the ear and the risibles as surely as they appeal to the eye—but then that will probably be the celebrated millennium.

The human elements involved are various. There is the attenuated Olin Howland, producing, among other things, a brief version of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," in which he plays all the parts; most comically Williams and Woolfus, a vaudeville team which consists largely of a trick pianist named Williams, one of those tried and true comics of the varieties, who can play engagement after engagement at the Palace and yet be greeted as a welcome stranger and a treasure trove when he puts in his first appearance at what is sometimes facetiously described as a legitimate theatre; a pretty singer named Rosalind Fuller, and a husky and rampageous dancer named Gloria Foy, frequently abetted by the equally nimble Allyn Kearns, who keeps Mr. Anderson's revue from getting too unorthodox by inserting, just in time, an imitation of George M. Cohan.

And then there is Beatrice Herford, who is among those present with two of her monologues. Surely there should be a separate paragraph for this great lady, for a single Beatrice Herford monologue has more art, more life and more fun in it than three-quarters of the plays along Broadway. It is one of the few perfect institutions in an imperfect world.

It is Miss Herford and Mr. Anderson who emerge with the chief honors from this entertainment. It is too bad that Mr. Anderson's talent for management has not yet included such details as opening on the date announced and being all in readiness when at last his curtain does rise. The postponed first performance did not begin until 9 o'clock and may be still running yet. What happened after 12:10 this morning, deponent sayeth not, deponent having torn himself away at that juncture.

"The Piper," Josephine Preston Peabody's fantastic and wistful comedy based upon the Hamelin legend, was revived here yesterday afternoon at the Fulton Theatre for the first time since its intermittent production at the struggling New Theatre a decade ago. This is the play which won the prize at Stratford and which, together with a finer achievement called "Marlowe," is responsible for her unrivaled eminence as an American writer of poetic drama—a field, it is true, in which she has had precious little competition.

The present revival, backed by the same Shakespeare Playhouse which had Walter Hampden's "Hamlet" to its credit, is scheduled for a series of special matinees, of which yesterday's, the first, began only a half hour late and was over and done with shortly before 6 o'clock. There was a good deal that was charming to hear and see in the first and fourth acts, but the second and third, which are of loose and uncertain dramatic material at best, were intolerably dull. This may have been due in some measure to the insensitive direction, but is more clearly attributable to the casting of A. E. Anson for the rôle of the piper, the part played in Central Park West by Edith Wynne Matthison. Mr. Anson was quite inaudible much of the time, on several occasions swallowing whole some passages of genuine beauty. Then he played throughout without the elfin and fantastic touch which really belongs in this somewhat pretentious "Peter Pan."

The Drama League has bestowed its benign smile on this revival, and for some reason (possibly because the company is brimful of children) has decreed that it should be set aside for a series of nursery performances. Large numbers of herded youngsters attended yesterday afternoon in jubilant anticipation. After the unbelievable tedium of the third act it would be small wonder if many of the town's younger set entertained low opinions of their parents and the Drama League.

EDWARD VROOM AS CYRANO.

In spite of rumors of injunction Edward Vroom and a numerous company appeared yesterday afternoon at the Selwyn Theatre in a revival of Edmond Rostand's "Cyrano de Bergerac." The performance marked the first of a number of matinées which Mr. Vroom, for many years well known as a player, promises to give at the Selwyn. Thus, on April 9 he will be seen as Shylock, a week later as Hamlet and on the 23d in "The Devil's Holiday" and "Don Caesar's Wedding."

Cyrano is a part which he has played before, although not in New York. Here, of course, the play is known chiefly through the performance of Richard Mansfield; to a lesser degree through that of Charles Richman in the Daly production. London has recently been having a revival of it with Robert Loraine in the rôle, but in these parts, thanks about equally to lawsuits and changing times, the play has been unexhibited for some twenty years.

The audience at the Selwyn yesterday waited until 5:45 o'clock for the death of the great-hearted Cyrano, and there was evidence aplenty that the old play still has considerable vitality, despite the difficulties of adjusting one's mood to the old-style romantic play and the license which it demands. Mr. Vroom has telescoped the first two acts into one, but otherwise it remains about the same. It is not helped vastly by Mr. Vroom's performance in the principal rôle, but there were indications yesterday that he was bearing a manifold burden—that of the production, of the principal rôle and of the lines which his supporting players forgot.

His voice is resonant and varied, but he is hardly a sufficiently compelling figure for the wonderful Cyrano. He is the wit and the poet, but there is hardly enough of the swashbuckler about him. Something is lacking romantically, and you have but little confidence in his military prowess when he leads the Cadets of Gascony against the foe at Arras. Nor, to discuss purely physical matters, is the great nose quite what it should be. It is not "the comfortable seat, the roomy perch" which the text calls for.

Elsie H. Kearns is a sweet Roxane, and Charles Webster and Walter Kingsford do good work as Christian and the Count de Guiche. "Cyrano" will be repeated on April 30.

WHY FIFTY CENTS?
McBride's came into existence in 1873 to supply their demands. Ever since then the demand has outrun the supply.
But McBride's is charging today the same fee—fifty cents over the box-office price—that it charged then.
Because there is always someone who will pay twice the fair price is not a sufficient reason to us to betray our strict principle that we can furnish you the best seats swiftly and courteously at the standard fee.
New York's play-goers today apparently realize this. They know that our fifty-cent fee is time-honored, time-approved; that it is not hastily constructed expediency; that it buys seats where you want them when you want them.

COURT ORDERS SUIT AGAINST BUS LINES

CITY SERVICE NOT INVOLVED

Loss on Williamsburg Bridge Route Would Be $34,000 a Month, It Is Estimated.

The legality of privately owned buses operating in the streets in opposition to car lines is to be tested in the courts in an injunction proceeding to be begun by counsel for Job E. Hedges, Receiver of the New York Railways Company, by direction of Federal Judge Mayer. Papers in the proceedings are being prepared and will be presented to the courts early next week. It was stated on high authority yesterday that there was no question but that the buses were operating illegally because they were without franchises or certificates of necessity and convenience from the Public Service Commission.

Announcement of the beginning of the legal proceedings was made yesterday afternoon by Judge Mayer in a hearing relating to the railways company. Bronson Withrop, of counsel for Receiver Hedges, had reported that the finances of the company would be $198,000 worse off on June 3 than formerly estimated because of bad weather. Concerning resuming the operation of the Eighth and Fourteenth Street and the Seventh Avenue car lines over the Williamsburgh Bridge, he said that it would be impossible to start this service again because of the great loss it would cause.

He called attention to the buses operating along the abandoned routes and estimated the loss this competition would entail at about $34,000 a month. Reference was made to a letter from Deputy Public Service Commissioner Donnelly, which told of hearings being held by him to the end that some arrangements might be made to have the cars returned to the bridge service, and asking that suggestions be made by Mr. Hedges. Judge Mayer directed Mr. Winthrop to attend the next hearing on the subject, but not to offer any suggestions. The Court explained that there was a contract between the city and the company for the bridge operation which could be terminated at any time, and that its termination by the company was due to the fact that the losses incurred could no longer be sustained.

It was said that reduced tolls or an increased fare would probably have the effect of starting the cars to running again over the bridge. It was pointed out that it would be idle to resume operation of the cars in competition with the bus lines, which pay no charges whatever except a small license fee.

The receiver was instructed to further delay the payment of the $200,000 interest due March 7 on bonds. The court adjourned further proceedings in the matter until April 15.

Argument was heard yesterday by the Appellate Division in Brooklyn on the appeal taken by the city on the action of Supreme Court Justice Callaghan, who threw out the amended answer made by the city to the suit of the Brooklyn City Railroad Company to restrain the use of buses in opposition to its lines. Assistant Corporation Counsel William B. Carswell denied statements to the effect that the city was merely trying to delay a decision in the proceedings.

William N. Dykman, counsel for the company, said: "The city's action in running these buses was a lawless attack on the railroad company in defiance of the rights accorded the company under its charter, and was in violation of the law."

In the various proceedings yesterday it was said the fight on the bus lines applied only to those run by private persons, and that it would not be extended to the buses which the city contemplates operating.

Mrs. MacLean Seeks Appointment of Trustee.

Mrs. Marie MacLean, wife of former Supreme Court Justice Charles F. MacLean, applied in the Surrogates' Court yesterday for the appointment of a new trustee under the will of her father, Jordan L. Mott, head of the Jordan L. Mott Iron Works, who died in 1915, leaving a large estate. She and her brother Augustus, who has since died, each got a third of the estate and the remaining third went to her brother Jordan, and to his son, Jordan L. Mott, 3d.

John Reid, Max Goebel and Jordan L. Mott, Jr., were appointed trustees, but Mr. Reid died in 1916 and Mr. Goebel has been ill of pneumonia all Winter. Mrs. MacLean said that, because of differences between her brother and Mr. Goebel over the management of the business and because her brother intended to leave soon for a long sojourn on the Pacific Coast, her interests require that a third trustee to succeed Mr. Reid be appointed at once.

TOLEDO CAR LINES FOR SALE

Doherty Offers System to City for $11,000,000 Cash and Bonds.

TOLEDO, Ohio, March 19.—In a telegram from New York today Henry L. Doherty, head of the Toledo Railways and Light Company, offers to sell the street car system to the municipality for $11,000,000, 20 per cent. cash down, and the remainder to be paid in bonds secured by first mortgage on the lines. Doherty intimated he would take less if the city decided to pay all in cash. The price quoted is nearly $4,000,000 higher than the valuation made by the city experts. The offer will be laid before the Civic Municipal Ownership Commission Friday.

Carmody Receiver of His Law Firm.

Thomas Carmody, former Attorney General, was appointed yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Gavegan receiver of the law firm of Carmody & Riegel pending a suit to dissolve the firm and for an accounting. Mr. Carmody stated that he sold an interest in the firm to Guy Hughes Riegel, a young Pennsylvania lawyer, but that Mr. Riegel failed to carry out the purchase agreement. Joseph A. Kellogg, former counsel to Governor Smith, and now a member of the up-State Public Service Commission, has been a law associate of Mr. Carmody.

Service Board's Appeal Denied.

The Court of Appeals denied yesterday the appeal by the Public Service Commission from the decision of the Supreme Court, which granted an alternative writ of prohibition preventing the commission from hearing an application of the receivers of the Manhattan and Queens Traction Corporation for an increased fare. The court stated that the order of the lower court was not appealable as a right and that the permission granted by the Appellate Division to appeal had been revoked.

Lectures for Women Democrats.

A course of four lectures for $1 at the Ritz-Carlton as a continuation of the educational program of the Democratic Women of the Seventeenth Senatorial District, which will be started at their dinner at the Hotel Commodore Friday evening, March 26, was announced yesterday by Mrs. Montgomery Hare, Chairman of the Dinner Committee.

CAR SHORTAGE BARS CANADIAN EXPORTS

Manufacturers Unable to Get Transportation for Goods to United States.

OTTAWA, Ontario, March 19.—Hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of merchandise consigned for export to the United States is being held up here, owing to a shortage of foreign railroad cars in which to ship the goods to the United States. The situation, embarrassing for some weeks, has been rendered more serious, it is stated, by an embargo placed by the New York Central Monday against shipments from Canada, east of Buffalo, which prevents loading here on New York Central cars of anything except news print paper, pulp wood, wood pulp, perishable goods for human or live stock consumption, supplies for American railroads and shipments consigned to the United States Government. There is said to be a great scarcity of cars even for news print paper and pulp.

Canadian roads are said to be unwilling to let cars go across the border, as there are already 60,000 Canadian cars on United States rails and only 40,000 foreign cars on Canadian roads. Railroad offices state that the shortage will continue for at least ten days.

MONTREAL, March 19.—Jason Rogers, publisher of the New York Globe, who has come to Montreal to investigate the causes of the serious news print shortage in the United States, said today it was due in large part to the fact that empty freight cars for the movement of the paper were not being returned to Canada from the United States.

"The situation is desperate," said Mr. Rogers. "Unless the empty cars are returned the mills must stop making paper, as they are getting badly choked and cannot store further supplies.

"One lumber shipper has 1,000 carloads of material, and he cannot get the equipment to ship it. The number of Canadian cars in the United States on March 1 was 59,716. The number of cars from the United States in Canada on that date was 40,632. The balance of 19,084 cars, of which 18,198 were box cars, apparently were lost on American railroads. The assurance from Washington to the Canadian roads that twenty cars a day would be supplied means merely a drop in the bucket, and thus far even these cars have not been furnished."

The New York Central's embargo against shipments from Canada east of Buffalo is temporary, and only to relieve congestion at terminal points brought on by recent storms in the Middle West, it was announced here yesterday. Shortage of freight cars or other related conditions have nothing to do with it, it was stated, and expectations are that the embargo will be lifted within a few days.

CHARGES AGAINST JERSEY BOARD AIRED

Eighteen Specifications Allege State Utility Commission Neglected Public.

Charges of neglect of duty and misconduct in office, on which the Mayor and Aldermen of Jersey City have requested Governor Edwards to remove members of the New Jersey Public Utilities Commission, were made public yesterday. Eighteen specifications in the document seek to show the board has failed to serve the public, has been unduly dilatory and formal and has favored the Public Service Railway Company.

The Public Service rate case is cited in the first specification as an example of the contention that instead of acting as an administrative body to serve the public, the commission has acted as a court, and its proceedings have been "formal, prolonged and unduly expensive." The case in point has been pending since July 10, 1918, 10,000 pages of testimony have been taken and the municipalities involved have borne an expense of about $100,000 which the complaint says should have been borne by the board.

The charges allege that in the Public Service zone fare case and other hearings the Commissioners employed, as experts, men who have been employed extensively by public service corporations in various parts of the country.

According to the third and fourth counts, the Commissioners allowed the Public Service Railway Company to divert $500,000 from the depreciation reserve fund to pay dividends and the Public Service Gas Company to divert $600,000 in the same way and failed to compel the companies to restore the money "when advised of this wrongful diversion."

JESS WILLARD ARRESTED.

Pugilist Accused by Negro of Disturbing the Peace in Kansas.

LAWRENCE, Kan., March 19.—A warrant for the arrest of Jess Willard, former heavyweight pugilistic champion, for disturbance of the peace was sworn out today by Fred Logan, a negro policeman. Logan was driving a wagon along a narrow road when Willard tried to pass in a motor car. Logan charges Willard called him names for not giving up the road and challenged him to fight.

NEWBERRY JURY RETIRE AFTER ALL-DAY DEBATE

Resume Deliberations Again This Morning and May Need Two More Days.

Special to The New York Times.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 19.—The Newberry jury retired for the night without reaching an agreement. After debating the testimony for seven hours Judge Sessions ordered the jurors taken to their hotel, with further consideration of the case to be taken up in the morning.

Beginning at 9 o'clock this morning the jury labored hard all day. At noon the twelve men were taken to luncheon and resumed their deliberations again behind closed doors at 2 o'clock.

As the jury passed through the corridor at night Juror No. 3 smiled at a crowd of newspapermen and looked over the crowd as if looking for an acquaintance. Juror No. 12 shouted, with a wave of his hand:

"We will see you tomorrow, boys."

The hopes of some of the respondents faded when a quick verdict was not returned. Others held a quick verdict, no matter what the decision is, was an impossibility under the Court's charge that each case must be considered individually, if conspiracy was first decided upon.

It was generally conceded that with the mass of testimony before the jury it would probably take two days to decide if there was or was not a conspiracy. In case conspiracy was made out it was held that not less than two days would be consumed in deciding on the individual cases.

It is quite generally conceded that from forty to sixty of the minor respondents will be acquitted. That fact in itself, it was pointed out, would take much time. It is not believed that even the prosecution expects the whole eighty-five to be convicted. The defense claims that if there are any acquittals all will be set free.

ARREST FIRST OF 125 COAL MEN INDICTED

INDIANAPOLIS, March 19.—The arrest of the first of 125 coal operators or miners indicted by a Special Federal Grand Jury here for alleged violation of the Lever Fuel Control act and conspiracy sections of the Federal Criminal Code was effected today when Carl J. Fletcher of Indianapolis, Secretary of the Knox County (Ind.) Coal Operators' Association, surrendered to the United States Marshal here.

Mr. Fletcher was released immediately, when he furnished bond of $10,000 for his appearance in court May 4. Others of the men indicted are expected to surrender within the next few days.

It became known tonight that all the Indiana operators under indictment are aware of the fact, although the names have not been given out for publication by Federal officials.

The Indiana operators held a meeting at Terre Haute Wednesday night, it was said, at which definite information as to what Indiana operators were indicted was given out. This information, said to have been authorized by Federal officials, did not contain anything in connection with the specific charges against those indicted.

It was stated here tonight by operators that the list of men indicted by the Grand Jury included virtually the entire joint wage scale committee which met at Washington Sept. 25 to Oct. 6, 1917. This was the first meeting of a scale committee after the passage of the Lever act.

Operators also ventured the opinion that the charges against them include publication of coal quotations as a means of regulating coal prices, and use of the "check-off" system in the mines, whereby dues of members of the miners' union are withheld from their pay and turned over to the union locals.

The "check-off" system was mentioned specifically in the instructions to the special Grand Jury by Judge A. B. Anderson when the jury was called, following the strike of bituminous coal miners, to investigate the coal industry.

EDISON CO. WINS TEST SUIT.

A decision of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court yesterday relieves the New York Edison Company from furnishing service in case of necessity to any concern that is manufacturing current for its own use and for sale. An order by the Public Service Commission directed the Edison Company to supply an emergency service to the Acker, Merrall & Condit Company. It declined and went to the courts on a proceedings to ascertain its status.

The opinion, written by Justice Walter Lloyd Smith, said, in part:

"Inasmuch as Acker, Merrall & Condit was a competing concern the Edison Company cannot be compelled, in the absence of express statutory requirement, to furnish it this breakdown service for the purpose of sale to outside customers. While Acker, Merrall & Condit is engaged in selling electricity to outsiders other than its own tenants it has not the rights of the public to demand service from another concern upon payment of the legal rates."

LEAVES DECISION TO COAL CONFEREES

BOTH ARE DISSATISFIED

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—President Wilson will submit the majority and minority reports of the commission appointed to settle the difficulties which caused the soft coal strike to the operators and miners, with the expectation that the new contracts to become effective April 1 will be based on the majority report, which recommends a wage increase of 25 per cent. with no change in working hours and the reference to a special commission of the check-off question relative to collection of union dues. The minority report of John P. White recommended a 31.6 per cent. wage increase and a thirty-hour week.

Attorney General Palmer announces the President's decision after a conference at the White House with Director General Hines and Secretary Tumulty.

It had been expected that the President would be able to bring about an agreement resulting in the submission of a unanimous report, and dissatisfaction was expressed tonight by both operators and miners over the present situation. Some predicted "It will be just the same old muddle over again." Operators complain that they cannot arrange for any increase to the miners so long as the price fixed by the Government remains. They also object to reference of the "check-off" system which, they contend, forces them to pay a huge strike fund into the coffers of the unions. The miners object to the majority report because it does not award to them the increase in wages and decrease in working hours they have been demanding.

Since no date for the conference of operators and miners has been announced, it is expected that the two reports will be officially made public within a day or two.

It was to confer with Mr. Tumulty on the form to be followed by the President in making the reports public that Mr. Palmer and Mr. Hines visited the White House.

At the same time pressure continues very low over Newfoundland, quite low over the lake region, the Ohio Valley and the South. It is moderately high in the West.

There were general snows and rains over the northern and rains over the southern districts from the Mississippi Valley eastward, while to the westward fair weather prevailed.

It is considerably colder in the Gulf States and West Tennessee, but elsewhere temperatures changed but little and are nearly normal, except in the extreme Northwest.

There will be snow or rain Saturday in the Middle Atlantic States and New England and snow in the lower lake region and the Upper Ohio Valley followed by generally fair weather Sunday, except in Eastern Maine. In the upper lake region, the Lower Ohio Valley and the South the weather will be fair Saturday and Sunday.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Individual Stocks Record Sharp Advances — Sterling Exchange Up to $3.80¼.

A few industrial stocks advanced with much strength yesterday, and the trend of the general list, excepting the railroad shares, was upward until the late afternoon. The last two hours of business saw a heavy flow of realizing sales and the array of prices at the close was highly irregular. Still, the impetus of steel, oil, motor and miscellaneous issues was sufficient in the morning to leave room for a substantial reaction from the top without recording net declines for the day, and a half dozen boisterous issues were from 3 to 16 points above Thursday's last quotations when the market closed. The manner in which such new issues as Vanadium Steel and Replogle Steel were bid upward suggested pool operations and speculative activity was evidently concentrated in other stocks.

Call money ruled at 7 per cent. and there were adequate offerings at this figure, a fact which emphasized the easement of temporary loans. This week the quotations of the active shares have scored a substantial increase, necessitating an expansion of the amount of bank credit needed to carry stocks on margin. Brokers are able to get little more time money now than a month ago, so it would seem that demand loans are bearing more of the load caused by increased stock dealings and a rising price level than was the case last October and September before a real credit stringency developed. The question may well be raised whether easy—relatively easy—call money may be expected during the next few weeks. Next month the agricultural communities will, if the procedure of other years is followed, call upon their banks for currency as the crop planting season comes on. Assuming that interior banks are much engaged in the financing of commercial undertakings, as reports show to be the case, it may easily happen that withdrawals of balances from the major centres will have an appreciable effect in cutting down supplies of loanable funds for stock market use.

Bankers are not altogether convinced, however, that the flow away from New York during the Spring weeks will be as large as would be the case if the pressure of the Federal Reserve Board had not caused commercial banks all over the country to present a conservative front to borrowers since Jan. 1. Transportation conditions have been growing somewhat better of late, and backed-up goods, being carried on credit, have been going to market. That the freer movement of goods entails the liquidation of loans need not be said, and, provided that while many standing loans have been liquidated the demand for new loans or extensions has been controlled by the bankers, there may be evidence of a generally improved credit situation before the Spring is advanced far. The outlook is not yet clear enough to afford a basis for judgment. Today's bank statements should supply some interesting items, reflecting events at this centre in days immediately following an income tax payment date.

The February foreign trade figures appeared yesterday, showing a falling off of $84,000,000 in exports as compared with the record of January. Presumably, evidence of the adverse effect of depreciated allied exchanges was disclosed in the decline, making allowance for a short month. The outflow of American goods was, however, more than $60,000,000 in excess of the preceding February's total. The stated export balance for February was $179,000,000; imports declined about $7,000,000. It is difficult to draw comparisons between export and import records from month to month in view of the frequent changes since last September in the method used by the Department of Commerce in valuing imports, changes from the "proclaimed" or par value of foreign currencies to current values in terms of the dollar, and vice versa.

Sterling exchange continued its strong rise, with a late reaction. At the best quotation the demand rate was 10 cents higher than Thursday's final rate, topping the year's record up to yesterday by 5 cents to the pound. The final price was $3.80¼, a new high record for 1920 by itself. Francs were inclined to ease off and other rates were firm.

The Chicago Pneumatic Tool Company for last year shows a surplus after all charges and Federal taxes of $489,051, which was equivalent to $7.58 a share on the capital stock. In the preceding year the surplus was $535,833, or $8.30 a share. After payment of dividends last year there was a balance of $69,879, as compared with $148,905 in 1918. A deduction of $1,095,271 was made from net profits, this representing a loss from the sale of the motor truck department.

CUT INTEREST RATE ON LOANS TO ALLIES

HOUSE COMMITTEE BACKS IT

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The interest rate on American loans of $9,500,000,000 to allied Governments has been reduced from 5 per cent. to 4.75 per cent. in a plan submitted to the Ways and Means Committee today by Secretary Houston. The plan provides for deferring the interest for three years, and covers into the twelve-year bonds into which the notes at hand are to be refunded, the deferred interest, compounded, at the rate of 4.75 per cent.

After May, 1923, the foreign Governments will resume the payments of interest on the principal and deferred interest, at the rate of 5 per cent. for a period of twelve years. The actuaries have worked out a table which shows that the payment of interest at 5 per cent. for a twelve-year period will actually represent interest at 4.75 for the entire transaction, including the deferred payments.

In his letter, not made public, Mr. Houston contends that it is not desirable to forego interest on the deferred interest, and says that the foreign Governments will be unable to pay any interest until May, 1923, when they are to resume payments on the principal and deferred interest at the rate of 5 per cent. If this Government adopts the plan outlined, Mr. Houston says, Great Britain will follow the same plan in regard to loans to smaller Governments in Europe.

Secretary Houston said that the new plan gave the money to the foreign Governments at actual cost to us. The actual cost of the money, exclusive of advertising and the necessary machinery for negotiating the loans, is 4.26 per cent., his letter says, but the entire cost is 4.75 per cent.

Secretary Houston points out that the Act authorizing the war loans gives the Treasury ample power to defer the payments and reduce the interest rate. He says that the Treasury Department is prepared to assume full responsibility for the move, and requests the committee, if it is not opposed to the plan, to inform the Treasury. The solicitors for the Treasury Department, he says, have come to this conclusion as to the law, and he desires to go forward with the plan, in the hope that it will help to stabilize foreign exchange and aid foreign Governments in their loan problems.

The Ways and Means Committee, it was said tonight, was in full agreement with the plan. It will meet tomorrow, and probably notify Secretary Houston to go ahead.

A majority of the members said that no enabling legislation was needed, and, now that interest is to be charged on the deferred interest, they are willing that the plan should be carried out, so as to return 4.75 per cent. rather than 5 per cent., the rate which the notes at hand bear.

GENERAL ELECTRIC PROFITS.

The General Electric Company in a listing statement submitted to the Boston Stock Exchange reports a gross business of $235,980,930 for last year, an increase of $14,559,338 over the preceding year and the greatest volume ever recorded in the history of the company. After charges and Federal taxes, the net profits available for dividends were $25,379,505, or the equivalent of $21.05 a share on the outstanding capital stock. In the preceding year the balance for dividends was $17,104,981, or the equal of $14.76 a share on the stock outstanding at that time. After the payment of dividends of $14,061,118, which, added to previous surplus, makes the total surplus $64,311,780. The surplus after dividends in 1918 was only $3,351,961.

The amount set aside to cover Federal taxes in the current report is $11,000,000, whereas there was an appropriation of $13,500,000 for the same purpose in 1918.

Asks Better Railroad Service.

C. L. Bardo, General Manager of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, has issued a general letter to all employes of the company expressing confidence in the efforts which will be made to provide better service for the public. He said in part:

"Your working conditions and rates of pay under Federal control have been very materially improved at a cost in excess of $700,000,000 to the American public. The cost of railroad service to the public must be justified by improvements in service."

GENERAL CHEMICAL STOCK DIVIDEND

FOLLOWS COURT DECISION

The General Chemical Company yesterday announced that a 20 per cent. stock dividend had been declared on the common shares, payable May 1 to stock of record March 31. The declaration of this dividend means the issuance of $3,303,840 additional common stock, as there is $16,519,200 stock now outstanding out of a total authorized issue of $20,000,000. Certificates representing the dividend will be mailed to stockholders on May 1 or as soon thereafter as the stock can be listed. Scrip will be issued for fractional shares of common stock which can be exchanged for full shares when combined and presented in proper form.

A hint of forthcoming stock dividends was contained in an announcement made by the company last November when it was stated that it had been decided to postpone action on an extra dividend in view of the pending decision of the Supreme Court on the status of stock dividends.

The last stock dividend paid by the company was one of 5 per cent. in February, 1918. The present is the largest single stock dividend ever paid on the common. On Feb. 1, 1916, and at the same time in 1917, 15 per cent. stock dividends were paid. In addition to the 5 per cent. stock dividend in 1918, a 2½ per cent. extra cash dividend was paid. Since 1917 the common shares have been on a regular 8 per cent. basis.

A Bull Market?

With a continued advance in the prices of securities the Street is beginning to ask whether the present upturn can be construed as the beginning of a bull market. There are few to be found who will predict this to be true, yet there may be nothing strange in this since the incipient stages of a real bull market are not easily recognizable. The only recourse, then, is a study of underlying conditions and a determination of their probable effect on the market. There are doubtless many who would argue that it was quite impossible that a big advance extending over a period of weeks could be built up simply on the easier call money rates. Time money is always a big factor in stock market calculations, and for the present, at any rate, there is little evidence to indicate an easing in this quarter. Pool activities of wide scope it would hardly seem could be built up with a tense time money market, as the resort to call money as an alternative provides too great a degree of danger. Still there are times when all signs fail, and no matter how inconsistent it may seem with the financial situation, there was evidence yesterday of pool activity in some of the issues that can be classed with the specialties.

Curb Market Quiet.

It has been a cause for comment by some that the curb market has reflected only to a slight degree the buoyancy that has prevailed on the big board. Usually the curb is quick to respond to such an advance as has taken place on the Stock Exchange. Here and there some issues on the Broad Street market have stood out as exceptions, but in the main the curb has been quiet, even such volatile issues as General Asphalt and others of the oil group refusing to show their usual pyrotechnics. No reason is forthcoming for the lack of buoyancy except perhaps that the followers of the curb shares are not in the market or have temporarily transferred their attention to the Stock Exchange, as stock dividend possibilities are rather apart from the curb stocks.

Stutz Motors.

The feature of the motor stocks was Stutz, a gain of some 14 points being recorded for the day. The issue closed yesterday at 204, the highest price reached. Up to last night's close the gain for the week was 61 points, this topping a rise of 19¾ points last week. It is difficult to determine just what has caused such spirited buying of Stutz unless it is stock dividend possibilities or a very extensive running in of the shorts. In regard to stock dividends the company has not heretofore figured as a highly probable distributor. The earnings statement for last year was not looked upon as particularly remarkable, and certainly did not afford reason to believe that additional shares put out as a stock dividend could command better than half of the present dividend on the present shares. The chief advantage to be derived from a stock dividend is the advance in dividend rate that usually accrues and where earnings are not sufficient for this the stock dividend would hardly be a valid reason for such an advance as has taken place in Stutz Motors.

The Brussels Conference.

Reports from abroad spoke of the probability of an economic conference being held at Brussels during May. The object, it was said, was to consider the foreign exchange situation and, by inference, to arrive at ways and means for correcting it. Whether the United States will be represented was not known in Wall Street, but it was generally doubted that any official American mission would be sent over, or, for that matter, that any unofficial mission would go. After what Mr. Glass had to say about the proposed conference some weeks ago most financial interests here have abandoned the idea of American representation at any of these suggested meetings.

February's Trade.

The February trade figures failed to establish any records, but most of the items were close enough to their respective records to be gratifying to those advocates of smaller exports and expanded imports. Exports fell off $76,000,000 from January's total, while imports were only $7,000,000 below the previous month's figures. Averaging the imports on a per-day basis, the February total really was in excess of that for January, for the average for February was approximately $16,100,000, against $15,300,000 for January. The excess of exports over imports was $179,000,000, the smallest excess, with the exception of that for September last, when it was $157,862,000, in many months.

Notwithstanding denials of all kinds anent gold shipments, real or fancied, as the case may be, sterling exchange was sensationally strong, moving up ten cents on the day and touching the highest price recorded since the second week of last December. No very definite explanation of the strength was forthcoming, but there were rumors of "Canadian buying" and of buying by some of the local agents of British trade banks. Whatever may be the reason, it is evident that somebody, and probably a good many somebodies, thinks sterling a good buy and is willing to take bills in exchange for good American dollars. Even when the market was reacting from its high point late yesterday afternoon there was no overplus of offerings and no paucity of demand.

The Director General's Denial.

Director General Hines's denial of figures published under the auspices of the Association of Railway Executives showing the percentage of unserviceable freight cars as of Jan. 1 this year, compared with the unserviceable cars of other years, was read with interest by local railroad managers yesterday. At the same time there were some who would not agree with Mr. Hines's assertion that the condition of equipment at the close of Federal control compared favorably with the condition when the roads were taken over by the President at the close of 1917. Several railroad heads assert that there has been an enormous depreciation in equipment in the two years of Federal control. In reply to Mr. Hines's statement that many of the roads objected strenuously to the allocation of the equipment purchased by the Railroad Administration, some executives drew attention to the fact that in several instances the types of equipment allocated could not be used.

$4,450,000 Compensation Ruling.

Dispatches from Washington received in the financial district yesterday regarding the report of the Board of Referees on the standard return for the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad Company, to the effect that $4,450,000 was a just and reasonable compensation to be paid for the use of the property, were read with interest. The road had failed to agree with the Director General regarding compensation and had asked for $5,943,173.

Disagreement Predicted.

In some quarters it is predicted that the testimony which will be given at the Interstate Commerce Commission hearing early next week will vary widely, not only because shippers will have different recommendations to make than railroad Presidents will offer but because there may be some decided disagreement as to the views of some of the railroad men. In conservative quarters such predictions are taken lightly on the ground that the Transportation act directs the Interstate Commerce Commission to initiate rates so that there shall be a return of 5½ per cent. on the aggregate value of railroad property, and testimony before the commission can have but little effect on the actual fixation of rates.

GOOD PROFIT MADE ON BALTIMORE GAS

17.23 PER CENT. DIVIDEND

Corporation Has Sufficient Funds for Any Needed Betterments and Can Supply Demand.

The annual report of the Consolidated Gas, Electric Light and Power Company of Baltimore for last year shows net income of $2,517,089, after the deduction of interest charges and preferred dividends on subsidiary companies' issues, as compared with $2,132,565 in the twelve months ended with June 30, 1918. Net income last year was equal to 17.23 per cent. on $14,607,300 common stock, as compared with 14.59 per cent. in the year ended June 30, 1918. The company has changed its fiscal year to correspond with the calendar year.

Gross income last year was $12,813,617, as compared with $10,619,589 in the preceding year. Reserves for depreciation, amortization and other contingencies increased to $1,319,000 from $975,000, and total current assets were $5,891,298. Total current liabilities amounted to $3,477,732, and total working capital was therefore $2,413,566. Herbert A. Wagner, President of the company, in his remarks to stockholders says, in part:

"The amount set aside for reserve for contingencies shown in the operating statement covers the aggregate amount credited to this reserve during the eighteen months ended Dec. 31, 1919, and was considered a reasonable amount for the purposes of this reserve. One of the contingencies resulting from war conditions for which this reserve provides is the abnormal cost of financing and the consequent issues of short-term capital obligations. Out of the accumulated reserves for contingencies and as of Dec. 31, 1919, there was written off the sum of $448,107.19, being the entire cost of the discount and expenses incident to the two note issues, namely, $8,500,000 5 per cent. notes issued on Nov. 15, 1916, and $5,000,000 7 per cent. notes issued on Feb. 1, 1919. The amount set aside for reserves for depreciation, amortization, &c., covers only the amount set aside for the twelve months ended Dec. 31, 1919, there having been set aside a proportionate amount based on gross income for the six months ended Dec. 31, 1918. In apportioning the amount set aside out of gross surplus for this reserve the Directors have increased the amount in direct ratio to the increase in the company's total gross income, in order to meet the increased cost of replacements.

"It is gratifying that at the end of this fiscal year the company finds that it will have sufficient funds to provide for all necessary extensions and betterments which may be required for its increase in business during the year 1920. This will make unnecessary any new capital financing during the ensuing year. The company has sufficient generating and distribution capacity to meet any demands which the rapid industrial growth of Baltimore is likely to bring about during this period. In fact, from information at the disposal of the management, your company appears to have greater reserve capacity for the production of electric power than that at present available in any city along the Atlantic seaboard."

PROTEST SALES OF GERMAN ASSETS

HELD CONTRARY TO TREATY

WASHINGTON, March 19.—"Strong remonstrances" have been made by the American Government against rulings of the Allied Reparations Commission that under the Peace Treaty the sale of certain German property in neutral countries can be forced, if necessary, to satisfy the initial payment of the Germany indemnity.

Under Secretary Polk of the State Department, writing today to Senator Henderson, Democrat, Nevada, said "a further protest" was in preparation, as such a construction of the treaty was contrary to an official interpretation exchanged between Germany and the allied powers.

Senator Henderson had asked about reports that Great Britain had requested that Germany property and all the rights of German citizens in electrical enterprises in South America be taken over by the commission and subsequently transferred to Great Britain as part of the indemnity due it from Germany.

Mr. Polk replied that the State Department had no information as to this, but added:

"There has been received, however, certain information having relation to your inquiry to the effect that the allied Governments represented on the Reparations Commission have advanced and provisionally adopted a construction of Article 235, which would empower the Reparations Commission to demand payment by Germany of the initial 20,000,000,000 gold marks in any commodities, gold, ships or otherwise which the the Reparations Commission may desire, and in the exercise of such power the commission may require the sale of Germany property in neutral countries, at least if in the form of credits or securities. Under such power it is possible that the sale to the Reparations Commission of the securities controlled by German corporate enterprises in South America might be required of Germany.

"The department is endeavoring unofficially to keep in touch with matters coming up for decision before the commission in order that any action of the commission which might be in derogation of American trade opportunities should not pass unchallenged. The department is handicapped, however, in that it has no right to demand such information and this Government not having ratified the treaty cannot exercise the right to veto an interpretation of the commission's powers, such as contained in the construction of Article 235 mentioned above.

"Nevertheless, strong remonstrance has been made and a further protest is in preparation on the ground that the assumption and use of such powers is prejudicial to general economic reconstruction, offers an opportunity to the Governments dominating the Reparations Commission indirectly to exercise a dangerous controlling influence on private trade with Germany, and incidentally is unwarranted by the terms of the treaty and contrary to the spirit, if not the letter, of the official interpretation given Germany by the allied powers before the signing of the treaty.

"The result of such protest is hard to predict, as by the terms of the treaty the influence and power of a large part of the civilized world is concentrated behind a decision of the Reparations Commission and the absolute veto power specially provided to the United States in such matters can be exercised only if and when we ratify the treaty."

Senator Henderson said the official interpretation referred to by Mr. Polk was contained in formal notes exchanged between Germany and the Allies in which the understanding was reached that the property of German citizens in neutral countries could not be taken. The Senator also said that inquiries at the State Department disclosed that no replies to the United States' protest had been received.

PITTSBURGH TRACTION SHARES FOR EMPLOYES

Workers Are to Get $1,000,000 in Stock and Elect Three Directors on Board.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, March 19.—David I. McCahill, Pittsburgh lawyer and traction man, in a proposal to allow the 400 or more motormen, conductors and other employes of his Pittsburgh, Butler & Harmony Consolidated Railway & Power Company and its subsidiaries, to become a part of "the works," plans to give them $1,000,000 worth of common stock and allow them to select three fellow-workmen to represent them on the Board of Directors. These are to have a voice in the management of the corporation.

Mr. McCahill called all his employes together in the Hotel Nixon at Butler yesterday and told them of his intention. In addition to the stock distribution, he announced also that he would establish an old-age pension fund and a sick benefit fund in their interests.

He asked the co-operation of the men in gathering data and statistics relative to the period of service of each man, so that these funds might be put into operation at the earliest possible date.

The $1,000,000 face value of common stock is to be set aside under a trust agreement with some bank or trust company, and certificates are to be issued to the employes. The fund which would result from the accrued dividends is to be divided equally among all the employes, so that each would be interested in holding down the number of employes to as few as possible, because the greater the number the less amount each would receive.

In case an employe dies while in the service of the company, his widow during her lifetime, and after her death any minor children he might leave, would be entitled to his share in the fund. The right to vote the common stock remains with Mr. McCahill, but in order that the employes might have representation even greater than that which voting power would give them, they are to have three representatives on the Board of Directors.

The Pittsburgh, Butler & Harmony Consolidated Railway & Power Company is capitalized at $6,300,000, with $1,800,000 in preferred and $4,500,000 in common stock.

Ohio Cities Gas to Issue $10,000,000

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 19.—After a meeting of directors of the Ohio Cities Gas Company today, it was announced that $10,000,000 8 per cent. preferred stock, with a par value of $100, would be issued convertible within three years from July 1 into common stock. Each share of new preferred may be converted into the common shares. The company recently purchased the dominant interest in Oklahoma Producing and refining corporation.

May Hold Conference on Exchange.

PARIS, March 19.—An international conference on the exchange question will probably be held at Brussels in May, according to the Soir of that city. M. Hymans, Belgian Foreign Minister, has indorsed a suggestion to this effect, made by A. J. Balfour, President of the Executive Council of the League of Nations, the Soir says.

COTTON PRICES DROP AFTER EARLY RISE

MORNING GAINS SOLD OFF

The sharp advance in sterling exchange and some private reports of further unfavorable weather in many parts of the cotton belt aided yesterday's cotton market into new high records for the present upward movement. The rise in future prices was so brisk that many of the shorts who had been waiting for a reaction to allow them to cover were driven in during the morning, and their buying, along with some by the trade and some fresh purchases for Japanese account, helped materially. May sold close to 38½ cents, July got up to about 35¾, and the new crop months rose correspondingly.

Then, in the afternoon, the market turned heavy and the near months lost all and more of their morning gains, while the distant months sold off to points which represented considerably more than half of their early advances. At the close there was a half-hearted rally, but by that time the speculative interest was little more than nominal. A break at New Orleans and a considerable amount of local profit-taking accounted for the late weakness.

The arguments heard around the ring were substantially the same that had been advanced earlier in the week. There is still talk of the big foreign demand, and notwithstanding that the current week's exports have fallen far below those of other recent weeks, the strength of the foreign exchange market more than offset the relatively unfavorable statistics. It is also contended that this demand, together with the reported increase in domestic consumption, will tend to raise the present crop months to the basis of the spot option, or above 40 cents, which is to say that the ring and the trade both look for substantial advances in May and July.

As for the months after July, they are being bulled just now on the belief that the current demand cannot be filled out of cotton already grown. The argument, it may be said, has not made the appeal that the bull argument on near months has, but the distant options have been holding their own in the advance thus far, probably out of sympathy, and the speculative interests are giving some attention to them.

SAY DANISH LOAN TO BE FLOATED SOON

Bond Market Hears of Early Offer of $10,000,000 or $15,000,000 Issue.

RAILROADS ASK FINANCING

Announcements Expected of Moderate Accommodations for Equipment Buying.

The improvement in the bond market within the last few days has revived talk of impending offerings of foreign issues, and yesterday it was reported that the much-discussed Danish loan was about to materialize. This loan, expected to be for $10,000,000 to $15,000,000, has been hanging fire for some weeks, and the bankers who are supposed to be heading the interested group and who have admitted that they have been negotiating with Denmark have insisted that no immediate offering was in prospect. Yesterday they reiterated that this was the case. However, the rumors of an early flotation persisted.

In responsible quarters it was said that Denmark was still anxious to secure accommodation here, but that the bankers had not come to an agreement on the price, either for underwriting or for public offering. In addition, some bankers in the group are not convinced that the bond market is in position to absorb a foreign issue just yet. Others, however, think a modest amount, say $10,000,000 or $15,000,000, would prove attractive.

It was also reported yesterday that some railroad equipment financing would be formally announced within a few days. Several roads are said to have made overtures to local bankers recently and some of them are understood to have received encouragement. But it is not believed that the business will be on a very considerable scale.

Bankers are loath to commit themselves to any extensive financial programs until they are assured that the present upturn in the bond market is of substantial character. A month or so ago there was improvement for a few days, but the flood of offerings, which came in almost as soon as the first signs of betterment appeared, completely swamped the market and put an end to what promised to be a definite turn for the better. Now, in the light of this experience, there is a tendency to go slowly, and for this reason it is considered probable that the new offerings will not be in such great profusion until the market has been tried out in a cautious manner.

BAIL MONEY ONLY A "LOAN"

Opens City Speaking Tour Tomorrow—Uhl Denies Orders for Release of Reds.

William D. ("Big Bill") Haywood, the former I. W. W. Secretary, who is now at liberty from Leavenworth Prison under bond on several charges of conspiring to overthrow the Government by force, has come to this city to start a campaign to raise a fund of more than $1,000,000 to aid I. W. W. members now under indictment in the United States.

The purpose of the fund, Haywood told a NEW YORK TIMES reporter yesterday, is twofold: First, to have every I. W. W. man now under indictment released on bail, and, second, to provide means for engaging counsel for the indicted men when their cases are brought to trial. There are more than 1,000 such persons, Haywood said.

"There has been great public reaction in the attitude toward radicalism," Haywood said. "This has developed all over the country and is a result of the illegal practices which have been employed against radicals. The day of the 'white terrorists' is past, and I believe that the people of the country will rally to the support of those who are being deprived of the right of free speech."

Haywood will address three meetings tomorrow under the auspices of the American Civil Liberties Union of 138 West Thirteenth Street. The former I. W. W. leader said that the union had not brought him here, but that he was making a tour of the country in the interests of the I. W. W. The Manhattan meetings will be held at 8 P. M. at the People's House, at 7 East Fifteenth Street, and later at the Yorkville Casino, at 210 East Eighty-sixth Street. In the afternoon Haywood will speak in Brooklyn.

"We will need at least $1,000,000 to get all the persons under indictment freed on bail," Haywood said. "Of course, that money will merely be borrowed, for no one of our members is afraid of facing trial and there would be no object to jump bail. With regard to the engaging of counsel, of course we need outright contributions for that purpose."

Haywood asserted that the report from Washington that orders were being issued canceling nearly all of the deportation warrants against radicals was a hopeful sign. The report said that many of the agitators had already been freed, and that many others would gain their liberty.

Byron H. Uhl, Acting Commissioner of Immigration at Ellis Island, said that he had received no word from Washington about freeing any of the radicals now detained there. There are about 120 now held there and about 500 others are at liberty under bonds.

"We are giving hearings to eight or ten of the Russian agitators daily," he said, "and we have received no instructions to set any of them free. The prosecutions will be continued at Ellis Island until we have run through the list."

THE CONDITION OF TRADE.

The trade reviews of the last week say that while traffic congestion still delays general business conditions show decided improvement.

Dun's Review says:

> Drawbacks to business through transportation congestion and delayed deliveries of merchandise, although still conspicuously apparent in some sections, are being gradually modified with the advancing season, and production records are now more favorable. While shortages of goods continue to prevent some transactions that might otherwise be consummated, yet the scarcity is less general and pronounced than previously, with domestic outputs enlarging and the disproportion between exports and imports narrowing steadily, and abatement of consumptive demands serves to relax the pressure for supplies in some quarters. Except in isolated instances, the effect of these tendencies has thus far not been seen in any substantial lowering of commodity prices, but the former buoyancy of some important markets is lacking, and the belief that the crest of prices has been passed is spreading. With such an impression gaining ground, and with opposition to high prices more frequently heard of in retail channels, the present policy of many interests is one of limiting engagements as closely as possible to actual current requirements and of discontinuing commitments against a further rise of prices in the future.

Bradstreet's says:

> Business in general is of good proportions for this time of year, and the week's trade advices, indeed, point to some improvement over the conditions reported the week before. Speaking broadly, wholesalers and jobbers are doing a satisfactory business, though there are indications in the dispatches of the persistence of the disposition to limit purchases to nearby needs and to exercise caution as to future requirements. For the satisfaction of immediate requirements consumption is of good volume and in most cases taxes the ability of distributive agencies. There are, of course, differences growing out of local conditions, but these are more noticeable in respect to retail trade.

CURRAN AND HYLAN IN TILT.

Palm Beach Quip Is Last Word in Argument Over City Bills.

A Board of Estimate meeting yesterday was enlivened by several verbal tilts between Mayor Hylan and Henry H. Curran, Borough President of Manhattan, over the indorsement of legislative bills affecting the city. President Curran wanted the board to approve the bill giving the right of petition to policemen and firemen, a right, he said, denied them by orders of department heads, forbidding them to appear before legislative committees. The borough President said a similar bill had been approved by former Police and Fire Commissioners, while the Board of Aldermen had favored it in 1916.

"Any effort," concluded President Curran, "that will bring legislative discussion and effort right out into the open is good for the policemen, the firemen and the whole community."

"I want to say to the public," interrupted the Mayor, "that if Mr. Curran and Joseph J. O'Reilly would mind their own business and leave the policemen and firemen alone there would not be so much trouble. It's the cheapest kind of politics you're playing," said the Mayor, turning to the borough President, "and the people will get on to you."

"I think if you counted ten before you spoke you wouldn't talk so much," was Mr. Curran's answer, to which the Mayor replied:

"If you would fill the holes in the pavements of Manhattan and wouldn't interfere you would be better off."

"And if you would clean the snow off the streets instead of going to Palm Beach," laughed the Borough President, "I'll try and find the holes in the pavements and fill them."

The audience in the chamber applauded and the Mayor did not return to the attack. President Curran's motion to adopt the resolution was lost and the matter was referred to the Committee of the Whole.

The board approved a bill before the Legislature permitting the family of the late Isaac L. Rice to present to the city a public playground and athletic field to cost $1,000,000. It is proposed to put the playground in Pelham Bay Park, the Bronx, and the plan has been approved by the civic and taxpayers' organizations of the borough over the objections of Park Commissioner Joseph Hennessy and the Playground Association.

"It seems harder to give the City of New York a million dollars than it does to get a drink here," said H. B. Hertz, representing the Rice family, who asked for a public hearing on the matter.

"Why a public hearing?" inquired the Mayor. "Everybody here is in favor of it." Controller Craig also was in favor of the plan. Senator John J. Dunnigan of the Bronx, who introduced the bill, was requested to urge its passage, and said he thought he could get it through by next Monday night. Mr. Hertz then withdrew his application for a public hearing.

COMMODITIES PRICES.

Much Larger Percentage of Advances Was Shown This Week.

Things took a different turn in wholesale commodities prices this week, and Dun's list showed an excess of advances for the second time this year. Thirty-nine upturns were shown in a total of 72 changes, while last week, in 67 revisions there were but 32 advances. Marked features were lacking this week, although among the few shown there was an almost solid rise in the listed hides.

*Government maximums. †Nominal.

Changes in foodstuffs were evenly divided between advances and declines. In the local market for provisions the only change was a drop in the price of bacon. At Chicago mess pork did not change, but lower prices were quoted on live hogs and sheep. Live beef, Middle Western lard and short ribs were all higher. A rise of a cent a pound in the best butter was one of the three changes shown in the local dairy products market. The other two were the respective advances of 6 and 5½ cents a dozen that took place in nearby fancy and the best Western eggs, reflecting the effect of the increased demand that followed the declines of last week and the week before.

The domestic vegetables were bare of changes either way for the first time in quite a while, but choice Scotch peas went down. Declines of 50 cents a barrel in common apples and $1.50 in fancy ones featured the week's revisions in fresh fruits. In the dried ones the only change was a rise in California prunes. Teas were unchanged. No. 7 Rio coffee again was nominally lower. The best raw sugar continued to rise, but fine granulated remained steady. A rise in cloves and declines in mace and nutmegs completed the changes in the spices.

Corn, oats and rye were higher in the grains market, but lower prices were asked for malting barley, prime timothy hay and long rye straw. Leathers were quotably unchanged this week, but in the hides only three of the ten listed grades failed to advance. Among the advances were calfskins. The metals were bare of advances, and the only declines were shown by antimony, lake copper, spelter and tin. The combined lists for drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs and oils showed 34 changes for the week, of which 14 were advances. Increases in prices of the soda products were again a feature. A further advance in bleaching powder, over 34 per cent., brought it to a level twice as high as that which prevailed at this time a year ago.

Resin was cheaper in the naval stores, but turpentine advanced to a nominal new high record. Tallow was cheaper here. Japanese raw silk fell off quite sharply in price, and the Chinese varieties also were lower. Brazilian crude rubber declined, but higher prices were got for plantation stock.

Increased demand and premiums for well-placed merchandise resulted in higher prices for several constructions of gray goods here during the week, including both printcloths and sheetings. In the burlaps there was very little doing, and lack of interest on the part of buyers here, coupled with reports of unsteadiness at Calcutta, spelled declines on both light and heavy goods. The latter, due to a smaller spot supply, were the stronger of the two varieties.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday ......7 per cent. for the best names.
Thursday ......7 per cent. for the best names.

Hard Coal Much in Demand.

The demand for hard coal continues strong in all directions, Saward's Journal will say today, for while retailers in many places are comfortably fixed as regards current needs, they realize that they cannot go wrong by taking in additional tonnage at present prices. Not only is a Spring discount considered beyond the range of possibility, but it is generally believed that the April price will be above the Winter circular—provided there is an April price. Indications of a slightly easier situation are beginning to appear in the bituminous trade.

Foreign Competition Not Feared.

In the dress goods trade there seems to be no fear that foreign lines will offer much in the way of competition for some time to come. One of the leading makers stated yesterday that, even though such competition should appear this year, the domestic manufacturers of fine materials are well able to cope with it on the basis of the qualities they are now offering. It was stated that buyers who have visited Paris and seen the best that is to be obtained in that market have returned to place orders for the materials that are shown here.

Beads and Beaded Goods Wanted.

Judging from reports emanating from local fancy goods and notions houses, there has been little falling off in the demand for popular-priced beaded bags or for the beads for making them. Beads for garment trimming also are in demand. Many shades of beads are in very short supply, among them being cherry red and jade green. In the seed beads rose, reds, pinks and high colors generally are hard to get. In the staple end of the business wholesalers also report a shortage of many kinds of notions, with the demand for them constant. Men now on the road are sending in sizable orders from all accounts.

Not Selling to Jobbers.

A question directed to the sales manager of a leading dress goods house regarding the proportion of sales to jobbers and those made directly to the manufacturers brought the information that no sales were made to jobbers this season. This step was taken, it was explained, to prevent the goods going into speculative hands. Sales to manufacturers are also being made with more care and only those accounts permitted to buy who are known to be actual cutters-up and not jobbers masquerading under the name of manufacturers. It was explained further that the same policy was applied to quite a proportion of last season's business.

Weather Still Against Sales.

Another snowstorm coming on top of weather that appeared to have changed definitely to a Spring variety did not help the spirit in apparel trade circles yesterday. The majority of first-hand sellers still blame most of their troubles on the state of the weather and are unwilling to believe that prices are proving so much of a drawback to consumer buying. The opinion is heard on all sides that with plenty of work and high wages people will step in and clean out retail stocks in no time, once they get a real opportunity. In the meantime orders continue to come in for only small amounts of merchandise needed for replacement.

Supplementary Woolen Lines.

Some selling agents and direct sellers in the woolen market have announced that supplementary lines will be ready in Fall goods for the men's wear trade in about a week's time. These announcements are regarded by buyers as confirmation of their previously reached conclusions that there will be plenty of goods for the heavyweight season and that prices will be at more attractive levels. While sellers are not prone to admit that cancellations amount to anything serious, nevertheless the preparation of additional lines gives their customers reason for believing that perhaps revisions have been heavier than the mill agents' estimate to them.

Gray Goods Prices Higher.

A broadening demand and higher prices were the keynotes of yesterday's gray goods business here. March lots of 39-inch 68-72s were sold at 25¼ cents, and nearby business was done on 38½-inch 64-60s at 24 cents. Late bids of the latter price did not bring out the goods. Eastern lots of April-May 38½-inch 60-48s were sold at 22½ cents. In the sheetings, buyers paid 17¼ cents for 5.60s and 19¼ cents for June and July shipments of five-yard goods. Fine-yarn cloths were again none too active, but the demand for the clothing styles gained considerable impetus. Sales of both twills and sateens were reported at prices showing advances of 1 to 2 cents a yard over the recent low points.

Furs Triumph Over Gold.

High prices paid for raw skins this Winter are causing furs to triumph over gold, for miners at locations in Northwestern Canada are abandoning their jobs to become trappers. Reports to this effect were received here yesterday by the New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation, and gave as their authority for the statement Commissioner R. C. Wallace, official administrator of Northern Manitoba. Much of the surface development of recognized locations of ore, the reports went on, is done during the Winter, when it is possible for the miners to cut away the frozen muskeg and expose rock without interference from surface water. This Winter, however, miners are turning from picks and shovels to traps and snowshoes.

Better Clothing Fairly Firm.

Conditions surrounding the sale of men's clothing of the better grade are regarded in a fairly optimistic light by both buyers and sellers. In the medium and cheaper lines the same spirit does not exist, and there are understood to be quite a few jobs at price concessions to be obtained in the local market. The outlook for the coming heavyweight season is based more or less on the tendency described. Makers of high-grade merchandise see nothing dark ahead, although they realize that it will be harder to sell their accustomed quantities than in the last two seasons. The character of woolens to be put into next season's suits and overcoats is said to show quite some improvement over what the mills have been able to do since the war, and this fact, it is explained, should contribute toward overcoming some of the objections that may be raised to higher prices.

Expect Still Lower Prices.

Despite the sharp declines that have taken place in raw silks here in the last few weeks, the "bear" element among the manufacturers look for still lower quotations. Not only is this because the raw material is going into consumption more slowly now than was the case at this time a year ago, but because the production of Japanese silks—from which the great bulk of American silk goods are made—shows a marked gain during the current crop year over that of 1919. In the present crop year to date shipments from Yokohama have totaled 195,200 bales, of which all but 4,500 have come to this country. Current stocks at Yokohama are placed at 11,000 bales, which, added to shipments, gives a production of 206,200 bales so far. Last year the respective figures were 151,625 bales for total shipments and 23,300 bales for stock at Yokohama, making a total of 174,925 bales. This makes a gain of 31,275 bales for the 1920 crop year to date, or well over 4,000,000 pounds.

DO NOT FEAR BIG PACKERS.

Independent Dealer and Wool Growers Oppose Regulation.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Opposing regulatory legislation for the packing industry, Patrick Brennan, President of the Independent Packing Company of Chicago, told the House Agriculture Committee today that he started in business in 1895 "under the shadow of the five big packers" and was now doing a gross annual business of $29,000,000. This, he said, was evidence that the independent packer could compete successfully with the "Big Five."

Dr. J. M. Wilson, President of the Wyoming Wool Growers' Association, said regulations would not only harm meat producers but would injure foreign trade.

LONG-HELD DUANE STREET REALTY SOLD

L. Blyn Shoe Co. Buys Mercantile Buildings Running Through Block to Thomas Street.

FOR WAREHOUSE USE

Sellers, Members of the Coe Family, Have Had Uninterrupted Ownership of Property Since 1869.

In the Duane Street shoe district, where sales for many years have been few and far between, the L. Blyn Shoe Company acquired yesterday the four five-story store and loft buildings at 105 and 107 Duane Street, running through the block to 14 and 16 Thomas Street, the street frontages being in each case fifty feet and the depth of the entire plot being 200 feet. Jacob Bloch negotiated the transactions, including the original sale by the Martha C. Coe estate to the Nyle Realty Corporation and the immediate resale to the Blyn firm, which plans to occupy the buildings as a wholesale warehouse when the existing leases expire. The property has been in the possession of members of the Coe family since 1869. Most of the property in Duane Street from Broadway to West Broadway is strongly held by old estates which have for years kept their holdings out of the market. In spite of the rising market and the great activity in the neighboring butter and egg and provision district, it is known that partically none of the buildings in the shoe centre are available for purchase.

There were several other interesting downtown transactions closed yesterday. The Broadway-John Street Corporation, Elias A. Cohen, President, resold the Hanover Building, an eight-story office structure at 130 and 132 Pearl Street, running through the block to 96 and 98 Water Street, on a plot 40 by 112. The buyer is the State Steamship Company, which will occupy the property. The structure is in the heart of the shipping district and was held at $350,000 by the sellers. Cammann, Voorhees & Floyd were the brokers in the deal.

J. S. Maxwell sold for the Thomas McNeil estate 189 Chambers Street, a four-story building, on lot 20 by 100, between Washington and West Streets, carrying possession May 1. The buyer is Isaac Goldfarb. The property was held at $30,000 and has not changed hands in forty-nine years. Negotiations are pending for a resale.

Frederick Brown bought from the estate of Newbold Edgar 870 Broadway, with an "L" to 30 East Eighteenth Street, surrounding the southeast corner of those thoroughfares, two four-story buildings, 25 by 99.3 by 34.4 by 25, carrying possession May 1. The property had been in the possession of the selling family for seventy years. Cammann, Voorhees & F loydand Spotts & Starr were the brokers in the deal.

Joseph P. Day negotiated the resale of the eight-story loft building at 10 and 12 Vandewater Street, held at $90,000, for Frederick Brown to J. Mendlowitch.

The Cruikshank Company has sold for William W. D. Kilpatrick to a client for investment 830 Greenwich Street and 68 Horatio Street, the southwest corner, a three-story brick building with extension, on plot 22.1 on Greenwich Street by 74.10 on Horatio Street.

DOHERTY BILL OPPOSED.

Firemen and Patrolmen Against Measure Favoring Inspectors.

Assemblyman Leo V. Doherty, author of the bill which would make permanent the present rank of the police inspectors without civil service examination, met a joint committee representing the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association and the Uniformed Firemen's Association last night. The patrolmen and firemen at the meeting, which was held in the rooms of the two organizations in the Pulitzer Building, told the Assemblymen that they were bitterly opposed to the bill. Some of them were not opposed to permanency in rank, but were against the measure because it did not given all the Captains a chance to compete in an examination.

SISTERS DESCRIBE 10 YEARS IN ASYLUM

WANT AN AUTOMOBILE RIDE

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., March 19.—The State Hospital Commission today requested the Clerk of the Special Term of the Supreme Court here today to furnish a transcript of the evidence taken in the hearing yesterday when Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins ordered two aged sisters, Misses Phoebe and Ada Brush, released from the Kings Park State Hospital for the Insane on the ground that they were illegally detained.

The information of the court officials was that the commission intended to investigate the charge that the two aged women had been held as lunatics for ten years, although the original commitment papers empowered the authorities at the hospital to detain the patients no longer than ten days. Evidence given at the hearing on the writ of habeas corpus was that no other papers had been taken out in the case and that even the original papers were faulty.

Unmindful of the impending legal moves for the dismissal of the committee in control of their estate of about $30,000, the two sisters spent the first day of their freedom at the home of their benefactor, Mrs. Florence Ferguson, at Eastview, near Tarrytown. It was she who engaged the lawyer in efforts to free them on a writ of habeas corpus after she had formed the opinion during her services as nurse at the Kings Park Hospital that the sisters were sane and were illegally detained.

Supremely happy in her first day of freedom from the restraints imposed upon lunatics, this gray-haired woman of 68 years had no word of criticism even for those whom she suspects of having unworthy motives in causing her commital as an insane person. Happy, too, but still depressed with "asylum shyness," was her sister Ada, 56 years old, who has been Miss Phoebe's constant companion during this decade in "this prison for criminals whose only crime is that of being in somebody's way"—to use the words of Miss Phoebe.

Both sisters say that they intend to spend the rest of their lives as the guests of Mrs. Ferguson, whose husband is an attendant at the Westchester County Hospital at Eastview. Mrs. Ferguson says they are entirely welcome to stay as long as they wish, and she reiterates her opinion that the two aged sisters are not afflicted with paranoia or any other form of insanity.

Miss Phoebe Brush said that as far as she could remember the estate lawfully belonging to her and her sister is about $25,000 or $30,000, including a house near Huntington, L. I., and some other property, part of which has been in the possession of her family since Colonial days. Douglas Conklin of Huntington is the committee of management for the estate, but within a few days the lawyer who obtained the habeas corpus writ for the freedom of the sisters will move in the Supreme Court for the dismissal of the committee and the restoration of control to the women.

Laughing at her own uncouth attire, furnished at the insane asylum and made even more grotesque by the addition of old articles of her own, Miss Phoebe said that within a few days she and her sister would "go shopping in the city." Until the courts award her possession of the estate, she said, she would be without money of her own, but she added that Mrs. Ferguson had offered to lend her enough to buy new apparel. She said that she and her sister also wanted a ride in an automobile as one of their first experiences.

"We were lonesome at first," she said, referring to the confinement in the asylum, "but, luckily for me and my sister, we were both declared insane together. We have always been companions, and now the court releases us together. We have often wondered if a lot more of the persons in the insane asylums are not sane and illegally detained as we were. Some of them certainly look and act more sane than some of the persons I've seen who are considered competent and normal. I've learned just today that you call these legally sane 'insane persons' by the term 'nuts.' We never heard the word 'nut' until we were released.

"We were in good health most of the time. I felt my sight gradually getting worse in the hospital, as did my sister. We did some reading, but knitted and sewed most of the time."

MARSHALL WANTS FREE DELEGATES

His Secretary Says He Will Release Those Elected if He Wins Indiana.

MACON, Ga., March 19.—Vice President Marshall believes uninstructed delegates should be sent to the Democratic National Convention, according to a letter from Mark Thistlethwaite, his private secretary, received here today by friends who desired to enter his name in the Georgia preferential primaries.

Declaring Mr. Marshall was not a candidate, the letter said:

"He hopes that the San Francisco convention will be made up largely of uninstructed delegates, so that the party may at the time of the convention do what appears to be best for itself and for the country."

A petition to put Mr. Marshall's name on the ballot in Indiana had been filed, the letter continued, only because another petition had been filed in the Vice President's home State.

"If that petition is withdrawn," the letter said, "the petition for the Vice President likewise will be withdrawn. If a contest is held in that State, and the Vice President is successful, he will promptly release the delegates chosen for him."

ASK ROOSEVELT APPROVAL.

Charles F. Winder, Chairman of the Roosevelt Central Park Memorial League and Managing Director of the Sixth Avenue Board of Trade, said yesterday that the league's project for a Roosevelt statue at the proposed Sixth Avenue entrance to Central Park would depend upon the approval of the Roosevelt family, but that in no case would the plan for a roadway and park entrance at the head of the avenue be abandoned.

Mr. Winder explained that correspondence with the present Theodore Roosevelt gave him the impression that the family approved of the memorial. Since the late President's widow has expressed her disapproval, he added, an effort would be made to explain the idea more fully to members of the family and to win their approbation, but nothing would be done contrary to their wishes.

STRIKE CUTS FOOD RECEIPTS

Prolongation of the strike of coastwise longshoremen will cause the city to face a famine in vegetables and fruits from Southern ports, with a consequent rise in prices to almost prohibitive figures, was the opinion expressed yesterday by persons in close touch with market conditions.

Two attempts made yesterday to settle the strike, which today enters its second week, proved futile. The National Adjustment Commission, headed by Professor William Z. Ripley of Harvard, as Chairman, discussed the situation informally, as that body does not now have jurisdiction in the case. Federal and State conciliators met with the longshoremen, and they were likewise unable to bring about an adjustment.

Present at the meeting of the National Adjustment Commission were E. A. Kelly, Assistant General Manager of the Clyde and Mallory Lines; L. W. Hildrum, port agent of the Ocean Steamship Company, representing the steamship companies, and T. V. O'Connor, President, and Joseph Ryan, Vice President, of the International Longshoremen's Association. Professor Ripley represents the public on the commission.

The crux of the strike of the longshoremen, Professor Ripley said, was that the longshoremen had broken loose from their leaders, irritated by the differential between coastwise and deep sea work. He said that the coastwise transporters could not afford to pay an increase, as they were losing as much money as the deep sea lines are making.

T. V. O'Connor denied that the strikers had broken loose from their leaders. Professor Ripley returned to Boston last night.

It was learned from Mr. Kelly that at this season of the year vegetables and fruits from the South constitute a considerable proportion of the cargoes of the coastwise lines from Southern ports, and this has been entirely cut off. Tomatoes, especially, are brought to New York in great quantities at this season of the year. A little later various other kinds of vegetables are handled by the Clyde and Mallory Lines. Strawberries, celery, eggplant, lettuce, beans, cabbage, peanuts and rice are also brought here in large quantites by the coastwise steamers.

Colonel M. J. Reagan and John J. Bealin of the State Board of Mediation and Conciliation and General McWade, Conciliator of the United States Department of Labor, met yesterday morning with Mr. O'Connor and delegates from the longshoremen's locals in Mr. O'Connor's office, in an effort to bring about a settlement. Mr. Bealin said that no progress was made toward a settlement except that the longshoremen agreed to leave to Mr. O'Connor the matter of making settlement.

WANT AMERICAN LABOR IN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 19.—The governing body of international labor set up the peace of Versailles will meet in the House of Lords next week to prepare for its next annual conference and to consider the question of the labor mission to be sent to investigate Russian conditions.

Albert Thomas, President of the governing body, expressed to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent today the great regret of himself and his colleagues that no representative of the United States would be present at the meeting.

"The workers of Europe," he said, "have by no means forgotten the practical aid they received during the war both from the American Government and American workers, and they had hoped that they would still be able to count on their co-operation and assistance in solving the numerous social problems with which Europe is now confronted."

Thomas then discussed the resolution recently passed by the New York Republican State Committee in which the fear was expressed that the international labor conferences were likely to draw the United States into international Socialism.

"I think," he said, "that this resolution overlooked the method of appointment of the conference delegates. Half of them are to be the nominees of Governments, a quarter of employers and only a quarter of workers. Surely there is sufficient guarantee in this against any undue socialistic tendencies.

"Moreover, the resolutions adopted at the Washington conference were not socialistic. They recommended generally accepted remedies for social troubles that undoubtedly needed reforms. We earnestly hope that American labor will join our councils before long, for all countries are interested in the international labor movement, but it cannot be a success as long as the United States stays out."

Free Columbia University Boxer.

A charge of homicide, lodged against Andrew Lockett, a Columbia University student, when Milton Sternfeld died suddenly after a recent boxing match between the two young men, was dismissed in Washington Heights Court yesterday upon presentation of a certificate from the Medical Examiner's office that Sternfield died of a brain hemorrhage, for which Lockett was not responsible.

$4,300 BOND THEFT; TWO YOUTHS HELD

Messenger, 17, and Chauffeur, 20, Said to Have Confessed —$3,000 Recovered.

ONE GIVEN TO MAN TO SELL

Kenneth Dayton Cooper, seventeen years old, of 275 Eighty-sixth Street, Brooklyn, head messenger for W. J. Wollman & Co., 120 Broadway, and Frank Murphy, twenty years old, chauffeur, of 511 Seventy-second Street, Brooklyn, were locked up in Police Headquarters last night on charges of aiding in the theft of $4,300 worth of Liberty bonds from Cooper's employers.

According to Detectives Maringlo, Brown and Mayer, the youths admitted their connection with the thefts of the Liberty bonds and Murphy gave Detective Maringlo a note to his mother in his home in Brooklyn through which three $1,000 Liberty bonds were found under a rug in his room.

The arrest of the youths followed the appearance yesterday afternoon of Miss Noornie Gladstone of 493 Hegeman Avenue, Brooklyn, in the office of John Muir & Co., brokers, at 65 Broadway. Miss Gladstone told a member of the brokerage firm she had been sent by her employers, the Fifth Avenue Bond Company, 27 Fifth Avenue, Brooklyn, to sell a $1,000 Liberty bond, which the firm purchased the day before from a man who described himself as William Penn, of 1,000 Flatbush Avenue.

It is alleged that young Cooper gave Raymond Regan, another messenger, a bundle of bonds to be delivered to Edwin Weisler & Co., 25 Broad Street. After young Regan delivered the bonds it was discovered that four bonds of $1,000 denomination were missing. The detectives decided they disappeared before young Regan started to deliver the bundle of bonds, and they took young Cooper to Police Headquarters where, they say, he confessed and implicated Murphy. The latter is said to have confessed giving one bond to Penn to sell. They will be arraigned in the Tombs Court this morning.

VICTORY FOR OPEN SHOP.

New Jersey Court Refuses to Sanction Union Labor Only.

Organized labor lost another battle in the New Jersey Court of Chancery yesterday when Vice Chancellor Backes, at Newark, decided that he would not enjoin the contractors who are erecting a factory for the Atlantic Smelting and Refining Company of Brooklyn on the Newark meadows, from employing non-union labor.

The suit was brought by the smelting concern to force the Lehigh Structural Steel Company and the Donnell-Zane Company of New York to carry out an alleged agreement to employ none but union labor on the job.

Vice Chancellor Backes said he considered such an agreement or contract contrary to public policy, the same stand taken by Vice Chancellor Foster a few weeks ago in enjoining union chauffeurs and drivers from attempting to have their employers sign a contract to hire only union labor.

ACT TO CUT CLOTHES COSTS

Retailers and Makers Agree on Uniform Production to Check Waste.

CHICAGO, March 19.—Uniform production throughout the year in the manufacture of clothing as a means of stabilizing conditions in the clothing industry and of preventing further price advances was approved today at a joint convention of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and the National Association of Clothing Manufacturers.

Speakers said that uniform production would eliminate losses consequent to seasons of nonproduction in the clothing industry, a condition which was declared a contributing factor to present prices.

The elimination of all possible waste in distribution was urged. A committee representing wholesale and retail clothiers was appointed to study the distribution problem and to recommend a uniform system.

ARMED MEN ROB PAWNSHOP.

Escape with $5,000 in Diamond Jewelry After Daylight Holdup.

Five young men entered the loan and jewelry shop of Edward Berger on the second floor at 747 Sixth Avenue in mid-afternoon yesterday, forced Louis Liss, Berger's clerk, and another man into a workshop in the rear by menacing them with pistols, bound the two men with ropes which they unwound from under their coats, smashed the glass in a showcase and escaped with diamond jewelry valued at about $5,000. Liss saved as much more by slamming shut the safe door. Berger was absent at the time.

Detectives are hunting for the robbers.

Kahn Names a Sub-Committee Largely Favorable to the Plan.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Chairman Kahn of the House Military Committee today selected a sub-committee to frame legislation providing for compulsory universal military training, a majority of which is considered favorable to the adoption of a training plan.

Representatives Dent of Alabama and Quin of Mississippi, Democrats, are the only selections regarded as unalterably opposed to compulsory training. The other selections were Representatives Kahn of California, Greene of Vermont, Sanford of New York, McKenzie of Illinois, Republicans, and Olney of Massachusetts, Democrat. These committeemen recently approved adoption of a training plan, excepting Mr. McKenzie, who opposed immediate action.

Before framing a training bill, the committee will make an exhaustive investigation, Mr. Kahn announced, and its report is not expected to come before Congress until next session.

F. M. LOWRY FOUND DEAD.

Wife Identifies Body of New Yorker Discovered Near Niagara Falls.

NIAGARA FALLS, March 19.—A body identified by his wife today as that of Frank M. Lowry, of New York, General Manager of the Dominion Gas Company, was found in a pond near Lewiston late yesterday.

A verdict of "suicide while mentally deranged" was rendered by the Coroner's jury tonight. There were no evidences of foul play.

On Tuesday night Lowry telephoned to his wife from Buffalo canceling plans for a visit to New York. At that time, she said, he complained of constant pain in his head. Another message which he sent to his wife from Niagara Falls on Wednesday caused her to begin a search for him.

Lowry, it was said by his business associates, had plenty of money, and they knew of no motive which would lead him to take his life.

COLBY'S NOMINATION FAVORABLY REPORTED

Senate Expected to Confirm Him as Secretary of State Early Next Week.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee reported favorably today the nomination of Bainbridge Colby to be Secretary of State, and it is expected this action will lead to confirmation by the Senate early next week. Chairman Lodge of the committee was understood to have planned to call the nomination up Monday, but it appeared possible action might be delayed by the aftermath of the treaty fight.

The committee, which held extensive hearings before it acted, did not record its vote favoring Mr. Colby's confirmation by the Senate, but some members reserved the right to discuss the nomination when it reached the Senate floor.

In the House Representative Dallinger, Republican, of Massachusetts introduced a bill authorizing the Assistant Secretary of State to sign passports, saying that he had been informed that 700 were held up at the department until a Secretary should take office, he alone having power to issue such identifications. In view of the probable early confirmation of Mr. Colby, however, it was not expected the Dallinger bill would be pressed.

Haven't you heard of it? It's the wonderful place that Brer Rabbit, the Easter Santa Claus, has planned all for you, and Saturday is the special time he's set aside for seeing all the kiddies and asking them what toys he's to bring them for Easter.

Real Live Rabbits, and Ducks and Chickens, live in Bunnyland, and there's a beautiful Easter Egg Shop that you go into over a bridge—like the children in the picture.

There Are Easter Baskets for Sister in the Easter Egg Shop—such pretty ones. Some of them are filled with cunning dishes—and there are heaps of surprises, too, 50c to $20.00.

Bunnies, nice fluffy cuddly ones—white or brown—whichever you like, $1.25 to $40.00.

And Oh! The Wonderful Toys for Buddy and Little Sister, Scooters, and Automobiles and Velocipedes. Hand cars, and wagons and doll-carriages, just the kind of thing they'll want now that the snow is melting, and playing outdoors is the nicest thing in the world. Specially priced, too, $2.95 to $30.00.

Five "Quarter-Quality" Cigars for 35¢!

"LISTEN, New Yorkers! I'm going to save you money! If you're paying high prices for your cigars simply because you think real quality doesn't come any cheaper, its time you tried In-B-Tweens.

"In-B-Tweens cost less because they're smaller—that's the only difference. In-B-Tweens are actually 'The Four Best Inches of a 5c Cigar.'

"No matter how hurried you are, you've always time to finish an In-B-Tween. I'm long enough to give you a satisfying smoke, and short enough to prevent waste. That's because I'm rolled from the sweet, tender baby leaves of prime Havana Tobacco."
